HOOVER TO ASK PRIVATE FUNDS IN CRIME QUIZ

Wickersham Group Task Not to Be Limited, President Says.

STATEMENT REPLIES TO SLASH BY SENATE

Dry Law Prisoners Only 30 Per Cent of Jail Total, He Adds.

COMMISSION AGREES TO CONTINUE STUDY

Request Made at Conference In White House; Sum of $100,000 Needed.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover, whom many observers see as now beating his way out of the valley into which the Senate had pitched him, threw another and more effective shaft at that body yesterday. It was a dart loaded with ridicule and calculated to irritate the senatorial ribs.

The Senate brought it on by adopting the Glass amendment to the deficiency bill cutting down the appropriation of the National Law Enforcement Commission to $50,000 and specifying that the commission's work should be devoted solely to prohibition investigation.

Not Depending on Money.

Whereupon, the President called Chairman Wickersham and his colleagues over to the White House and talked with them and then told the newspapermen that the commission did not depend on Congress for money; that the investigation it had been making into general law enforcement was important and that it would go on, Congress notwithstanding.

After all, he said, the commission is composed of eminent citizens who are working solely in a desire to render public service, and men of that type are not to be disheartened by lack of congressional appropriations. Ample funds for the continuance of their work will be forthcoming, the President said, from private sources.

What private sources are in mind was not made known. It was recalled, though, that several months ago the President announced that an unnamed donor had given $500,000, or some such fund, for a presidential commission to study the youth of the land.

Clash With Senate Possible.

There is much harping on the contention that prohibition is responsible for the Nation's lawlessness, but the President said that 70 per cent of the persons confined in Federal penitentiaries have no relation to prohibition, so therefore the problem is at least 70 per cent something other than prohibition. Furthermore, he said, 5,600 persons were sent to Federal bastilles last year as compared with 1,300 the previous two years. Therefore he thinks it essential that the commission continue its general study.

Of course, he may have trouble with the Senate with his plan. There have been squalls between Presidents and the Senate before on commissions with which the Senate has nothing to do.

Economic Body Functions.

But such commissions as that one on economic trends which Mr. Hoover set up when he was Secretary of Commerce and which is still functioning have never been questioned.

And it is hard to see how the Senate can do anything in this instance except to withdraw the $50,000, which it appropriated for the continuance of a prohibition investigation, in which case the President's utterance yesterday would prove to be a $50,000 one, but such Senate action would seem to have no more effect in view of the determination to carry on.

Of course, a commission functioning in defiance of Congress this way would not be likely to have much influence in having its recommendations enacter into law.

Senator Jones, of Washington, who tried to get the $250,000 appropriation for the commission and who was voted down, 35 to 30, on a reconsidered vote, having won the first time, said he did not think there was any questioning the legality of the President's plan. He said, however, that it was "humiliating" to the Senate for the President to have to do this.

Acting in Two Capacities.

The President pointed out that the commission would separate its prohibition work from that to be supported by private funds. This would seem to make it an official agency in one phase and a private one in another.

In the Bingham-Eyanson case a Federal statute was cited making it

President Hoover Will Receive Southern Cross Fliers Monday

HUSTON RETIREMENT AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT

Call for Party Conference Revives Speculation on G. O. P. Chairman.

FESS' NAME MENTIONED

(Associated Press.)

A call issued yesterday by Claudius Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, for a conference of party leaders here July 7, revived speculation over his probable early retirement.

The speculation included discussion over a sucessor to Mr. Huston and the name of Senator Fess, of Ohio, came prominently into the talk in the inner circle of Republicans.

The announcement by Mr. Huston of the call for a party meeting merely stated:

"There are some matters of importance concerning the forthcoming campaign to bring up on which I prefer to have your counsel and advice."

It is known that President Hoover has been looking over the field of prospective chairmen in view of the general belief that Mr. Huston intends to resign at an early date.

It is believed that Senator Fess is regarded favorably by him, although several names are known to be under

Los Angeles Rips Loose From Mast

Two Marines Badly Injured in Five-Hour Battle to Tie Dirigible.

Lakehurst, N. J., June 27 (A.P.).—Two marines were severely shaken up and several others were badly bruised when the naval dirigible Los Angeles broke loose from its mooring mast while attempting to land today.

A taut cable, which snapped under the strain of wind started the trouble. The entire personnel of the station was called to cling to the ropes and hold the ship down. After a five-hour battle the dirigible was secured to the mast.

Last night the dirigible went 150 miles out to sea to avoid a thunder storm.

Transatlantic Aviators to Be Honor Guests at British Embassy.

Crossing Sea Was Just Job of Work, Opinion of Kingsford-Smith.

Capt. Charles E. Kingsford-Smith and the crew of the Southern Cross will arrive in Washington Monday to be received by Pre dent Hoover and informally entertained by the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay.

The flier who recently added the Atlantic Ocean flight to his conquest of the Pacific is expected to land his famous plane on Bolling Field at 11 o'clock Monday morning. From the field Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his three companions will go the British Embassy, where they will be guests during their Washington visit.

President Hoover will receive the party at 12:30 o'clock. Arrangements had not been completed yesterday, but it was expected that several luncheons and ceremonies would be tendered the airmen before they leave Washington for Oakland, Calif., the starting point of their around-the-world flight.

Michael MacWhite, Minister of the Irish Free State, will accompany the party to the White House.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Flying across oceans is still something to make ordinary earthbound folk applaud and speak in glowing terms of heroic courage, but to the crew of the Southern Cross it is "just a job of work."

Squadron Leader Charles Kingsford-Smith and the three men with whom he made the perilous westward crossing of the north Atlantic in the same plane in which he flew the Pacific two years ago were welcomed as heroes at City Hall today and at a luncheon were presented medals of valor.

"It's awfully nice to get these medals," the Australian flier said, "but I don't know why they should be called medals of valor. There wasn't any valor about what we did. It was just a job of work we had set ourselves and we did it."

Kingsford-Smith then protested against all the credit being showered on him, saying that four men had been in the ship and all had played equally important roles. He then introduced the members of his crew, the bad-weather pilot from the Dutch East Indies, Evert Van Dyk, whom he

NEARBY MARYLAND TYPHUS KILLS TWO

Fatal Cases Raise Total of Deaths to Three; Ten Others Have Fever.

HEALTH OFFICERS ACT

Typhus fever, breaking out in new spots in the Washington area, has claimed the life of a victim in Prince Georges County, another in Charles County, Md., and a third in Virginia, to mount fatalities in this immediate section to three during the last few weeks.

A cryptic announcement of the two Maryland deaths, unembellished by names, sex, residence or other details regarding either person, was made yesterday in Baltimore by Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the Maryland State Department of Health.

The third death from the fever was that of Harry Gasson, 55 years old, an employe of the War Department, which occurred on May 25 at his home on Seminary Hill, Fairfax County, Va., on the edge of Alexandria. The actual cause of death escaped public attention until the fact was confirmed by the United States Public Health Service. Only one other person in nearby Virginia is known to have contracted the ailment. He is a 5-year-old child at Fort Humphreys, Va.

Ernest Pearson, 29 years old, a cattle buyer of near Dawsonville, Montgomery County, Md., meanwhile lay critically ill from the malady last night in the Frederick City Hospital in Frederick, Md., where he was taken about two weeks ago from his home. His name was made public last night by Dr. William T. Pratt, county health officer, with offices at Rockville.

In addition to the fatality in Prince Georges County, another person is afflicted in the nearby Maryland county, although no name there has been made public.

The death in Prince Georges County apparently occurred suddenly, for Dr. Riley made no mention of this case Sunday when he listed the Charles County case in "a fairly general mild outbreak" of the disease in Maryland.

Spread of the fever to Prince Georges, Montgomery and Queen Anne Counties has increased the six cases then made public in Maryland to a total of nine sufferers, exclusive of the two deaths, with the

FIGHT ON LUMP SUM LIABLE TO HALT PAY ROLL

Senate Hints at Balking Adjournment Until House Gives In.

NOTICE GIVEN DURING MEASURE DISCUSSION

U. S. Employes May Go Without Salaries if Deadlock Holds.

$10,000,000 CALLED MINIMUM AMOUNT

Warning That Capital May Go "Broke" Sounded in Talks on Project.

The struggle at the Capitol over the $44,000,000 District appropriation bill took a dramatic turn late yesterday when senators threatened to block an adjournment and to keep the House here until the bill is passed.

Should the session be prolonged, senators would suffer less, for they must stay here anyway to take up the London Naval Treaty.

Representatives, on the other hand, are extremely anxious to get back home and begin their campaigns for reelection. At least, most of them are.

Notice Served on House.

In threatening to block adjournment, the Senate in effect served notice to the House that it must recede from its uncompromising stand on the issue of Federal contribution toward support of the National Capital.

The House has insisted that the contribution be continued at $9,000,000, and the Senate has insisted that it be $12,000,000 or at least $10,000,000, and that divergence now has the bill in a deadlock.

While the debate was raging in the Senate, Walter Newton, secretary to President Hoover, was on the other side of the Capitol, talking to various members about the District bill.

Simmons Puts Off Action.

Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, chief House conferee on the District bill, again put off the task of calling up the joint resolution to continue the current appropriation.

If this resolution is adopted, the District would get about $10,000,000 less than it would under the 1931 bill, and the $9,000,000 lump sum would be continued.

The first suggestion that the session be continued until the 1931 bill is disposed of came from Senator Wesley Jones (Republican), of Washington, chairman of the appropriations committee. Concurrence in his view came quickly.

"Let Others Stay, Too."

"Let me suggest," said Senator Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, "that we have got to stay here anyway. What is the trouble about making somebody else give us the pleasure of their company? The Senate has got to stay here to consider the London naval treaty, so we shall stay. Let the others stay here, too."

Senator Simeon D. Fess (Republican), Ohio, whip of his party, agreed that the House should be made to compromise on the bill. But what, he wanted to know, would happen if the House refused to yield?

"The District's activities will stop," replied Senator Jones, "but, as I suggested, if the Senate is going to yield on the $9,000,000, we ought to do it on the regular appropriation bill taking care of all the activities of the District."

City May Go "Broke."

If neither the 1931 bill nor the resolution continuing the current appropriation is passed by Tuesday, the city technically will be "broke." Of

POLICE TRACE OWNER OF BAKER DEATH GUN, IDENTIFIED BY TESTS

Dr. Wilmer Souder, ballistics expert of the Bureau of Standards, whose tests identified definitely the Baker murder pistol.

Ballistics Expert Proves Pistol One That Slew Navy Clerk.

SHOTS FIRED FROM IT LIKE FATAL BULLETS

Weapon's Recovery Kept Secret by Authorities Several Weeks.

NAME OF POSSESSOR REFUSED BY SHELBY

International Man Hunt for Barrere, Painter, Is Given Impetus.

Belatedly announcing the recovery of the gun that killed Mary Baker and knowledge of the man that purchased it, police authorities yesterday were pushing an international manhunt that they believe will lead to the early arrest of the one who slew the attractive Navy Department clerk on the night of April 11 and threw her bullet-torn body in a culvert near Arlington Cemetery.

Considerably perturbed over public knowledge of the gun's recovery—a fact that authorities have zealously kept secret for several weeks—Inspector William S. Shelby refused to reveal the discoverer, the owner or circumstances surrounding the weapon's possession by the police.

He said that he was "reasonably convinced" that the gun recovered was the one that had killed Miss Baker, and it was learned last night that Dr. Wilmer Souder, ballistics expert of the Bureau of Standards, had conducted experiments which definitely identified the gun as that used in the murder. Comparison between bullets fired from the gun and those taken from the body of Miss Baker left no room for doubt, it was stated.

Fort Myer Man Not Informer.

Although authorities refused even to hint at the identity of the man who is supposed to have turned the weapon over to police, it was definitely stated that the informer was not a Fort Myer soldier, as rumored. Provost officers at Fort Myer confirmed this statement.

Reticence concerning the discoverer of the gun and the spot where it was supposedly found strengthened the theory that the slayer had turned the pistol over to a friend, who later gave it to the police, after exacting a promise that the news would be withheld until the suspect was safely behind the bars.

"We can not reveal the identity of the owner of the gun or the place in which it was found," Inspector Shelby said. "As it is, some one has talked too much, and I am afraid that the release of this information will greatly impede the police investigation of the murder."

Department of Justice officials, who are understood to have first received the gun, refused to discuss the incident.

Gloth Remains Silent.

Arlington County authorities also refused to reveal details concerning the pistol's recovery. Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth confirmed the discovery, but would not comment on the suspected owner or the manner in which the weapon came into the possession of the police.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields, of Arlington County, said that he was sure the weapon had not been found in his territory, as he knew nothing about it.

A pistol was found near the Alexandria Station a month ago by two Arlington County policemen, but it was of a different caliber from that with which Miss Baker was killed.

Since Monday of this week an intensive search, called the most widespread man hunt ever attempted by District officials, has been under way for Herman H. Barrere, itinerant

SENATE VOTES LAST OF DEFICIENCY BILLS

Many Sums Added to Care for City and National Emergencies.

HIGHWAY PROVISION OUT

The second deficiency bill, the last of the big supply bills, was passed by the Senate yesterday. In passing it, the Senate added many sums to take care of emergency projects, both locally and nationally.

At the last minute, Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, added an item of $1,500,000 for the purchase of the Vollbehr collection of fifteenth century books for the Library of Congress.

Earlier Senator Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, had tacked on an item of $250,000 for a subway to take the place of the Chestnut street grade crossing.

The House provision for $1,000,000 to start work on the George Washington Memorial highway was left out of the bill. As the measure must yet go to a Senate and House conference, however, it may be put back in.

From a local standpoint, the most important provision in the bill is that which authorizes the Treasury Department to enter into contracts for six big Federal building projects, the cost of which ultimately will exceed $35,000,000.

These include a new Postoffice Building, a Department of Justice building, a Department of Labor building, an Interstate Commerce Commission building, a connecting wing between these two, a Public Health Service building, and remodeling of the State, War and Navy building. Also $2,000,000 is provided for land in the area below Pennsylvania avenue, where most of the new buildings will be erected.

The bill also includes money for a radio broadcasting station for the Police Department, for the maintenance of the Arlington Memorial Bridge, and for the new Commerce building.

Of national interest is the item of $10,660,000 to start construction of the Boulder dam on the Colorado River, and the reduced item of $50,000 for the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission.

Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, added two items, $5,000,000 for a new postoffice site and $2,450,000 for a new Federal Court building in New York City.

Other items added were $130,000 for the relief of officers and employes in the foreign service; $250,000 for

Santiago, Chile, June 27 (A.P.).—Reliable advices from Bolivia report that the country's large cities, Oruro, Cochabamba, Potosi and Sucre, the nominal capital, are in the hands of the insurgents led by Gen. Blanco Galindo.

Galindo is said to enjoy the support of Bolivia's leading citizens, and definite developments are looked for tomorrow, with the situation generally regarded as clearing.

The cabinet of ex-President Siles, which had been functioning as a council of state, resigned Wednesday.

Lima, Peru, June 27 (A.P.).—A special dispatch from Arica, Chile, today said "it is insistently reported here that troops commanded by Gen. Blanco Galindo, chief of the Bolivian insurgent movement at Oruro, had captured La Paz after threatening the military directorate with an assault if his demands were not satisfied.

"The insurgents are reported to have entered La Paz at 4:30 p. m."

Amarillo, Tex., June 27 (A.P.).—What police believe was an infernal machine killed Mrs. A. D. Payne, wife of an Amarillo attorney, and maimed and probably fatally injured her 14-year-old son as they were driving in their automobile toward the business part of the city today.

Mrs. Payne's body was blown to pieces. The boy's left side, which was next to his mother, who was driving, was mangled, his left leg and left arm having been almost torn from his body.

Payne had walked to his office, almost 3 miles from his home, and left the automobile for his family's use as they shopped and completed final plans for a vacation they were soon to start. He said he could ascribe no

Wise Declares Prohibition Modification Seems Certain

Rabbi Explains Fight on Resolutions Calling for Repeal.

Providence, R. I., June 27 (A.P.).—In what he said was the most comprehensive statement he had ever made about prohibition, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York City, declared here today that "we have now to choose between enforcement, which, alas, seems impossible, and modification, which, alas, seems inevitable."

Rabbi Wise made his statement in explanation of his opposition yesterday to the introduction of a resolution urging repeal of the eighteenth amendment before the forty-first annual conference of the central conference of American rabbies. 12,500 Circulars Sent Out.

Police have distributed 12,500 circulars bearing a photograph and description of Barrere throughout the United States, and a lookout has been radioed to ships at sea, in the possibility that he may have attempted to flee the country.

Department of Justice operatives some time ago trailed Barrere to Philadelphia, where they learned his address by intercepting a letter to his wife, but he eluded them there and was later traced to New Orleans, where is is believed he may still be in hiding, or that he may have embarked on a vessel clearing from that port.

According to a story told to the police by a woman shortly after the slaying, Barrere told her that he knew a Miss Baker who worked at the Navy Department. The woman told Lieut. Edward Reilly, chief of the homicide squad, that when she saw Barrere after the killing she asked him if the victim was the girl he knew, and he replied, "You had better keep your mouth shut."

Fond of Feminine Company.

The circular broadcast by the police includes in its description of Barrere the information that he was known to be "fond of women."

Meanwhile Howard L. Brewster, Army private, who confessed and subsequently denied killing Miss Baker, is still confined in the Arlington County Jail, where he was placed under a warrant issued by Arlington County authorities charging him with the murder.

Arlington County officials have indicated that Brewster will be held until a thorough investigation is made of the conflicting stories he has told.

A man, unidentified by the police, was wounded in the leg.

Tardieu Again Wins In Confidence Vote

Ballot of 325 to 260 Ends Debate on Tragedies in Indo-China.

Paris, June 27 (A.P.).—For the second time in two days Premier Andre Tardieu this afternoon found his customary governmental majority reinforced sufficiently to carry a vote of confidence. Yesterday the premier won, 330 to 262, after Socialists had attacked the government and accused it of depleting the treasury.

Today's vote, carried by 325 votes to 260, ended the interpellations on the recent tragedies in French Indo-China, resulting from an uprising of the natives. A number of French officers and soldiers were slain and some of the rebels later were executed.

The opposition endeavored to show that the situation was due to a lack of liberalism of the government in the colony. A resolution presented by M. Baladier, of the radical group, proposed the appointment of a special investigating committee, but Premier Tardieu rejected the proposal and called for the vote of confidence.

Gov. Shafer Increases Big Majority; Congress Members Win.

Fargo, N. Dak., June 27 (A.P.).—After leading all State officers to renomination on the Republican ticket in Wednesday's primary, Gov. George F. Shafer, independent, continued tonight to amass one of the largest majorities in the State's history over E. H. Brant, Nonpartisan League candidate.

In addition to renomination of all State oficers, North Dakota's three representatives in Congress held leads sufficent to make their victories certain. They were O. B. Burtness, First District; Thomas Hall, Second, and J. H. Sinclair, Third. Returns from 1,733 of the State's 2,228 precincts gave Shafer 89,931 and Brant 54,945.

A referendum for Sunday movies was defeated, but a proposal to increase the gasoline tax from 3 to 4 cents a gallon remained in doubt with 1,266 precincts voting: Against, 50,377; for, 47,629.

COMMITTEE TO URGE PENSION BILL TODAY

Watson Predicts Favorable Report on Measure in Its Present Form.

LEGION ASKS CHANGES

(Associated Press.)

Committee approval of the new House measure authorizing disability pensions for veterans of the World War was confidently predicted last night by Senator Watson, of Indiana, acting chairman of the Senate finance committee.

Director Hines, of the Veterans' Bureau, indorsed the bill before the committee during its day of hearings and his statement was regarded as giving full approval of the Hoover administration.

J. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, in a telegram read to the committee urged a speedy report of the measure with minor amendments.

The committee will vote today. Democrats are prepared to ask for an increase in the pension rates to provide for a $60 maximum instead of the $40 limit in the House bill. Spanish War veterans get the $60 maximum.

An attempt will be made in the Senate today to take up the veterans bill immediately, but its passage is not believed likely before Monday.

Wednesday Adjournment Seen.

Meanwhile, congressional leaders tentatively fixed next Wednesday as the adjournment date. Some still are hopeful of getting away sooner.

"We will without a doubt report the veterans bill today in practically the form in which it was passed by the House," said Senator Watson.

Director Hines told the committee that the measure would involve total expenditure next year of $31,000,000. He estimated that the pension provision would apply to 156,000 veterans now without Federal compensation. He estimated the total cost for the first year at $25,281,000.

In addition, he submitted estimates for the next four years: 1932, 289,000 veterans at a cost of $55,289,000; 1933, 327,000 at $68,609,000; 1934, 354,000 at $74,404,000; 1935, 380,000 at $80,000,000.

Taylor Presents Telegram.

John Thomas Taylor, legislative spokesman for the American Legion, presented the telegram from Mr. Bodenhamer. The legion asked two amendments. One amendment would extend for a year the period within which insurance claims litigation may be initiated. It also asked that the office of comptroller of the Veterans Bureau be abolished.

Senator Watson believed that both of these amendments would be approved by the committee. Otherwise, he thought there were sufficient votes in the committee for the House bill.

Mr. Bodenhamer said that it was assumed that President Hoover indorsed the new bill. He called attention that the pension provision was a change of policy for the legion and he withheld comment on it.

"Undoubtedly," he continued, "this legislation will benefit thousands of disabled veterans whose disabilities have not proved service connected under existing law, but many of whom are entitled to the benefit of the doubt.

Appreciation of Legion.

"I request that you speak for me and assure the committee of our appreciation of their interest in this disabled legislation and urge it to report out immediately the bill with amendments suggested above, thus making possible the speedy enactment of this legislation into law.

"I am sure that veterans and the American people as a whole will be happy to see this immediate relief for our disabled. The legion is unselfish and sincere in its desire for speedy action."

Director Hines based his estimates on the presumption that the disability pensions would average about $18 a month.

Soup Bones at 10 Cents Return in Kansas City

Kansas City, Mo., June 27 (A.P.).—The dime soup bone is back. Retail meat prices had dropped to the point here today where the bargain-hunting housewife could purchase a bone for the soup pot at 10 cents in comparison with the price of a quarter not long ago.

The meat price to the consumer in Kansas City has dropped approximately 10 cents a pound over the entire range of beef cuts, reflecting the lower prices for live stock.

Ellsworth Agrees To Assist Wilkins

Man Who Flew Over Pole to Revisit North in Submarine.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Lincoln Ellsworth, explorer who flew over the North Pole in the dirigible Norge, in 1926, today confirmed an earlier statement by Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins that Mr. Ellsworth would join him in his project for submarine exploration of the Polar regions.

Mr. Ellsworth, who returned from Europe on the Mauretania, said he could not add anything to Capt. Wilkins' statement "because the immediate future is concerned with preparation for my 800-mile canoe journey into Central Labrador with Beekman Pool. We hope to get out before the freeze-up this autumn."

"But I can say this," he added, "I have faith in the submarine project and believe it will succeed."

State Department Refuses to Comment on Reply to Roumania.

(Associated Press.)

Official notification of the ascendance of Prince Carol to the Roumanian throne as King Carol II has been formally communicated to the State Department by Minister Davila, of Roumania.

The formal notification was contained in a note delivered by the minister at the direction of his government.

The State Department declined last night to make public the brief text of Secretary Stimson's reply acknowledging receipt of the Roumanian note. It is probable that the United States will send a special ambassador for the coronation ceremony.

LEAGUE ARMY TALK AT LONDON DENIED

Stimson and Adams Assert Secret Plan Was Not Referred To.

PAPER DATES FROM 1918

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Both Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Adams yesterday denied that the secret plan for the establishment of a League of Nations Army and Navy, on file in the Navy Department here, had been a subject of discussion at the London Naval Conference.

As indicated in The Post yesterday morning, the secret document relates to matters under consideration during the Wilson administration. The only mystery in connection with the paper, after yesterday's explanations, concerns the meaning of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke's definite statement last February that this secret document "deals with matters some of which are now under discussion at the Naval Conference at London."

Senator Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, went to the Navy Department early yesterday to ascertain the contents of the secret document. The senator felt less alarmed after he learned that the paper dated from 1918.

Secretary Stimson said yesterday that the document was not discussed at London. He disagreed with the statements made by Mr. Jahncke but volunteered no explanation of why the latter made the statements found in his letter to Representative McClintic of Oklahoma. That further details will be asked of Mr. Jahncke by the Senate foreign relations committee continues to be a probability.

Secretary Adams issued the following statement:

"The proposed plans for establishment of League of Nations army and navy is dated November 11, 1918.

"So far as this department knows it was prepared as part of the data to be taken to Paris for the conference which resulted in the Versailles treaty of peace.

"No one of our delegates to the London conference knew of the existence of this document and no such project was ever discussed at London.

"It has remained a secret document here of about twelve years, no doubt at the desire of those for whom it was prepared. As it has no possible bearing on the London conference or on the treaty now under consideration I see no reason for giving it out now."

Mr. Adams called attention to the annual report of former Secretary of the Navy Daniels of 1917 which contained references to "an international navy to keep the peace of the world."

According to Mr. Daniels, the United States would be ready to make full contribution to an international navy to enforce international decrees.

"To this international navy," the report continues, "composed of separate naval establishments of all nations, each country should contribute in proportion to its wealth and population or upon some plan to insure that no nation can safely challenge the decrees of the high international court."

This League of Nations idea, involving American participation in future international naval warfare to preserve peace in Europe and throughout the world, has been a subject of discussion at Geneva, Paris and London for the past dozen years. Prime Minister MacDonald hinted at a pooling of the American and British navies on several occasions prior to the London Conference. It has been further hinted by Mr. MacDonald that America could well afford to accept the British viewpoint respecting the future American cruiser program if Great Britain and the United States are to cooperate as partners in policing the seas whenever required by the event of war.

Voorhis' Greatgrandson Becomes Father of Boy

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—John R. Voorhis, Tammany Hall's most honored chieftain, who will be 101 years old on July 27, today became a great-great-grandfather.

The baby's name is John R. Voorhis 3d, and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Voorhis, of Sparkill, Rockland County, N. Y.

John R. Voorhis 2d is the baby's grandfather, and his great-grandfather, who died many years ago, was George Voorhis, son of the still hale John R.

With an expression in which was written wonder as well as pride Mr. Voorhis gazed at the telegram announcing the baby's arrival.

"My son," he said slowly, "was the father of the grandfather of this baby."

Endurance Fliers In Air for 16 Days

One More Night Will Tie Record Established by St. Louis Robin.

Chicago, July 27 (A.P.).—Having successfully accomplished another difficult night refuelling contact, John and Kenneth Hunter, brothers, copilots of the City of Chicago, last night had enough gasoline to complete their seventeenth night of flying.

If the Hunters keep their ship in the air until daylight they have only one more night of flying in prospect to tie or beat the world's endurance flight record of 420 hours and 21 minutes.

The City of Chicago had been roaring over Sky Harbor Airport for 391 hours at 11:40 Central daylight time tonight. The copilots reported that they were feeling fine and as determined as the day they started to beat the world mark, set by the St. Louis Robin.

Will Rogers took the air in the craft which refuelled the endurance plane at 9 tonight and shouted words of encouragement.

ATTORNEY'S SUICIDE HALTS STEEL TRIAL

Dramatic Scene Enacted in Youngstown as Judge Learns of Deed.

ACT LAID TO COLLAPSE

Youngstown, Ohio, June 27 (A.P.).—L. A. Manchester, chief counsel for the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., killed himself today at the moment of opening of court for the third day of trial in the injunction suit to prevent merger of the Youngstown company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The suicide caused abrupt adjournment of the trial after a dramatic episode in the Mahoning County Common Pleas Court. July 8 was set as the date for resumption of the hearing.

News of the attorney's act was brought to President Eugene Grace of the Bethlehem Corporation in the courtroom as the score or more attorneys settled in their places to await opening of the third day's session.

The chair immediately behind former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, acting as chief counsel for all defendants in the suit, was vacant.

President Grace called Mr. Baker and Attorneys F. H. Wood and James B. Kennedy aside for a whispered conference. Judge David G. Jenkins entered. The bailiff rapped his gavel and began the ritual.

Attorney Pushes Judge.

"Hear Ye! Hear Ye!" as he continued through "God save this honorable court," Attorney Kennedy leaped to the judge's dais and pushed that official through the door leading to chambers. Spectators and opposing counsel, unaware of the tragedy, gasped.

Finally Messrs. Baker, Wood and Luther S. Day of Cleveland, the latter chief counsel for stockholders fighting the merger, were called into chambers.

Mr. Baker emerged first. He was crying. The atmosphere was charged with excitement. At first the spectators thought there had been an out-of-court settlement of the suit.

Judge Jenkins emerged. His face was white, his features drawn. He rapped his gavel. "For good and sufficient reasons, this court is adjourned," he said.

It was several minutes before newspapermen and spectators learned what had taken place. Manchester's death occurred at 8:55 a. m., just five minutes before court was scheduled to open. From his own office at the headquarters of the Youngstown company on the public square, J. C. Argetsinger, associate counsel, heard a shot. He rushed into Manchester's office.

Slumped Over Desk.

The attorney was slumped over his desk, dead. A bullet had pierced his right temple. A revolver lay on the floor. Shortly later the coroner pronounced a verdict of suicide, cause unknown.

James A. Campbell, chairman of the board, and other officials of the Youngstown company, said the attorney was overworked. They attributed his act to a nervous breakdown.

President Frank Purnell, of the Youngstown company, left the courtroom in tears.

Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland capitalist, is reputed backer of the anti-merger group. He was one of the figures to pay high tribute to the character of Attorney Manchester today.

"A valuable piece in the chess game was removed from the board," said Judge Jenkins about Manchester's death. "As far as the lawsuit is concerned, and cold as it may seem to say it, the contest must go on."

Officer's Slayer Hunted by Posse

Woods of Iowa River Valley Searched by Mounted Troops and Dogs.

North Liberty, Iowa, June 27 (A.P.).—A posse of 200 men, including 30 mounted National Guardsmen, under the direction of James E. Risden, chief of the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation, tonight concentrated on the search for the slayer of Sheriff Fred Sweet and Marshal Aaron Bailey, both of Washington, in the woods of the Iowa River Valley.

Airplanes flying between Iowa City and Cedar Rapids sought trace of the slayer, who was reported seen in this vicinity last night. The peace officers were slain yesterday morning.

Bloodhounds were brought from Waterloo after searchers found a straw pile on which they believed the killer slept last night after abandoning the automobile in which he escaped.

JUSTICE MEN READY TO ENFORCE DRY ACT

Plans for Taking Task Off Treasury's Hands on Tuesday Finished.

LAGGARDS ARE WARNED

(Associated Press.)

With the avowed intention of spurring prohibition enforcement ahead through increased activity of agents and broad cooperation with State authorities, the Department of Justice has completed final arrangements for taking over the Treasury's thorniest problem next Tuesday.

The reorganization is the fifth that has been made since peacetime prohibition enforcement started in 1920. Since that time the work has brought into the limelight in quick succession the names of John Kramer, Roy A. Haynes, of Ohio; James Jones, Lincoln C. Andrews and Seymour Lowman, as prohibition directors.

Mr. Lowman and Dr. James M. Doran, a Treasury chemist, who has served as commissioner of prohibition, were said by Treasury officials to have been an ideal team for handling the Government's toughest enforcement problem.

Work Called Splendid.

For nearly three years they successfully weathered the storms of dry law enforcement and their administration of the law was said by Secretary Mellon to have been splendid.

With the shift of prohibition enforcement to the Justice Department, Dr. Doran remains in the Treasury as director of the bureau of industrial alcohol at the same salary he received as commissioner of prohibition. Mr. Lowman also will remain as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

In taking over the work Attorney General Mitchell said he expected closer cooperation between United States attorneys and enforcement officers and announced he would have no laggards in his department.

In selecting the prohibition administrators, the Attorney General said changes might occur in the personnel, and this was taken to mean that he would apply the same principle to his administrators that he did to United States attorneys. Immediately after taking office he combed the ranks of district attorneys and weeded out all he found who were not enforcing the law as he deemed it should be enforced.

Plans Are Completed.

Selection of the deputy prohibition administrators who will have the actual work of enforcing the law under their supervision completed the preparations for the change.

Mr. Mitchell selected Amos W. W. Woodcock, of Baltimore, as director of the department's prohibition division, and Howard T. Jones as assistant director.

While no announcement has been made of plans of the new enforcement officers, reports have generally agreed that the department will concentrate its attention on the wet spots of the Nation. Some 1,700 prohibition agents will be at the command of the new director and it has been said unofficially that he will reduce the number of agents in territories where States take a good share of the enforcement problem and throw them into sections where there is no State law or State cooperation in enforcement.

New York Dry Chieftain Quits at Order to Move

(Associated Press.)

Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator at New York, who was transferred to Boston as industrial alsohol permit supervisor under the prohibition transfer plans, yesterday resigned from the Government service.

His resignation was accepted to become effective June 30. Mr. Campbell resigned because he did not wish to leave New York. The Treasury announced a permit supervisor for the Boston district would be named within a few days.

Congress Praised For Pay Raise Bill

Luncheon for House Senate District Committee Members Planned.

Resolutions approving the action of Congress in passing the police and firemen pay increase bill were adopted yesterday by the presidents of five organizations who have been fighting in interest of the bill.

Those who signed the resolutions, after a meeting at the Washington Chamber of Commerce, were Charles W. Darr, president of the chamber; George Plitt, president of the Washington Board of Trade; Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and John B. Colpoys, of the Central Labor Union.

A luncheon at which Senate and House members of District committees will be the guests of honor is being planned for Tuesday, July 8, at the Willard Hotel. Among the honor guests who will speak will be Senators Bingham and Capper, and Representatives Zihlman and Simmons. Mr. Darr will preside.

CONFERENCE TO GET BROOKHART PAY BILL

Quick Action Assured When Senate and House Act on Legislation.

RETROACTIVE CLAUSE HIT

With a quick agreement seemingly assured, both the Senate and the House sent to conference yesterday the Brookhart bill designed to give Government employes raises intended by the Welch act of 1928.

The bill, which was passed by the Senate two months ago, was passed by the House this week, but in an amended form. Yesterday Senator Brookhart (Republican, Iowa, moved that the measure be sent to conference for a discussion of the House amendments, and he, Senator Dale (Republican), of Vermont, and Senator McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, were named as conferees.

A little later Representative Lehlbach (Republican), of New Jersey, made the same motion in the House, and was designated to head the House conferees.

Senator Brookhart said that he had talked to Mr. Lehlbach and was certain that an agreement would be reached that would insure enactment of the bill.

The Iowan said that, while he and the other senators did not like to do it, they would have to yield to the House on the question of the retroactive provision.

The bill originally provided that these raises be made retroactive.

The House, however, struck out the retroactive clause, because it had been told that it would add $3,000,000 to the cost of the bill.

Brooklyn Ferry Boat Damaged in Collision

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—The ferry boat John English, carrying 250 passengers from Staten Island to Brooklyn, was damaged tonight by collision with the excursion steamer Susquehanna.

A fireboat towed the ferry back to Staten Island. She resumed the Brooklyn trip when inspection revealed her worst injury was a hole above the water line. The Susquehanna, en route to Keansburg, N. J., with about 700 passengers, continued her trip. Officials said no one was injured.

INDIAN AUTHORITIES CHALLENGE BOYCOTT

Wearing of Gandhi Caps and Native Spinning Put Under Ban.

CLOTH TRADE IS INJURED

Bombay, June 27 (A.P.).—The Gandhi campaign against the use of British cloth, involving the picketing of shops and the spinning of cotton on small native spinning wheels, today was challenged by authorities in the Madras presidency.

Government agents prohibited the wearing of Gandhi caps—white cotton head-covering adopted as the Nationalist symbol—and acted against the use of the wheels.

The spinning wheel has been one emblem of the Mahatma Gandhi civil disobedience movement. When the Mahatma was interned in Yeroda Prison, at Poona, he took along his small wheel, and thousands of his followers, when balked in a march by the police, have sat down in the road and spun briskly to pass the time.

So industriously have the Gandhists spun that their output for individual use, coupled with their picketing of shops, has seriously injured trade in British cloth.

The boycott of British goods in Madras presidency is said to be increasing, with the Nationalists planning to begin a house-to-house campaign tomorrow.

At Ahmadabad 108 picketers were arrested around the Gujerat College, but police agreed, after a prolonged conference with Vallabhai Patel, Nationalist leader, not to interfere in the future with peaceful picketing of the college. The arrangement is said to be the first of its kind between police and the Nationalists.

Venkatesnarain Tiwary, Liberal politician, and five others of the Zamindar (land-owning class) today were sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment at Lucknow.

Spain Replies to Briand Plan.

Paris, June 27 (A.P.).—The foreign office today confirmed the receipt of a Spanish reply to Aristide Briand's memorandum concerning the organization of a "United States of Europe." The reply, which is said to be favorable to Briand's conception, will be published soon.

STORM LEAVES TOLL OF 50 DEAD IN WAKE

Two Canadian Train Wrecks Take 11 Lives; 30 Die in Boat Blast.

PROPERTY LOSS HEAVY

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Death and destruction rode the wings of storms in parts of the United States and Canada last night and today, taking 50 lives, injuring many persons and causing property damage of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Thirty persons were killed at Brockville, Ontario, in the explosion of a charge of dynamite under the drill boat J. B. King. It was believed the blast may have been caused by lightning. High winds and a swift current balked divers in their search for the sunken boat and only one body had been recovered tonight.

Eleven Killed in Wreck.

Eleven persons were killed near Caperol, Ontario, in the wrecks of a freight train and a passenger train. Both wrecks were caused by spreading rails, loosened by the driving rain and high waters. Six of the dead were tramps, riding the rods of the freight train. Almost a dozen deaths and loss of 30 fishing vessels were reported at Harbor Grace, N. F., and vicinity. At St. John's, N. F., hail stones weighing as much as ten pounds broke windows, caved in roofs and sank small fishing boats.

Two men were drowned at Buffalo when a boat foundered, a farmer was killed by lightning near Carlisle, Pa., and a 9-year-old girl at Hacketstown, N. J., met the same fate.

Seven Trains Stalled.

Seven transcontinental passenger trains were stalled near Sudbury, Ontario, center of the Canadian storm area, telephone lines were blown down and automobiles dotted flooded highways for miles in all directions.

The storm broke suddenly along the eastern seaboard and down the St. Lawrence River valley after a day of heat which caused prostrations in many localities.

As far South as Atlanta, Ga., high winds and beating rains damaged buildings and crops.

motive for the plot, although he agreed with police that the explosion must have been caused by an infernal machine. He did not know of any enemies who would go to such lengths to wreak vengeance against him.

Tex Thornton, nitroglycerin expert, after an investigation, said the blast was not caused by gasoline or dynamite, but, in his opinion, nitroglycerin or TNT had been used.

The explosion occurred when Mrs. Payne had driven about ten blocks after leaving her home. The boy was hurled about 30 feet. The chassis of the car was left intact and the gasoline tank was not damaged.

Detectives said they found bits of wiring and pieces of dry cell batteries in the wreckage. Officers investigating the explosion believed the charge had been placed directly beneath the driver's seat.

Payne had been a candidate for district judge, but withdrew recently. In the course of his practice he had participated in several sensational murder trials in the Panhandle in the last year.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THERE is this about Mr. Secretary Walter Newton and Mr. Postmaster General Brown: They have a remarkable amount of patience.

Ever since Mr. Hoover has been in office they have been trying to straighten out the factional situation in Georgia, brought about by the presidential decree that Ben Davis, Negro Republican boss, had to go.

Now as to why any one in Washington should give so much time and attention to Georgia Republicanism is more than one can at first understand.

* * * *

OF course, until and unless peace is made with Davis the administration can not control the Republican party in Georgia because Davis publishes a newspaper and at any Georgia convention he will always be able to have more Negro Republicans on hand than the few white Republicans in the whole State.

Davis also has his nuisance value, in that dissatisfaction on his part is echoed among Negro voters in States where they count.

This latter is the only consideration that bears on the situation because in so far as his control over Georgia conventions is concerned the administration has only to set up a convention of its own and recognize that convention at the next national convention which is the only time a Republican convention in Georgia means anything.

IT is the nuisance value that causes Mr. Newton and Mr. Brown to be quite patient with Davis.

Just at present the representatives of both factions are here in Washington with a new get-together proposition. It involves sort of a silent recognition of Davis and some patronage trades.

On the face of everything it looks all right with the exception of one man and the fact that the appointment of this man is demanded as the price of peace, shows just how persistent is the Davis faction.

* * * *

THE man is named G. F. Flanders. He is and has been Davis' first lieutenant. Davis is demanding for him the United States marshal's job for the Southern district. With Flanders in this job Davis would not be such a silent partner in the firm after all.

Flanders wants the place of a man named McLeod who has been serving now for years and whom the United States judge for the district wants reappointed. Furthermore, this judge has said that if McLeod is not reappointed he wants somebody other than Flanders.

What the Georgians do not seem to realize is that Brown and Newton could not put Flanders over if they wanted to, and it is not believed they do. Why, the whole thing would be aired in the Senate as an example of just how Georgia was cleaned up. Senator Brookhart is waiting for just such.

Really, Mr. Flanders should not be spending his money at Washington hotels.

U. S. TAX COLLECTOR ENTERS LINGLE CASE

HUGE LOANS INDICATED

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—The Federal Government today took a hand in untangling the background to the assassination of Alfred Lingle, $65 a week newspaper reporter, who played the stock market with a reputed six-digit account, and apparently lost heavily last fall. His murder June 9 by gunmen is still unsolved, but possible reasons for his death are apparently nearer discovery.

Interested in the reports of the slain reporter's inflated income, Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, internal revenue collector, sent agents to Chicago banks and brokers today to search for Lingle's assets. She has been unable to find an income tax return by Lingle.

The State's attorney, saying that Lingle's financial status will be announced to the public on Monday, indicated he would question every public official and racketeer involved in payments or loans to the reporter.

Got Loans From Mayor's Aids.

Agents and informers have already told the prosecutor Lingle maintained a joint brokerage account with William F. Russell, deposed commissioner of police, and that he received sums varying from $500 to $15,000 as loans or other payments from members of Mayor Thompson's cabinet and other politicians.

The investigators learned today that besides his own margin account and the partnership with Russell, Lingle maintained a third brokerage account under a fictitious name.

Trying one theory after another to fit the case, the investigators suggested Lingle, hard pressed by speculative losses in the market, might have turned to intimates among the politicians and gamblers to borrow. A search was reported under way for a safety deposit box in which Lingle may have sequestered securities.

Dog Tracks Are Considered.

Chicago's dog tracks, one of them burned out and the rest closed by permanent injunction, entered into the latest theory of Lingle's murder today. Speculation centered about a report that he had been killed because he failed to deliver the immunity he may have promised after accepting money.

Closing of the dog tracks, upheld by the Supreme Court several weeks ago, cost their gangster proprietors an estimated $1,000,000 a year.

State's Attorney Swanson said he was not yet ready to take the Lingle case before the grand jury.

"We have no concrete evidence as yet," he said. "This is one case we are not going to bring before the grand jury until we have some facts. A full statement of the financial status of Lingle will be issued Monday."

The Chicago crime commission, after a two months' drive on organized hoodlums, tonight issued a report detailing success in its "economic boycott" against Chicago gangdom.

The commission, headed by Frank J. Loesch, issued a list of 28 better-known gangsters two months ago, detailing their activities and branding them "public enemies." Last month it issued a second report urging a general boycott against them.

Loesch's report said in part:

"A significant response to my appeal comes from Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Trust Co. of Illinois, who says: 'I want you to know that this bank, so far as it is able to ascertain, has no gangster accounts and is taking every precaution to preclude getting any.

One Account Ousted.

"Some time ago we discovered one account that had a suspicious appearance and it was immediately ordered out of the institution.'

"In five instances, insurance companies have refused applications for insurance because of representations by the commission of the men as 'public enemies.'"

One of those refused insurance was "Scarface Al" Capone, who headed the list of public enemies. He sought unsuccessfully a $50,000 policy on his home at Palm Beach, Fla. The report also tells of the closing of suburban dog-racing tracks, raids on alleged Capone houses in Cicero, Ill., a suburb; on his brewery, and on the 24 stills recently seized.

Hoot Gibson Marries Sally Eilers, Actress

Los Angeles, June 27 (A.P.).—In a setting typically Western, except for the clothes, Hoot Gibson, star of cowboy films, and Sally Eilers, featured screen player, were married tonight at Gibson's ranch near here.

It was Gibson's third stroll to the altar and Miss Eilers' first. He is 36 and she is 21.

WOMEN'S ASSAILANT RESCUED FROM MOB

Texas Officers Hurl Tear Gas Bombs and Carry Prisoner Away.

SHOTS ARE FIRED IN AIR

Port Arthur, Tex., June 27 (A.P.).—Officers here today successfully fought off a mob that attempted to seize and lynch Rainey Williams, 38, Negro, who confessed to attacks on eight white women, and safely lodged the prisoner in the county jail at Beaumont.

The Negro was taken the 22 miles to Beaumont in fifteen minutes in Fire Chief J. C. Enright's automobile after members of the mob had almost succeeded in dragging him from the rumble seat, which had been closed on him. Tear gas bombs hurled into the crowd milling about the city hall here caused members of the mob to relinquish their grips on the prisoner and allowed the car to speed out of town. Officers fired several shots into the air.

A few in the crowd attempted to follow the machine but gave up the chase a few miles from Port Arthur. Williams was placed in the Beaumont Prison without further trouble. A few minutes after officers managed to get the Negro out of town the crowd dispersed.

Police Chief M. B. Word decided to remove Williams after the mob, estimated to have numbered 200, began to show signs of disorder. With the three entrances to the city hall guarded, the Negro was taken to the firemen's sleeping quarters, whence he slid down a pole into the waiting automobile.

Williams was arrested after the eight women had been attacked on a highway near an oil refinery over a period of 30 days. The last attack occurred last Wednesday night.

After Williams had been lodged in the Beaumont Jail a grand jury was called to investigate the crimes.

Radio Comedy Blamed In Wife's Divorce Plea

Reno, Nev., June 27 (A.P.).—Having to listen to jokes of famous radio comedians entertained by her husband at their Park avenue apartment in New York disgusted her English butler and drove away her friends, Mrs. Virginia Carson Elwood complained. She was granted a divorce here yesterday from John Worden Elwood, vice president of the National Broadcasting Co. on grounds of cruelty.

Mrs. Elwood, the daughter of a wealthy Eau Claire, Wis., lumberman, testified as to alleged neglect and indignities on the part of her husband.

Socialist Candidate Sails to Study Soviet

Baltimore, June 27 (A.P.).—Miss Elisabeth Gilman, Socialist nominee for Governor of Maryland, left today for New York, planning to sail tonight for a tour of Russia, studying the Soviet system.

She said she also will study the housing situation in Vienna. Miss Gilman, a social worker, is the daughter of the first president of Johns Hopkins University.

TWO DIE OF TYPHUS IN NEARBY MARYLAND

Virginia case increasing the number to ten.

The patients, including the Montgomery County man and the Prince Georges patients, number two in Kent County, and one each in Queen Anne, Cecil, Anne Arundel and Howard Counties, and another in Charles County.

The seriousness of the situation led the State Department of Health yesterday to send one of its specialists, Dr. C. H. Halliday, into Montgomery County to trace the history of the case there and search for ticks, lice, rats or animals that may have transmitted the disease.

The department has isolated the cases in Maryland and has taken every precaution to cope with the disease and check its spread. The same safeguards were taken in the present case of Clayton Shepherd, who was reported recovering slowly from the malady at the home of his father, Theodore Shepherd, civilian employe at Fort Humphreys, who lives on the outskirts of this reservation of the Thirteenth United States Engineers.

course, it has money in the Treasury, but unless there is legislation authorizing its expenditure it may not be used.

Thus there is the possibility that the Commissioners would have to call on the city's employes to work without pay until some legislation should be passed.

Statement by Fess.

Senator Fess declared that adoption of a resolution continuing the current appropriation would be very detrimental to the city in that it would result in the halting of work on schools and other projects. Moreover, he said, the controversy over the Federal contribution would go unsettled.

"Of course," replied Senator Jones, "if we are to accept $9,000,000, if the Senate is to humiliate itself in that way under all the circumstances, then it ought to do it in the regular appropriation bill.

"I do not believe that the Senate, judged by the vote taken just a few days ago, would approve any such course.

Resolution Not Needed.

"So it occurs to me, and I make the suggestion, that there is no reason for the passage of any joint resolution. There is no reason why the difference between the two bodies should not be adjusted and settled upon the appropriation bill which provides for activities of the District of Columbia.

"In my judgment, with a reasonable stand by the conference committees of both houses, this adjustment can be made and ought to be made.

"I wish to say that I am very anxious to see this adjustment between the two houses. I know the District of Columbia is the one that is really going to suffer by a continuance of the disagreement, yet it seems to me that there is a principle, a policy, or whatever one may have the right to call it, at stake between the two houses in regard to this matter that ought to be settled.

Senate Yielding Cited.

"The Senate has been yielding from year to year. It has reached a point where it has seen that there is a responsibility resting upon it as well as upon the other body to take care of the situation in the District of Columbia.

"It ought to be a very easy matter to adjust. Senate conferees are ready to go practically to extreme lengths in order to adjust the differences, but they do feel, under all the circumstances—and I will say frankly that I do not feel—that they should go further than they have proposed to go."

"If we just give notice to that other body that we are not going to adjourn until this very necessary bill shall be passed," declared Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, "there will soon be an agreement."

Other Senators Firm.

"Of course," said Senator Jones, "we certainly shall not adjourn until something shall be done to settle the matter with regard to the District."

"If the senator will stand by that," said Senator McKellar, "we shall soon have an agreement."

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, chief Senate conferee on the bill, declared that his colleagues had been willing to meet House conferees "more than halfway."

"This is not a question of principle," he said; "This is a question of judgment as to an amount which the Federal Government should pay toward the expenses of the District."

Attitude of Conferees.

The Senate committee, he said, after a careful study, came to the conclusion that $12,000,000 was a fair contribution. The House, he said, concluded that $9,000,000 was fair, and both sets of conferees were backed up by their respective houses.

"In the conference between the two houses," he said, "Senate conferees have repeatedly shown their stand to be as follows:

"This is a question of judgment between two amounts; we have made a careful study of it; we think one amount is right. You have made a careful study and you think another amount is right. The only way to concur and to reach a conclusion is decide on an amount somewhere between the two."

House Conferees Adamant.

A 50-50 compromise between $9,000,000 and $12,000,000, the Connecticut senator said, would be $10,500,000. Yet, he said, the Senate agreed to go further than this, to go two-thirds of the way, and agree to $10,000,000; but the House declined to go 1 cent above $9,000,000.

In a colloquy with Senator Dill (Democrat), of Washington, Senator Jones pointed out that, after a study by a commission, a law was enacted putting the District appropriation on a 60-40 basis, the District to pay 60 per cent and the United States 40 per cent.

That is still the law, he pointed out, but the House has substituted the policy of contributing a lump sum of $9,000,000.

Disregard of Law Charged.

"And disregarded the law entirely?" asked Senator Dill.

"Absolutely," Senator Jones said. "the law is disregarded."

"Disregarded the law and disregarded the Senate conferees," put in Senator Glass. "They just take the arbitrary position that they will not even consider anything except what they undertake to dictate."

House Willing to Stay.

When Chairman Will Wood of the House appropriations committee heard of the Senate's threat to prolong the session, he said:

"Well, we are willing to stay here just as long as they want to stay here."

Representative Thatcher (Republican), of Kentucky, one of the House conferees on the bill, said that he liked the cooling system at the Capitol, and wouldn't mind staying here a bit.

Dry Agent and Aids Plead in Bribe Case

Seattle, Wash., June 27 (A.P.).—Roy C. Lyle, suspended prohibition administrator; his assistants, William M. Whitney and Earl Corwin, and R. L. Fryant, former prohibition agent and deputy sheriff, pleaded not guilty in Federal court today to charges of bribery and corruption. A demurrer was filed to the indictments.

Clifford T. McKinney, former assistant United States district attorney, also accused, is under $5,000 for arraignment next Monday.

DELEGATES START HOME

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—Orange blossoms will decorate Rotary International's White House in place of the tobacco flowers of the past year, as the result of the election today of Almon E. Roth, of Palo Alto, Calif., to the presidency, succeeding M. Eugene Newsom, Durham, N. C.

Hardly had Roth's election over Raymond J. Knoeppel, of New York City, been announced than the thousands of delegates and visitors from 62 nations began their homeward treks, the silver jubilee anniversary of Rotary having passed.

Internationalism as achieved through mutual understanding of international problems was the keynote of the gathering, which heard three world-famous speakers, Sir Henry Worth Thornton, Canadian railway executive; Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, president of the Japanese House of Peers, and Admiral Mark Kerr, retired, of the British navy.

In his address today Admiral Kerr said he believed the United States could stop wars by refusing to treat in any way with a nation which declined to arbitrate difficulties with another country.

"The eleventh commandment," he said, "should be 'Thou shalt not go to war.'"

Special trains, automobiles and airplanes were utilized tonight to speed delegates to their homes. Latin American and European delegations will leave tomorrow for New York, the Latin Americans sailing July 9.

International directors elected today were: Will Taylor, of Springfield, Ill.; Clinton P. Anderson, of Albuquerque, N. Mex.; Claybrook Cottingham, of Pineville, La.; Richard C. Hedke, of Detroit; Howard W. Selby, of West Palm Beach, Fla.; Arthur Chadwick, of London; Theodore A. Forgeson, of Canada; Dr. Luis A. Chevez Velando, of Lima, Peru; William de Cook Bunning, of The Hague, Netherlands, and Smith L. P. Free, of Masterson, New Zealand.

Transatlantic Phone Will Extend to Sweden

New York, June 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Transatlantic telephone service will be extended Monday to include all the telephones of Sweden, thereby enabling American telephone users for the first time to talk to points within the Arctic Circle.

With this system established, the service will extend from the Arctic Circle, on the north to the fortieth parallel of south latitude, in South America. The new extension also will make possible a call from the United States covering an extreme distance of 9,900 miles.

CITIZENS IN SUPPORT OF BOLIVIAN REVOLT

ment which now is fighting a new revolt.

The principal information came from Bautisia Saavedra, former President of Bolivia, who reached the frontier from the capital.

Senor Saavedra said the provisional government was a military directorate composed of Cols. Toro, Benzer and Gonzales. Wednesday night cadets and noncommissioned officers of the military academy, aided by civil elements and other troops, revolted against the directorate and defeated the loyal Yngavi Regiment sent against them.

The fighting continued all night Wednesday and all of yesterday, with great loss of life, Saavedra added. He said only two regiments now were loyal to the government and were fighting the rebels from positions in Murillo square and Comercio street.

The former president confirmed the stories of heavy fighting in La Paz Sunday, first related by passengers who reached the frontier Wednesday night on an international train.

He said a young Bolivian girl student spoke to a group of demonstrators Sunday concerning the recent resignation of President Hernando Siles, asserting that Dr. Siles was trying to regain the presidency and exhorting her listeners to be men and oppose Siles.

Saavedra said that in the midst of her fiery address the police fired, killing the girl and her companion on the platform, a young man student who had spoken previously.

With that the crowd became enraged and charged the police, who mounted machine guns on trucks and repulsed wave after wave of the demonstrators. Senor Saavedra estimating the dead at 40 or more and the wounded at 60.

The rioters finally withdrew, carrying the bodies of the boy and girl over the city and shouting accusations of an outrage against the police. Others were said to have been killed Monday when public burial was sought for the slain, police firing to disperse the crowds.

Gen. Harboard's Sister Dies.

Manhattan, Kans., June 27 (A.P.). Mrs. Martha Faran, sister of Gen. James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, died here today following an appoplectic stroke. For several years she had been social director of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity at the Kansas State Agricultural College.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS IN PORTER TRIBUTE

Hoover Message Is Among Expressions of Regret From Over World.

FUNERAL SET MONDAY

(Associated Press.)

Both houses of Congress yesterday adjourned out of respect to Representative Stephen G. Porter, of Pittsburgh, Pa., chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, who died last night in a Pittsburgh hospital.

Representative Darrow (Republican), Pennsylvania, announced his colleague's death at Pittsburgh, and Speaker Longworth named the House funeral committee.

The House adopted a resolution of regret after the announcement. The Senate expressed its "profound sorrow" over the death of the Pennsylvania representative.

Hoover Expresses Sympathy.

A personal letter of sympathy was written yesterday by President Hoover to Mrs. R. S. Baron, daughter of Representative Porter.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 27 (A.P.).—The high place in the world's affairs filled by Representative Stephen G. Porter, who died early today in a Pittsburgh hospital at the age of 61, tonight was emphasized by the steady arrival of messages from the leaders of this and other nations.

As preparations were begun for funeral services here Monday afternoon for the chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, and the dean of the Pennsylvania congressional delegation, words of sympathy mingled with praise for Mr. Porter's statesmanship came from President Hoover, members of his Cabinet, and from senators and representatives.

Led Narcotics Fight.

By cable came other messages from all parts of the world where Mr. Porter's influence was felt in the fight against the traffic in narcotics, in conferences leading up to restoration of diplomatic and commercial relations with Germany and Austro-Hungary by the United States after the World War, in selecting suitable sites for the official headquarters in foreign lands of America's diplomatic representatives and in advising Presidents Wilson and Harding in the handling of war and postwar problems.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the residence of L. K. Porter, a brother and law partner, in Emsworth, a suburb. Services will be conducted by a lifelong friend, the Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, pastor of the Eighth United Fresbyterian Church. Burial will take place in Highwood Cemetery beside the body of Mr. Porter's wife, who died in 1919.

Ship Sent to Supervise Nicaraguan Elections

Panama, June 27 (A.P.).—Capt. A. W. Johnson, aboard the U. S. S. Denver, sailed tonight for Corinto, Pacific seaport of Nicaragua, with a detachment of 300 American sailors especially trained to supervise the Nicaraguan elections.

Capt. Johnson has been appointed special minister for elections. Admiral E. H. Campbell, commandant of the special service squadron, was also aboard the Denver, but will return on July 4.

WISE EXPLAINS VIEW ON DRY RESOLUTION

Brooklyn, N. Y.; Louis I. Egelson, of Cincinnati; Emil W. Leipziger, of New Orleans; Alvin S. Luchs, of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Abram Hirschburg, of Chicago.

"The central conference, having taken no stand in other days on behalf of prohibition and the eighteenth amendment, would come rather belatedly into the picture if it, at this late date, expressed itself in favor of repeal," said Dr. Wise, who described himself as one "identified with the prohibition cause for many years."

"It is true that we now have to choose between enforcement, which, alas, seems impossible, and modification, which, alas, seems inevitable.

"Personally, I have always felt that prohibition should have been given, as it was never given, a fair trial. The thing I have most hoped for from prohibition has utterly failed to come to pass—such liberation of the spirit of the people as would enable them to face problems of the social reconstruction of the Commonwealth with clarity and sobriety. Instead of that, the mind of the Nation is given almost undividedly to the liquor problem.

"In any event, it is hardly the business of the central conference to indulge in pronouncements which will reinforce lawlessness instead of enforcing the law."

CALL FOR PARTY CONFERENCE REVIVES HUSTON DISCUSSION

consideration, including Walter F. Brown, the Postmaster General, who is also from Ohio; Walter Head, Chicago banker and formerly of Omaha, and Walter H. Newton, of Minnesota, one of the President's secretaries.

If Mr. Huston intends to resign at the forthcoming meeting he gave no indication of it in conferences yesterday at the Capitol. He called upon Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, and upon Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, the chairman of the Republican senatorial committee. They said the discussions were routine and neither believed that Mr. Huston was resigning.

However, in other quarters there seemed to be a conviction that Mr. Huston planned to quit at an early date. The Republican young guard in the Senate has been antagonistic to his continuance in office. They were displeased with testimony before the Senate lobby committee that he had collected funds for the Tennessee River Improvement Association in the campaign for Muscle Shoals legislation and used in his brokerage account before being turned over to the association.

Mr. Huston called into the conference the officers of the national committee and the chairman of the senatorial and congressional campaign committees—Senator Moses and Representative Wood, of Indiana, respectively. He sent the following letter to each of the national officers:

"I am asking the officers of the Republican national committee and the chairmen of the senatorial and congressional campaign committees to meet me at the office of the committee on Monday, July 7, 10 a. m., and I hope you will find it convenient to attend.

"There are some matters of importance concerning the forthcoming campaign to bring up on which I prefer to have you counsel and advice."

The national committee has been without a secretary since the retirement of Representative Fort, of New Jersey. However, the executive committee alone is authorized to fill this place.

Senator Fess once served as chairman of the congressional committee when he was a member of the House. He has been one of the consistent administration men in the Senate during both the Coolidge and Hoover regimes.

Firemen Lose Battle With $150,000 Oil Fire

Olean, N. Y., June 27 (A.P.).—A smoking pall hung over this city and surrounding country tonight while weary fire fighters from near villages kept guard over 17,000 barrels of burning oil, which already had done more than $150,000 damage since lightning fired a storage tank yesterday.

The tank owned by the Vacuum Oil Co. contained 25,000 barrels of crude oil. Soon after it burst into flames employes began pumping from the base in hope of averting an explosion. Meanwhile, men summoned from six towns poured chemicals on the top of the tank in an attempt to extinguish the blaze.

Terminal Company Sued For $50,000 Damages

August Westberg, of 600 I street southeast, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court, seeking to recover $50,000 from the Washington Terminal Co.

Westberg tells the court that he was employed by the defendant on December 3, last, and was injured while pursuing his duties. He charges that the defendant was negligent in providing proper illumination for the top boilers on which he was tightening manhole plates. Westberg states that he, as a result of the alleged negligence, fell 10 feet and suffered great injuries. Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer appears for the plaintiff.

BAPTISTS TO BREAK GROUND FOR HOME

Dream of Dr. Millington Will Be Realized Sunday at Ceremony.

GOULD GIFT AIDS WORK

Sixteen years ago a young Baptist minister, the Rev. Dr. Henry W. O. Millington, pastor of the church at Brookland, had a vision of a home for dependent children of the District of Columbia—not for Baptist children alone, but for any dependent children of any religious faith or of no faith. It became almost an obsession with him, and was the subject of many talks with his Lord and Master. Often he went alone to the altar, and prayed long and at times with tears wetting his cheeks, that his petition might be granted.

If any there be who doubt the efficacy of prayer, even in material things; should any doubting Thomas think that God does not take into account every prayer that is made, sifts them all, and in His own good time and in His own proper way harkens to those that have reached His heart, let him listen to this plain tale.

On Sunday afternoon Dr. Millington will see ground broken for the home for which he prayed sixteen years ago. It has not, for a truth, taken the Lord that long to answer his prayer; nor is this the simple beginning of the enterprise. This is the launching of the great enterprise which he saw in his vision sixteen years ago.

Gould Gift Aids.

For some years this home has been going along in small quarters at Brookland. It is even now housing 36 children there.

When the institution was first organized John B. Lord, one of Dr. Millington's parishioners, gave it the property on which the home has since been maintained. Then he sold the home, 87 acres in Brookland, for $30,000. Two months later the home sold the Catholics 57 acres for $50,000 cash, and that was the origin of the building fund, to which additions have been made from various sources, some from unexpected places.

Several years ago, two of the women of Dr. Millington's church were in New York and by chance they met Edwin Gould, son of the late Jay Gould, himself a member of the Episcopal Church. In the course of their conversation they told him of the Baptist home. He listened quietly and said nothing. A year or two later, coming up from the South, he stopped off at Washington and visited the home at Brookland, without letting his identity be known. Last June 13 he sent the home his personal check for $83,857. It is the gift of the Edwin Gould Foundation for Children, Inc., to the Baptist Home for Children.

To Build Two Units.

With this money and with other funds in the treasury it is now proposed to build the first two units of the permanent home on a 137-acre tract in Montgomery County just beyond Bethesda on Cedar lane. Following modern ideas, the institution will be developed on the cottage plan, and two cottages will be built first, with a swimming pool and other necessary adjuncts. For this first development there will be an investment of $175,000. As further endowment comes in, the plant will be enlarged along the lines of the initial construction.

The home is maintained by the Baptist churches, North and South, in the District of Columbia, which provide for it in their budgets. Dr. Millington, as executive secretary of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches, is in immediate charge of the home.

Ground breaking will take place at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Mr. E. Hilton Jackson, president of the board of trustees, will preside, assisted by Mrs. Julian C. Dowell, president of the board of lady managers. Dr. William S. Abernethy, pastor of the Cavalry Baptist Church; Dr. Samuel J. Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Dr. Gove G. Johnson, pastor of the National Baptist Memorial Church, will officiate. Dr. Millington will read a letter from Edwin Gould and make some remarks, after which United States Senator A. W. Barclay, of Kentucky, will deliver the address.

The board of trustees of the Children's Home is composed of the following men: E. Hilton Jackson, chairman; C. Clinton James, secretary-treasurer; George B. Bryan, Charles Werner, R. N. Miller, E. B. Shaver, and Claude Livingston. The officers of the board of lady managers are: Mrs. Julian C. Dowell, president; Mrs. Elmer S. Yount, first vice president; Mrs. George Landick, jr., second vice-president; Mrs. Edwin W. James, recording secretary; Mrs. Fred B. Rhodes, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Milton H. Prosperi, treasurer.

Arrangements have been made to transport visitors from Rockville cars at Cedar Lane, No. 25 car stop, to the nearby farm, where the new home is to be built. Rockville and Alta Vista cars will carry passengers to Cedar Lane. It is expected that a great crowd will be present at these ground-breaking exercises on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Deal Will Teach Missions at Assembly

The Rev. H. R. Deal, junior pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, and Mrs. Deal will leave early next week on their vacation, which will be spent in Virginia and North Carolina.

Mr. Deal is to teach a course in missions at the Baltimore Conference Epworth League Assembly at Massanetta Springs, Va., July 7-14.

Presbyterian Churches To Have Joint Service

After July 6 the congregations of the First Presbyterian and the Church of the Covenant will unite in joint services.

The Washington Presbytery has sanctioned the union of the two congregations, which will become effective October 1, and thereafter known as the Church of the Covenant and the First Presbyterian Church.

Appointed Key West Pastor.

The Rev. Bruce F. Gannaway, of Mount Vernon Methodist Church, has been admitted to the Florida annual conference and appointed to serve as pastor of the Lay Memorial Church, Key West.

Will Preach at Peace Cross.

The Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter will be the special preacher at the people's open-air evensong tomorrow afternoon at the foot of the Peace Cross in Washington Cathedral Close.

NEW HOME BAPTISTS WILL BUILD FOR CHILDREN

This is the first of the group of new buildings which will house dependent children of the District of Columbia. Ground will be broken Sunday afternoon on the new site near Bethesda.

CHURCH WILL BREAK GROUND FOR EDIFICE

Out-Doors Service Sunday Morning to Start Work on New Building.

GOTHIC DESIGN PLANNED

The Western Presbyterian Church will hold its services out of doors Sunday morning. The congregation will break ground for its new edifice. A few invited guests will be present, but the services will be for the congregation.

The pastor, the Rev. Dr. J. Harvey Dunham, will preside. A quartet will sing special music, a special collection will be taken up, and the minister will preach a special sermon on the theme: "Dreaming, Daring and Doing." At its conclusion, James B. Lambie will turn the first shovel of earth. He is not the oldest member, but is one of the most prominent in the congregation.

The new church will be located just across the street from the old church, on H street, between Nineteenth and Twentieth streets northwest. It will cost in the neighborhood of $200,000.

Following the modern trend, the new church will be Gothic in design and cruciform in shape. The main auditorium will seat 500 and a gallery 100; and the Sunday school building will accomodate 500, with individual classrooms.

Few churches in Washington have a nobler history than this one. It goes a long way back in Washington history, just 75 years. Franklin Pierce worshiped there when he was President, and with him members of his Cabinet, members of Congress, and other prominent men in the Government. Jefferson Davis, though an Episcopalian, contributed to the original building fund.

During the Civil War the building was offered and taken over by the Government and used as a military hospital. The old church bell, cast in an English foundry, was purchased in 1872 as a cost of $1,000. It will go in the tower of the new church.

Dr. Dunham has been pastor of the church for 21 years. During the World War he was chaplain in the American Army.

Union Service Set For Five Churches

Southeast Section Unites in Schedule for Summer Season.

Union services will be held by five churches in the Southeast section, beginning Sunday evening, with the first service in the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church. The Rev. D. L. Ennis, the new minister of Trinity Methodist Church, will preach.

Two services will be held at each church, and the ministers will preach around. The collections will be allotted.

These churches are participating in the union meetings: The Church of the Brethren, the Rev. F. F. Holsopple; First Methodist Protestant Church, the Rev. T. J. Turkington; North Carolina Avenue Methodist Protestant Church, the Rev. George E. Brown; Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. D. L. Ennis, and Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Freeley Rohrer.

THE NECESSITY OF THE CHURCH.

The wisest of the Greeks, Pericles, said: "There never was and there never can be, a state successfully built and maintained on an atheistic foundation."

Kresge said: "A righteous and lasting social order can be built only on the character of a citizenship that worships a righteous and holy God."

Woodrow Wilson said: "Our civilization can be saved only by becoming permeated with the spirit of Christ and being made free and happy by the practices that spring out of that spirit."

The Lausanne conference in its findings said: "Sympathizing with the anguish of our generation, with its longing for intellectual sincerity, social justice and spiritual aspirations, the church in the eternal Gospel meets the needs and fulfills the God-given aspirations of the modern world."

Jesus said: "I am the way, the truth and the life." . . . "I have come that ye might have life, and have it more abundantly."

The one supreme function of the church is to reveal His message, personality and program.

CANNON TO AID WORK AT LAKE JUNALUSKA

Bishop Will Attend Meeting of Temperance Board Next Week.

GIRLS' CAMP PLANS LAID

Bishop James Cannon, jr., will be at Lake Junaluska Southern Methodist Assembly next week, attending a meeting of the Southern Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service, of which he is president. Dr. E. L. Crawford, of Washington, secretary of the board, will also be in attendance at this meeting, which lasts from July 2 through July 6. Plans for the work of the board for the next quadrennium will be made.

Young people from the Baltimore conference, which embraces the City of Washington, will be represented at Camp Cheonda for Girls, Lake Junaluska, June 30-July 30, by Miss Emily Nicklas, of Washington, and at the Young People's Conference, July 8-19, by Norman and Earl Miller, of Bethesda, Md. Camp Cheonda is operated under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and is directed by Miss Alleen Moon, of Nashville, Tenn. It is open every summer to girls between the ages of 13 and 18. The Young People's Conference, also operated by the Methodist Church, is under the supervision of O. S. Gates, of Nashville.

Mrs. W. H. Ballengee, of Goldsboro, Md., represents the Baltimore Conference on the new board of Christian education, which will hold its first meeting at Lake Junaluska July 8. This is the board formed by merging the boards of education, missions and Epworth League, and is under the direction of Dr. W. F. Quillian, general secretary.

Miss Nellis Buckey, of Hyattsville, Md., is a member of the faculty of the Epworth League Assembly, to be held at Lake Junaluska August 8-18.

St. Paul's Lutheran Subscriptions $85,000

In the campaign for $100,000, now being conducted by St. Paul's English Lutheran Church to finance the construction of the first unit of the new church at Connecticut avenue and Ellicott street, the total sum reported to date is $85,000, with a considerable number of subscriptions yet to be heard from. It is expected that these will help materially to reach the goal set. The leaders of the campaign have been greatly pleased by the splendid response of the members and friends of the congregation not only in their pledges but in their active participation in the various phases of the work. The committees will continue to function until the drive is completed.

Ground was recently broken for the construction of the crypt chapel and basement of the new church and preparations are being rushed to get the first unit under way so that it may be ready for occupancy by Christmas.

Hyattsville Baptists Revive "Family Day"

Hyattsville Baptists are going to revive an ancient and time-honored but now decadent custom tomorrow when "family day" will be observed at the morning service. The minister, the Rev. B. P. Robertson, has requested that the families of his congregation sit together. "This should be a great service," he says.

For his sermon he will fire a broadside at his people on the subject: "The Heavenly Pattern for the Earthly Family."

Pastors Exchange Pulpits.

The Rev. Bertram M. Osgood, pastor of the Rockville Baptist Church, and the Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor of the Chevy Chase Baptist Church, will exchange pulpits tomorrow morning.

Baptists to Hold Mass Meeting.

SUMMER BIBLICAL SCHOOLS POPULAR

EXPECT 175 STUDENTS

The annual Vacation Bible School of the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church will open Monday morning at 9 o'clock, according to the Rev. R. Paul Schearrer, minister of the church.

Registration for the school will be open today from 9 o'clock until noon. Promptly at 12 o'clock there will be a meeting of the teaching staff. The session of the church has engaged Selden Carlyle Adams, formerly assistant director of publications of the National Education Association and now on the faculty of the Auburn School of Religious Education, Auburn, N. Y., as director of the school.

Mr. Schearrer stated that approximately 175 children from all churches of Takoma Park are expected to enroll this year. Registration is open to all between the ages of 3 and 15.

Other members of the teaching staff, some of whom are teachers in the Washington public schools, are Miss Thurza Suter, Mrs. Jeanne Hogan, Miss Helen Williams, Miss Olive McKnight, Miss Mary Cannon, Miss Agnes Adamson, Miss Martha Mattoon, and Miss Doris Bitzing. Mrs. C. R. Normandy is registrar of the school.

The Chevy Chase Community Vacation Church School, which began its four weeks' term last Wednesday, has an enrollment somewhat over 100. Miss Bessie Swartz is principal and junior teacher; Miss Winifred Simpson is in charge of the kindergarten, Mrs. Rossel E. Mitchell is in charge of the primary, and Mrs. B. H. Sullivan is teacher of the intermediate group. Registration will be kept open one additional week.

The Vacation Bible School at Central Presbyterian Church opened on June 24 with a large attendance. Classes are in full operation and various forms of handiwork are being taught. The committee in charge consists of Miss Mary Colt, chairman; Mrs. T. G. Carr, Mrs. R. W. Prince, Mrs. P. H. Tamplet and Mrs. W. W. Warwick. The playground adjacent to the church has been opened and equipped with slides, seesaws and sand box. The tennis courts and volley ball court are also open for use.

The Vacation Bible School at the Second Baptist Church, Third street between H and I northwest, will begin Monday and will last five weeks.

Dr. Smith, of Hamline, To Be Guest Preacher

The Rev. Dr. Chesteen Smith, pastor of Hamline Methodist Church, will be the guest preacher at the Masonic services on Temple Heights, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

LAMBETH CONCLAVE TO BEGIN ON FRIDAY

Canterbury Conference to Be Attended by Bishops of Many Nations.

DR. FREEMAN IS THERE

By ELISABETH E. POE.

The Seventh Lambeth Conference, the most representative gathering of spokesmen for the Anglican communion ever held, will convene in Lambeth Palace, London, England, next Sunday and continue in session for about six weeks. Nearly 400 bishops from a dozen sister churches of the Anglican communion scattered all over the world have been invited to participate in the conference.

The American delegation, representing the Episcopal Church in the United States, will consist of about 60 bishops headed by the new presiding bishop, the most Rev. James De Wolf Perry, Bishop of Rhode Island. Of special interest to Washington is the fact that the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, has gone to London to join in the conference.

The eyes of all Christendom will be turned on the deliberations in Lambeth Palace, the historic home of the Archbishops of Canterbury in the British capital, for the conference has on its agenda this year such questions as the faith and witness of the church in this generation, church unity, youth, marriage, sex, racial questions, peace and war, education and government, the ministry and the special problems of the Anglican communion as well. One discussion certain to bring up varying views is of women in the ministry.

In Executive Session.

The work of the conference will be done in executive sessions and its conclusions will be watched with great interest by the entire Christian world.

The Lambeth Conference evolved from the growth of the Anglican Communion in countries outside of England. In the middle of the last century it was felt that a need existed to bring together representatives of these various branches for conference on matters of common concern. An American bishop, the Right Rev. John Henry Hopkins, Bishop of Vermont, made the first concrete suggestion for such a conference in 1851. Fourteen years later a definite recommendation to the same effect was made by the provincial synod of the church in Canada. The next year the matter was brought before the Convocation of Canterbury in England.

Archbishop Longley of Canterbury issued the first call for a Lambeth Conference in 1867. It was attended by 76 bishops from all over the world. So valuable were its deliberations that it was decided to hold a similar conference once in ten years under the presidency of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Postponed by War.

The second Lambeth Conference was held in 1878, the third in 1888 and the fifth in 1908. The World War interrupted the call for the sixth Lambeth Conference, which was postponed until 1920. At that time the number of bishops present had risen to 250.

At this seventh Lambeth Conference bishops will be present from England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, United States of America, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and a number of missionary districts.

The program for the conference will be as follows:

Friday—Quiet day for the bishops in Fulham Palace, home of the Lord Bishop of London.

Saturday—Special service and reception at Canterbury Cathedral.

July 6—Great opening service of the conference in St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

On July 7, the conference will begin its formal business sessions in Lambeth Palace and all the bishops will meet daily during that week.

After the first session, the conference is divided into committees on the different subjects appointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury. These committees will meet separately for the next two weeks. Then for the final week of the conference the entire delegate body will be convened in Lambeth Palace to receive and discuss the findings of the several committees.

The final report of the conference, given to the whole church, rests upon the vote of the entire body.

The Most Rev. James De Wolfe Perry, Presiding Bishop of the Church in the United States of America, will preach the final sermon in Canterbury Cathedral.

Among American Bishops.

Among the American bishops who will attend the Lambeth conference are the Right Rev. Peter Trimble Howe, Bishop of Alaska; the Right Rev. George A. Oldham, Bishop of Albany; the Right Rev. Henry J. Kikell, Bishop of Atlanta; the Right Rev. Edward C. Acheson, Bishop of Connecticut; the Right Rev. Edward L. Parsons, Bishop of California; the Right Rev. Irving Peake Johnson, Bishop of Colorado; the Right Rev. Philip Cook, Bishop of Delaware; the Right Rev. William P. Remington, Missionary Bishop of Eastern Oregon; the Right Rev. George W. Davenport, Bishop of Easton, Md.; the Right Rev. John C. Ward, Bishop of Erie; the Right Rev. Reginald Heber Weller, Bishop of Fond du Lac; the Right Rev. James H. Darlington, Bishop of Harrisburg; the Right Rev. Middleton S. Barnwell, Missionary Bishop of Idaho; the Right Rev. Joseph Marshall Francis, Bishop of Indianapolis; the Right Rev. Ernest Stires, Bishop of Long Island; the Right Rev. Thomas J. Garland, Bishop of Pennsylvania; the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington; the Right Rev. Alexander Mann, Bishop of Pittsburgh; the Right Rev. Thomas F. Ballor, Bishop of Tennessee; the Right Rev. Thomas F. Davies, Bishop of Western Massachusetts; the Right Rev. Hugh L. Burleson, Missionary Bishop of South Dakota; the Right Rev. Frederick Howden, Missionary Bishop of New Mexico, and the Right Rev. Paul Matthews, Bishop of New Jersey.

Lutherans Will Expend $135,000 on Education

The National Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church has adopted a program for the year beginning July 1.

It calls for an expenditure of $135,000, of which $32,000 will go for office expenses, $30,000 for Lutheran students and $73,000 as grants to seminaries and colleges. Much of this money will be raised by Washington churches.

Archbishop to Visit Ireland.

Archbishop Curley, accompanied by Monsignor David F. O'Dwyer, vice chancellor of the Catholic University, is sailing on the Baltic for Ireland. He will spend his vacation at his mother's home, Golden Island, near Athlone, and will return early in autumn.

MOSAIC FROM POPE RECEIVED AT SHRINE

Copy of Murillo's Painting, Immaculate Conception, at Brookland Crypt.

WEIGHT IS 7,000 POUNDS

A reproduction in mosaic of Murillo's famous painting, "The Immaculate Conception," the personal gift of Pope Pius XI, has been received at the Catholic University and installed in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, on the university campus. It was made in the mosaic workshop of the Vatican and weighs some 7,000 pounds.

A large group of workmen and machinery were used to set the mosaic in place, and a special shrine, in the entrance to the crypt, has been built to hold it. Ultimately it will be removed to the upper church, where it will have a permanent position in close relation to the main altar.

Thanks Cabled Pope.

Wednesday evening Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, rector emeritus of the university and founder of the National Shrine, and Mgr. Bernard A. McKenna, director of the shrine, cabled to Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, announcing safe arrival of the great mosaic, conveying deepest gratitude to the Pope and imploring the apostolic benediction.

Some eighteen years ago Bishop Shahan and the late Cardinal Gibbons were in Rome and were received in private audience by Pope Pius X, who, having heard of the projected shrine, asked permission to make a contribution toward it. Thereupon, he presented Bishop Shahan with 2,000 Italian lire, about $400 in American money.

The reigning head of the Catholic Church is a great admirer of Murillo, and, in order to get a nearly perfect reproduction of his greatest painting, which is now in the Prado Gallery at Madrid, he sent his personal artist, Count Muccioli, to Madrid to make a special copy of the original, and from it the gift of mosaic has been constructed.

Ten Feet in Height.

In this art work, which measures 10 feet 6 inches in height by 8 feet in width, there are many thousands of little cubes of enamel in numerous colors, many of which were fused especially for the delicate tints of Murillo's masterpiece.

To date the Catholic people of the United States have given $2,500,000 toward the erection of the National Shrine, and the crypt has been wholly paid for. It will be many years before the shrine is completed.

Presbyterians to Hold "Home Missions Day"

"Home Missions Day" will be celebrated in the Sunday Schools of the Southern Presbyterian Churches in Washington tomorrow. This is part of an observance that will be held all through that connection. An attractive program, entitled "Welcoming the Stranger," will be given at Central Presbyterian Church and at the Church of the Pilgrims. This program gives information about the various fields of service among the Mountain people, Indians, Jews, Foreigners and Negroes.

According to the annual report recently submitted to the General Assembly, meeting in Charlottesville, 16 new churches were organized last year, 23 assumed self-support, 41 Sunday schools were organized and mission work carried on at 298 preaching points. The home missions committee supervised 650 workers in 702 churches and missions and 304 outposts.

Monagenarian Greeted At Covenant Church

After the enactment of the dramatic scene in the Church of the Covenant last Sunday morning, when Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, pastor of the Covenant, welcomed Dr. Newton Preston Patterson, pastor, and the members of the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church of this city, into the fellowship of the Covenant, Dr. Patterson spoke of one of the members of the First Church who had belonged to it for 66 years, and had been a trustee of the First Church for more than the life time of a generation.

Dr. McCartney requested this venerable man, Mr. W. H. Fletcher, who is in his 94th year, to stand, and he was received with applause by the assembled congregations of the two churches.

Southern Presbyterians To Hear Dr. Taylor

Presbyterians of the South will gather next week at Montreat, N. C., where they have their assembly grounds, for the annual Montreat Conference. Dr. James H. Taylor, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, this city, will address the conference every day from July 1 to the 6th, preaching on Sunday on the question of religious education of the youth.

Retreat Is Arranged For Catholic Lawyers

Washington lawyers who are members of the Roman Catholic Church will spend this week-end in retreat at Manresa-on-the-Severn, where they will be examined in their spiritual state by their advisor.

U. S. INQUIRY LOOMS IN APPLES EMBARGO

Stimson Indicates Prompt Action Will Be Taken on British Ruling.

TARIFF REPRISAL DENIED

(Associated Press.)

Probability that the fruit fly embargo by Great Britain against a majority of United States apples will be investigated by the State Department for possible discrimination was indicated yesterday by Secretary Stimson. The department was notified yesterday that an embargo was being considered, and shortly afterward news dispatches from London said such an order had been issued by the British Board of Trade.

Earlier, officials at the Department of Agriculture had disclosed that the apple fruit fly also existed in certain Canadian apples, but so far as was known no embargo was being placed upon Canadian fruit.

Informed of this, Secretary Stimson said he presumed the State Department would at once inquire into the situation.

Fancy Grades Excepted.

The embargo note from the British Embassy, the substance of which was made public yesterday by the Secretary of State, said an order shortly would be made prohibiting importation into England of all American apples between July 7 and November 15, except for certain fancy grades.

These were named as barreled apples of the grade known as "U. S. fancy," or "fancy U. S. No. 1," and boxed apples designated as "extra fancy" or "fancy." Even these, it was said, will be excluded unless accompanied by a certificate from an authorized inspector of the Department of Agriculture, guaranteeing that no apples were contained in the shipment other than the grades indicated.

Canadian Fruit Not Affected.

Sir John Joyce Broderick, commercial counselor for the British Embassy, said yesterday he knew of no contemplated embargo by Great Britain against Canadian apples. He said he would infer that shipments of apples received in England were not infected with the fly. If such shipments were discovered, he said he had no doubt an embargo would be placed.

At the British Embassy it was explained that the embargo against the American fruit was in no sense a retaliation against the recently enacted tariff law, but was designed entirely under the British destructive insects and pests act to keep the fruit fly from English orchards.

Motor Pyre Victim Partly Identified

Body Burned in Schroeder Auto Believed That of Frank Macy.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 27 (A.P.).—County authorities today reported evidence that the body burned in his automobile by Harold H. Schroeder, Mobile, Ala., here May 31, may have been that of Frank Macy, 29, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Partial identification of patches of cloth from the charred body as parts of Macy's clothing and of rosary beads, a belt buckle and a brown leather wrist strap as Macy's property, was established today by operators of the rooming house where the Cincinnati man lived prior to his disappearance May 29.

Schroeder, held without bond on arson and murder charges, has said he did not know the identity of the dead man, a hitch hiker. Schroeder maintains that the hitch-hiker's neck was broken when his automobile went into a ditch near Terre Haute, Ind., and that fearing he would be held responsible, he drove back to Indianapolis and burned the body with the automobile.

Vardaman Laid to Rest In Jackson Cemetery

Jackson, Miss., June 27 (A.P.).—Taps were sounded at dusk today over the body of James K. Vardaman, former governor and senator, as it was laid to rest in Lakewood Memorial Park.

Friends passed the bier during the day as the body lay in state, with a guard of honor composed of Mississippi National Guardsmen remaining at the side of the man who for his fight for white supremacy was dubbed the "Great White Chief." The flag-draped casket was placed in the Capitol during the morning and removed at 4 o'clock to Galloway Methodist Church, where services were held.

Nicaragua Beauty, Missing, Located

Miss Morales Found Safe in Atlanta, Ga., With Theater Family.

Atlanta, Ga., June 27 (A.P.).—Miss Haydee Morales, Nicaraguan representative in the recent international Miami beauty pageant, for whom search has been under way for the past several weeks, was found here today. Miss Morales, who took third prize at Miami, was one of a party of Latin-American girls taken on a theatrical tour which closed here.

G. Andrado, promoter of the tour, said the show closed because of his wife's illness. At that time several of the Latin-American girls appealed to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale for aid in financing their return home.

Miss Morales said she had communicated with friends in Managua, and had received a little money from them, and from her father, A. Z. Morales, whom she described as a political exile in Los Angeles. Her mother, who accompanied her to the United States, and Andrado and his wife, were with her here. She said she had not heard the reports that she was missing.

Society Seeks to Reduce Cost of Radium for Sick

Radiological Research Institute Organizes in Detroit to Further Investigation Into Use of Substance in Fighting Cancer.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Organization by leading American radiologists of a society for research to lower the cost of radium and X-rays for the sick, was announced here today.

Recent advances in radiation, such as generation by human flesh of actual X-rays believed somehow connected with restoration of health, and effects in curing cancer were sketched in the announcement of the field upon which the new scientific body will concentrate.

The society was organized under the name of the Radiological Research Institute in Detroit yesterday by radiologists attending the annual meeting of the American Medical Association. The record of their action was made public here today by William W. Buffum, general manager of the Chemical Foundation, Inc., who attended and acted as official spokesman.

Officers elected were Dr. E. C. Ernst, of St. Louis, president; Dr. Rollin H. Stevens, of Detroit, vice president, both being former presidents of the Radiological Society of North America, and Dr. D. S. Childs, of Syracuse University, treasurer.

Objects were stated as stimulation of research in cheaper production of radium, lowering of cost of medical care, "especially as related to use of X-ray and radium;" to cooperate with the National Institute of Health and all other existing agencies, especially in study of cancer, and advancement of use of rays in industry.

HOOVER TO SEEK PRIVATE FUND FOR WICKERSHAM BODY'S USE

a misdemeanor for any one working for the Government to accept outside money or for any one to give such money. Undoubtedly the President holds that the members of the commission are not Government workers or officials.

Senator Glass said that if anybody was "simple enough" to give money to the commission he had no objection.

But regardless of how the President comes out, his admirers did not attempt to conceal their joy over his shift, which incidentally might be considered as directed at the House also, as that body did not appropriate anything for the commission. The $250,000 appropriation in the deficiency bill went out on a point of order in that body, there being no substantive law authorizing it.

Statement of President.

The President's statement follows:

"I know that the apropriation requested by the Law Enforcement Commission for its work outside of prohibition has failed in the Senate. This deleted part of the appropriation is that devoted to investigation into the cause and remedy for crime in general and for the determination of the reforms needed in our judicial and administrative machinery.

"As a matter of fact, the enforcement of any one criminal law necessarily involves the machinery by which all criminal laws are enforced, and the country is concerned over the cause of increasing crime in general. Nothing indicates the situation better than the fact that in the last two years there was an increase of persons in Federal prisons for serious offenses from 8,400 to over 13,000, whereas in the previous two years the increase was from 7,100 to 8,400—in other words, an increase of 1,300 in the first period and an increase of 5,600 in the last period. Seventy per cent of these prisoners are for other crimes than those arising out of prohibition. Our State prisons show about the same story.

"There can be no doubt that the more vigorous enforcement of the laws has had something to do with the Federal situation. What the causes and remedies are in respect to these 70 per cent is of vital importance.

Commission to Proceed.

"With growing crime of all kinds and with insistent recommendations from every bar association and public body concerned that we should have an accurate study of the reforms necessary in our whole judicial and administrative machinery, that we should have some constructive program for decreased and control of crime as a whole, I can not abandon the question for one moment or allow the work of this commission to cease. I have asked the commission to proceed with its full program of work, and it has consented to do so.

"I have no doubt that there are private citizens sufficiently anxious for the Nation to know the whole truth as to what constructive remedies may be suggested by so eminent a body of men and women as this commission, that I shall be able to secure from private sources the $100,000 necessary to carry this work forward to completion.

"The commission are volunteers serving solely out of regard to public interest, and all funds, whether congressional or otherwise, are solely for investigation work.

"The commission will, of course, need to set up a separate division to take charge of the nonprohibition section of their work, and will, of course, preside over it in a separate capacity."

Armed Mill Workers Hunt Girl's Attacker

Concord, N. C., June 27 (A.P.).—Several hundred armed men were searching the countryside near here this afternoon for a Negro who attacked a 15-year-old girl today. The girl was an employe of the Roberta Textile Mill.

So many of the employes joined in the search that the management closed the mill and abandoned work for the day.

BOSTON WELCOMES BYRD AND HIS MEN

Gold Medallion of State Is Given to Explorer by Gov. Allen.

GUESTS AT CITY DINNER

Boston, June 27 (A.P.).—To the plaudits of hundreds of thousands of home folk, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, aerial conqueror of North and South Poles and the Atlantic Ocean, came back today to receive a welcome such as Boston probably never has given to another man.

From the moment he descended at the South Station from his private car, named appropriately for another great explorer, David Livingstone, until three hours later when he retired momentarily to the privacy of his Brimmer street home, Admiral Byrd was the center of milling thousands whose enthusiasm seemed to know no bounds.

Colleagues Are Praised.

With him from first to last went a goodly number of his erstwhile colleagues under the Southern stars. There was intrepid Bernt Balchen, pilot of Byrd's three major flights; Capt. Ashley C. McKinley, photographer of the South Pole; Harold I. June, the expedition's copilot, and more than a score of others, including twelve Greater Boston men.

The celebration, Admiral Byrd insisted, was not alone his, but theirs. On the steps of the statehouse, where Gov. Frank G. Allen presented the gold medallion of the Commonwealth to the rear admiral, and on the common, where Mayor James C. Curley extolled his deeds, the explorer, in turn, paid eloquent tribute to those others who had contributed to the expedition's success.

Mrs. Byrd Presented.

Mrs. Byrd, whose unwillingness to project herself into the public light of her husband's deeds, has become proverbial, remained smilingly at his side today.

Only once did she come forward. At the Parkman bandstand, from which the common exercises took place, Mayor Curley insisted that Mrs. Byrd show herself to the more than 5,000 persons massed about the platform.

Mayor Curley described the welcome the city had given Admiral Byrd as the greatest in history, surpassing even those accorded war-time celebrities, while Admiral Byrd himself, visibly moved by the demonstration, declared himself "overwhelmed" and asserted that the reception had "exceeded all my expctations."

Tonight the Admiral and Mrs. Byrd and his companions were guests at the city's official banquet. Mayor Curley presided and Gov. Allen headed a list of distinguished speakers.

Architect Pleads Not Guilty.

Edward George Donohoe, 30-year-old architect, pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial yesterday when arraigned in Police Court on a charge of taking and carrying away personal property without the right so to do. Bond was fixed at $300. The architect is alleged to have removed certain blue prints from another architect's office.

CIVIC ASSOCIATIONS ASK CAPITAL JUDGE

Federation Committee Gets Authority to Recommend Local Residents.

JULY 4 PLANS ARE LAID

Authority to nominate and press for appointment to one of the vacancies on the bench of the Court of Appeals and the District Supreme Court a citizen of the District of Columbia was granted to its legislative committee by the Federation of Civic Associations last night at a meeting in the board room at the District Building. William A. Joiner presided in place of Dr. George H. Richardson, who was called away by illness at his home.

The federation was notified by Commissioner Crosby that its request for traffic lights on First street from Massachusetts avenue to Florida avenue had been carefully considered when first requested by another association, and had been denied because police were stationed at the principal traffic intersections and other intersections would not warrant use of traffic lights.

A proposed amendment was introduced by John E. Bowles to the effect that all delegates be elected or appointed to the federation by constituent associations at their January meetings, notification being given the corresponding secretary of the federation of their election immediately thereafter. The amendment will come up for consideration at the September meeting of the federation.

Greater police vigilance was urged along the Anacostia River front to prevent boys from swimming at points prohibited by law. W. A. Joiner reported plans of the Fourth of July civic celebration committee, encouraging local associations to carry on individual celebration during the day and to join in the general celebration at night. He stated that, by his request, playgrounds would be open on that day where civic associations so requested.

INJUNCTION FORBIDS WOOL PRICE FIXING

Decree Issued by Consent Against Institute and 138 Members.

AID TO BUSINESS SEEN

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—The Wool Institute and its 138 members, controlling most of the country's supply of woolen yarns and cloths, were enjoined in Federal court today from continuing price-fixing activities in violation of the antitrust laws.

Counsel for the institute consented to a decree restraining it and its members from the actions the Government complained of and the institute issued a statement saying the decree would have a beneficial effect on the industry.

After months of investigation the Department of Justice filed a bill in equity against the institute today, charging it and its members were engaged in a combination in restraint of trade. It was charged the members agreed to maintain and enhance prices, exchanged future price information, fixed uniform opening dates on which certain classes of goods might be offered for sale, and agreed to withhold those goods from the market until the dates fixed.

Justice Department statement said the complaint was not directed at the work of the institute as a whole, but merely at certain specific practices considered illegal under the Sherman antitrust law.

"The decree will have a beneficial effect on the wool industry as a whole," the institute statement read. "In that it clears the atmosphere of any misunderstanding * * * and gives the wool industry of the United States a clear sailing chart, laying down a specific course, pointing out those activities which can not be carried on."

C. W. Bryan Enters Race for Governor

Lincoln, Nebr., June 27 (A.P.).—Charles W. Bryan, Democratic nominee for Vice President of the United States, in 1924, today filed his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the Nebraska primary August 12.

Mr. Bryan, brother of Willian Jennings Bryan, was Governor of Nebraska from 1923 to 1925. No other candidates have announced for the Democratic nomination.

Gov. Arthur J. Weaver, seeking nomination on the Republican ticket is opposed by Harry I. Palmer, Omaha attorney.

THE HOOVER COMMISSION.

The action of the Senate in reducing the appropriation for the Law Enforcement Commission to $50,000, and confining its duties to a study of prohibition enforcement, has drawn from the President a statement in which he announces his determination to use the commission for a study of crime conditions in general.

"I have no doubt," says Mr. Hoover, "that there are private citizens sufficiently anxious for the Nation to know the whole truth as to what constructive remedies may be suggested by so eminent a body of men and women as this commission, that I shall be able to secure from private sources the $100,000 necessary to carry this work forward to completion. * * * The commission will, of course, need to set up a separate division to take charge of the nonprohibition section of their work, and will, of course, preside over it in a separate capacity."

The Law Enforcement Commission, although it has received funds from Congress for investigation purposes, is a creation of the Executive, and its members serve without pay and are not officials of the Government. The commission is merely advisory to the President. Its reports are made to him and not to Congress. Apparently the President can abolish the commission at will, change its membership to suit himself, and direct it to make such inquiries as he may see fit.

The President calls attention to the fact that the members of the commission serve without pay. The law prohibits any officer of the Government from receiving salary from private sources. It is also made a misdemeanor for any person to make any contribution to the salary of any Government official or employe. The money appropriated by Congress for the Law Enforcement Commission has been devoted entirely to investigation, according to the President's statement.

A difference of opinion between the President and Congress as to the work of the Law Enforcement Commission is to be regretted. The willingness of Congress to accept the commission as a quasi-official body greatly enhanced the prestige of the commission and clothed its recommendations with a semblance of official responsibility. It may be doubted that the public would attach equal importance to recommendations from a commission privately financed. However praiseworthy the objective may be, it is not a fortunate situation when private parties are called upon to finance work that properly belongs to the Government. The motives of such persons are apt to be impugned, and the validity of the reports made under their auspices is usually challenged.

The study of the crime situation and remedies therefor is properly a duty of the Government. Mr. Hoover shows how the prison population has increased. Congress, when it supported the Law Enforcement Commission with a liberal appropriation last year, virtually designated it as a suitable medium for making the study that is required as a basis for legislation. Some legislation has since been enacted in accordance with the recommendations of the commission.

Confusion as to the status of the commission will not increase its usefulness. Congress may show a disposition to withhold appropriations entirely. The objections to the creation of commissions of doubtful authority, already expressed in Congress, may become more pointed as a result of the situation that has developed.

AN OVERSIGHT BY CONGRESS.

When Congress enacted the bill entitling veterans of the World War to the title and insignia of the highest rank they attained during the war it overlooked a group of officers, less than 25 in number, who were retired under section 24b of the act of June 4, 1920. Until the bill was enacted, retired and discharged officers were permitted to wear only the insignia of the rank in which they were discharged, and this restriction still applies to the officers retired under section 24b. The new law does not involve increases of retirement pay; it has to do with the recognition of titles fairly won.

A soldier's rank upon discharge or retirement measures his success in his career. The unintentional slight to this small group of officers means that others who were their subordinates in battle take precedence over them upon ceremonial occasions. In justice to officers retired under section 24b, Congress should grant them the privileges it has extended all other former officers.

STEPHEN G. PORTER.

Stephen G. Porter, for the last seventeen years a member of the House of Representatives from the Thirty-second District of Pennsylvania, died in Pittsburgh yesterday, having been removed to his home city from a hospital in Washington early in the present month. Mr. Porter was the outstanding opponent of the opium traffic and among the last acts of his career in Congress was his successful fight for the creation of a bureau in the Treasury Department which from this time forward will have entire control of the enforcement of the law governing the importation, manufacture and sale of narcotics. As chairman of the committee on foreign affairs he was energetic in pressing the movement to control the narcotic evil by the voluntary regulation of manufacture by certain countries.

It was also in his capacity as chairman of the committee having charge of foreign affairs that Mr. Porter was active in bringing about legislation for the building of American embassies and legations abroad. It may be said that within a few years in practically every capital in the world there will be a monument to the memory of the legislator who has just passed away, for to him more than to any other individual is due the fact that the United States is now housing its envoys in fine modern buildings. Many of the sites were selected by Mr. Porter himself. He was an indefatigable traveler and through his travels and studies he became one of the best informed men in Congress on all foreign matters. He was especially well acquainted with the Far East and on more than one occasion helped to shape American policy at critical times.

A most capable public servant, a delightful companion and a faithful friend, Stephen G. Porter's death is deeply lamented in Washington.

THE POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA.

The Poughkeepsie Regatta is the classic of college rowing contests. It is for this race that crews are trained and drilled through the fall, winter and spring, and although victory in the lesser meets of the rowing season is looked upon as highly desirable, a victory at Poughkeepsie wipes out the stain of any and all other defeats suffered during the year. Cornell, by winning the Poughkeepsie on Thursday, becomes once again ruler of the Hudson. In defeating such crews as Washington, Columbia, Navy and California it completely upset every prediction.

Washington, Columbia, Navy and California were the favorites in the race. Cornell, Syracuse and Massachusetts Tech were expected to be left far in the rear. But Syracuse followed Cornell across the finish line and Boston Tech placed third, while California and Columbia were fourth and fifth, respectively, and the Navy boat was swamped in the last half mile. The upsets of the Poughkeepsie Regatta typify the uncertainties of rowing.

A winning boat must function like a machine. Eight men, trained rigorously through ten months and pitched to the peak of excitement while they strain at their sweeps awaiting the starting gun, must swing those sweeps with clock-like precision 32 or more strokes per minute for the more than 20 minutes required to row a 4-mile race. In the stern of the shell sits the coxswain, whose task it is to guide the craft, to keep track of the position of the other shells and to count the beat. The stroke oar, who sits immediately forward of the coxswain, establishes the stroke with which the other seven oars must swing in synchronization. Let one oar falter and the delicate machine of a finely balanced crew is destroyed. In other sport one cog can slip occasionally without disastrous effect, but in rowing it is unfaltering teamwork that wins races.

Rowing is the sport beautiful. The taint of commercialization has never been whispered against it. Those who participate in it are trained in courage, strength and endurance. The growing interest in rowing should be encouraged.

FENDING OFF UNEMPLOYMENT.

President Hoover's committee on economic changes, which includes in its membership Owen D. Young, President Green, of the American Federation of Labor; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, and others of equal prominence, concludes that effective application of the idea of relieving unemployment by increasing expenditures for public works depends chiefly on "skillful timing in the use of a comparatively small margin of public construction." Prompt action, before conditions become serious, says the committee, can be assured only as there is developed a practical method of gauging the economic situation, so that trends which threaten adversely to influence the economic balance may be anticipated, and compensating factors introduced earlier than would be the case if natural forces were left to their own time and way.

Senator Wagner's bill for relieving unemployment by providing in advance for large-scale public works operation falls short chiefly in that it makes no new suggestion as to how the need for the emergency operations is to be indicated. The bill provides a board, to be composed of the Secretaries of the Treasury, Commerce, Agriculture and Labor, which is to advise the President from time to time of the trend of employment and business activity and of the existence or approach of periods of depression, and the board is enjoined to take into consideration as a basis for its advices the volume, based on value, of construction contracts awarded in the United States and the index of employment prepared by the Department of Labor. When, upon recommendation of the board, the President finds that there exists or is likely to exist within the following six months a period of depression or unemployment, he is requested to submit to Congress supplemental estimates for emergency appropriations to be expended upon public works.

Existing agencies are equipped to analyze the volume of construction contracts and the employment index and are authorized to advise the President as to what the analysis may indicate, and the President, if he believes an emergency exists or impends, has full authority to request Congress to approve emergency appropriations for public works. But the need, says the committee on economic changes, is for more skillful timing in the use of public work construction. Senator Wagner has taken the lead in preparing legislation for the relief and fending off of unemployment. It would be well if he were to consider the recommendation of the committee on economic changes, and undertake to work out a system that will permit of more perfect timing of public work construction. This is the fundamental requirement for unemployment relief.

Paris decrees "natural" complexions for the forthcoming season. Being natural is the hardest job for most flappers.

The rumor that Senator Smoot is returning to Utah to marry may be discounted. He said upon his departure that he was going on a vacation.

New Hampshire boasts of a blacksmith shop still operating at top capacity, but we'll bet there's a filling pump outside the door and a tire tool within reach.

WANTED—A PERFECT ROSE

From the London Times.

That unstable quality, novelty of color, plays a part in the popularity of flowers, but unless joined to many other qualities it is a will-o'-the-wisp which leads more or less quickly to the garden rubbish heap. Among everyday plants it hovers persistently over sweet peas, daffodils, dahlias, florists' varieties of delphinium, and, especially, garden roses. The number of those which rise on the wave of novelty only to fall in a year or two when their weak points have been discovered is remarkable, though not more so, perhaps, than the regularity with which wave follows wave. The meteoric career of some roses is easily followed in the recently issued analysis which the Rose Society publishes annually of the esteem in which certain popular varieties are held by 15 chosen amateurs and 13 nurserymen living in different parts of the country; and though their judgment is no more than the personal opinion of 28 individuals and is in no sense authoritative, it is probably a trustworthy indication of the popularity of this rose or that. At any rate, the nurserymen are well able to gauge popular taste in their areas.

The analysis shows what tricks fashion can play in the popularity of roses, for out of 30 varieties Caroline Testout, that standby of the last generation of rose growers, and now in her fortieth year, is nearly at the bottom of the list. Nothing but the exceptional qualities of this resplendent dame has kept her in the list so long, and after all these years she is without serious rival in her own circle. Sometimes her age seems to be telling on her, but that is probably because of some local condition of soil or situation which she does not like. Ophelia's star, too, seems to be declining, for she is now thought worthy of the fourteenth place only, out of 29; and the veteran American, Gen. McArthur, can not rise even to that height. On the other hand, the hybrid tea Lady Pirrie, which is about to come of age, is placed seventh; it seems also, however, to be gradually losing ground, as in the analysis for 1923 it was runner-up to Los Angeles, which headed the list then, though now it has fallen to seventh place. Last year the principal honors were divided between three hybrid tea roses—Betty Uprichard, Etoile de Holande and Mme. Butterfly, all about ten years old.

What particular quality other than color took this trio to the top of the list it would be hard to say, but even Betty Uprichard may find that her particular tint of "coppery-pink, shaded salmon," may have as evanescent a hold on the masses as the "vivid terra-cotta, passing to clear strawberry-rose," of Mme. Edouard Herriot. That remarkable example of blended colors reached the crest of the wave of popularity eight or nine years ago, and now, well on the way to the bottom of the annual list, it is feeling the fickleness of a transient taste, which, fed on mustard streaked with apricot, vermilion-flushed old gold, or rose pink shaded peach, and the like, will doubtless demand fresh combinations of color till the inevitable surfeit of eye-tickling tints brings reaction along with purity and clarity of color.

Meanwhile the search for that elusive plant, the perfect general-purpose rose, continues and is likely to continue, for it can hardly exist outside the dreams of the rosarian. The conditions are too exacting.

Out of disaster as quick as you can,
Wasting no time as a whiner and fretter,
A failure today, but tomorrow a man!

Up from the tumble the goal still to try for,
Starting anew where the last hope went down.
Wasting no minutes lost treasures to sigh for,

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My dear Louise: Every day I discover something new about you.

Yesterday, when the movie heroine made a fool of herself to get even with an unfaithful husband, I sat there beside you and almost wept to think what a harvest of woe she was preparing.

The harvest came in regular season, and served her right; but you were thinking only of the man's need of punishment and the moral escaped you.

"Served him right," said you. "I'm glad she got even with him, and I'd do the same thing."

Perhaps you would. I don't know—though I doubt it. But if you did the results would be just as unpleasant in your case as in hers.

All of us—old and young, good or bad—feel a natural urge to get even with those who do us injury. The impulse to hit back is bred in the bone.

But hitting back in quick anger, as almost everybody does, whether with brickbats or words, is a trivial business compared with a long-treasured thirst for revenge.

Hitting back in a flash of temper may cost you nothing more than your dignity, your self-respect and a few fragments of epidermis; but nursing a grudge and keeping your wounds raw does something to your soul.

Study the grudge-bearers you know and without exception you will find them sour and unpopular people who have embittered their own lives.

The chief objection to "getting even" is that it can't be done.

While you are planning revenge on your enemy the bitterness in your heart takes all the pleasure out of life and thus increases the damage you suffer at his hands.

Your malice doesn't hurt him, but merely sours your own existence. You are like a caged animal bruising itself against the bars in an effort to reach its tormentor.

And if your plans succeed and your enemy is delivered into your hands, still you are robbed of profit. He is a whipped and whining creature, and your soul revolts at the thought of hurting him further.

It simply can't be done, honey. While planning to get even you are cutting off your nose to spite your face, and when the day of settlement comes you find you can't hit a man when he's down.

Forgiveness is the easy way out. The mosquito may need swatting, but it doesn't pay to swat him on your nose. Love, DAD.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

CAL COOLIDGE, COLUMNIST.

Former President Coolidge has turned newspaperman. He has become a syndicate writer and will supply a daily article treating on any subject that interests him, from "What to Do About Rose Beetles" and "The Inner Life of the Pickerel" to "Where Will You Be at Sixty?" "Random Thoughts of the Bull Era" and "From White House to Columnist."

* * * *

His daily feature will cover much territory and may include occasional hints on how to keep well, advice to the lovelorn and recipes for old-fashioned buckwheat cakes with sausages.

* * * *

He may even go in for correcting golf faults.

* * * *

The former President now becomes a member of the circle graced by Dorothy Dix, O. O. McIntyre, Glenn Frank, Eddie Guest, Arthur Brisbane, Heywood Broun, Old Dr. Whoozizs, Walter Winchell and Dr. Cadman.

* * * *

His salary, according to rumors, will exceed that of the Presidency, and the thing that appeals to him is that he can draw it without being under any obligation to mix with congressmen, go fishing when he is not in the mood or pitch hay for the news reels.

* * * *

The Nation hopes that one of his early articles will be a frank statement of why he prefers the old-fashioned nightgown to pajamas.

* * * *

Calvin may not know it, but his troubles are just beginning. He will soon discover that compulsory fishing, cowboy serenades, talking pictures and the preparation of annual messages to Congress are easier than having to think up a daily feature for a newspaper. And he will have a hard struggle maintaining his reputation for silence when he gets some of the newspapers and sees what the proofreaders can do to his stuff.

* * * *

Then, too, there will be gray days for the former President when well-meaning friends remark: "I read your stuff right along; it's pretty good sometimes." "That was a swell article you wrote six months ago; I forget just what it was all about now," and "Oh, George and I always buy the paper so we can get your stuff; the children like to have us read it aloud to them at bedtime."

* * * *

Still, welcome to the fold, Calvin! We have no feeling that having been a President is a handicap to clear thinking or honest writing.

AN ACHIEVEMENT.

Col. Roberto Fierro, Mexican army airman, has flown from New York to Mexico City in sixteen and one-half hours. Showing it is at last possible for a Mexican to fly to New York and back under the same administration.

Descriptions: The kind of man who, if he lost 1,000 shares of common stock today, would bother to look for them.

The son born to Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh is, of course, described as "wee."

The child of such intrepid fliers, you can just imagine how inadequate it will regard any such nursery lullabies as "Rockaby Baby on the Tree Top."

WOMAN'S REASON.

There was a young woman named Piker,
Who said to a man who did like her,
"I'd like you to like all the men that I like,
But the girl that you like, I won't like her."

SONG BY CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Six years was I the President,
When times were good—and how!
And, Lord, how happy am I that
I am not ruling now.

SONG BY MR. HOOVER.

For years I craved to rule the land,
Achieving fame and credit;
Now daily do I take command—
And, golly, how I dread it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Serenity, in Meridian Park, Not Only Lacks "It," but Is Rouged and Has a Smudge on Her Nose.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Living, as I do, near Meridian Park, one of my greatest pleasures is a daily stroll through this delightful spot. With its cooling breezes, winding paths, bordered with beautiful shrubs and trees, and its commanding view of the city, it is a blessing and an inspiration. Surely its donor, whose ivy-covered castle near by is a rest to weary eyes, deserves the gratitude of all who frequent it. I believe this park when completed will have no equal among parks of its size in the world.

But—and it is said there must be a but—there is, in my opinion, one blot on the landscape, and a very conspicuous one at that, facing as it does Sixteenth street. I speak of the statue Serenity. This ponderous and expressionless lady has always been a puzzle to me. She seems so unsuitable for both place and purpose. Each time I pass her I pause and ponder, hoping to find some hitherto undiscovered beauty, but so far I have been unrewarded. She simply lacks "it." And her present appearance is anything but pleasing. Recently I was shocked to find her with rouge on her cheeks, a black eye and a smudged nose. In fact, her whole person needs a thorough scrubbing—esthetics or no esthetics. Evidently the rising generation has no respect for Serenity, either real or personified. Is this art or what have we?

Doubting my own humble opinion, I have long kept silent on this subject, suffering, however, damage to my self-esteem as a judge of the beautiful. But some months ago my confidence was restored and I feel justified in my criticism. No less eminent sculptor and authority than Lorado Taft said, in expressing his opinion of Serenity during one of his lectures, that he hoped "the shrubbery would soon grow large enough to hide her from view."

How come, Fine Arts Commission, how come? I. V. C. O.

An Incident in the Nicaragua Canal Survey.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The recent accidental death of a former humble laborer who was employed by the Nicaragua Canal survey party 30 years ago has caused the engineers who are conducting the present survey of a canal route an enormous amount of extra work, and has greatly delayed the completion of the survey.

In 1900 a stone marking an important point on the route was set in the jungle near Santa Cruz River. Desiring to locate the stone, a small party was recently sent to the spot indicated by the diagrams. But all efforts to locate the stone were without success. Learning that an old employe named Carlos Zampieri remembered the place, a corporal was sent to his hut, where he was informed that the veteran was out in the bush felling a tree. No trace of the man could be found, but the soldier, after shouting and searching for some time, met a small boy, dumb with fright, who led the party into the dense jungle and showed them a great tree lying upon the ground. Carlos Zampieri was pinned under the trunk. Hastily procuring tools, the engineers cut a section of the trunk and released him, but he had been dead more than an hour.

Further search for the survey mark being considered useless, the engineers have found it necessary to relocate the position by new survey operations. H. P. J.

Great Hubbub Over "Clean-Up Week," and Nothing Done.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Some time ago, your paper, along with others, was taking a great interest in having the vacant lots in the District of Columbia cleaned up, which was very much to your credit.

About the time of "Clean-Up Week," as a result of the above agitation and publicity, three policemen were here inquiring about the three parcels of land surrounding our place, and from their expression and remarks, one might have thought, that the owners would have been electrocuted long before this if they did not remove this terrible pile of old automobiles &c., &c., covering these properties. But, "Clean-Up Week" passed, and along with it the police interest in it also, and it looks as if we had settled down to await "Clean-Up Week" of 1931.

As I am just a plain, respectable citizen, never have been in jail or murdered any one, but simply paid my taxes, which are high enough to have such things done, I don't suppose you will publish this. But I thought that your man that wrote those articles might be glad to know this. J. D. THOMPSON.

Senate Soldier Bill Obnoxious to All Sane Americans.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In view of the vote of the Senate Monday on the veterans' bill it is suggested that the United States Treasury be turned over to the Senate to do with as it pleases, and that the senators voting for the bill be granted leave of absence with full pay for a year or longer (the longer the better) in which to go abroad and study the present Russian form of government.

No American has or will object to liberal pensions, compensation and hospitalization of World War soldiers. But the Senate bill is reprehensible to every sane American.

A DEMOCRAT.

Yes, Business Calls Many a Man to Canada.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: American tourists last year spent $745,000,000 in foreign countries. The greater portion of this was expended in Canada. In commenting on this the Secretary of Commerce said: "The total merchandise trade between the two nations is now greater than between any other two countries and necessitates many business tours across the frontier."

Certainly there will be none to gainsay this explanation of the distinguished Secretary. In this and age of our own United States who could imagine any reason for visiting Canada except for a "business tour?"

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Col. Powell Plans Jaunt Over Europe

Author and Family to Follow New Trails on Continent.

By JEAN ELIOT.

"THE Places Where Nobody Goes" will be the title of the next volume from the facile pen of Col. E. Alexander Powell, explorer, war correspondent and writer of fascinating travel books. And in search of material for his book Col. Powell, accompanied by Mrs. Powell and Miss Bettie Powell, will take a motor trip through the little trodden trails of Europe.

They propose to sail on the S. S. Saturnia on Saturday, July 3, disembarking at Trieste. They will spend some time in the Balkans, traveling extensively in Albania, Roumania and Bulgaria, and will later work their way through Hungary, Poland and Germany to Scandinavia. Remote byways of France, England and Ireland will also be explored and, as the weather grows cooler, Col. Powell and his party will turn their steps toward Portugal and Spain, seeking out the little towns and hamlets which the tourist has not yet discovered. They will sail for home from Gibraltar in October.

Years ago Col. Powell wrote a book called "The Last Frontier," but ever since he has been seeking new frontiers—and finding them. After a long sojourn in Central Asia, he brought out "The Last Home of Mystery." Last summer, with his family, he journeyed into the remote sections of Canada, feeling that the last frontier on this continent was to be found there; and this summer he proposes to journey to the last frontier of romance. Certainly in the Roumania of the present day one may find ready made the plot for a corking novel of the "Graustark" or "Prisoner of Zenda" type—if the truth be not too strange for fiction.

Col. Powell, however, will have his mind on more serious matters, for he is to make a study of political and economic conditions in Europe to be embodied in a volume, as yet unnamed, which will supplement "The Places Where Nobody Goes" as the fruit of his summer's work.

Miss Bettie Powell has achieved distinction in a field distinct from her father's yet related to it through the insight she has acquired through extensive travel. She lectures on international politics. When she started out on a lecture tour winter before last, she was the youngest speaker on the platform. Last winter she gave up the work in favor of a gay season in Washington, but she is hopeful of gathering new material and fresh inspiration from her trip this summer.

Globe trotters for more than a score of years, Col. and Mrs. Powell now have their "Journey's End" in Washington—a charming house in Chevy Chase, filled with fascinating souvenirs of years of travel over the face of the globe, and they propose henceforth to spend the winters regularly in the Capital.

Mrs. Hyde Returns From Rapidan Camp.

Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, will return today to Washington after passing several days at the presidential camp at Rapidan, Va., with Mrs. Hoover.

Secretary Hyde and Miss Caroline Hyde attended the informal musicale given Thursday evening by Representative and Mrs. David H. Kincheloe in honor of Mr. Hyde's mother and sister, Mrs. Dolly Hyde, and Mrs. Brown Glenn, of Missouri.

The wedding of Representative Grant M. Hudson, of East Lansing, Mich., and Mrs. Mary E. Bloomer, of New York, will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Unionville, N. J., at the home of Mrs. Bloomer's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Allen.

Miss Helen Hudson and Mr. Winthrop Hudson, daughter and son of Representative Hudson, will accompany him to New Jersey. His son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Birdsell, of Milwaukee, and another son, Mr. Richard Hudson, of Lansing, are also in the East for the wedding. His other two sons will not be present at the ceremony.

Representative Ernest W. Gibson, of Brattleboro, Vt., will act as best man.

Mr. George Ward Sails For European Tour.

Mr. George Snyder Ward sailed last night on the Bremen for Germany. He will go to Paris for a few days and from there to Berlin and Leipzig, where he will remain until the end of July. Mr. Ward will then take a trip through Norway and Sweden before returning to New York on the Bremen on August 22.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall left Washington yesterday accompanied by their two sons, Mr. John Marshall, jr., and Mr. Paull Marshall. They will leave New York today with the United States Ambassador to Mexico, Mr. Dwight Morrow, in his private car for Mexico City where they will pass several weeks at the Embassy.

Mr. and Mrs. McElroy Moss returned to their home in Chevy Chase last evening after passing several weeks in Bermuda. Mrs. Moss will go to Sewickley, Pa., to visit her parents for a short time and will return accompanied by her two small children who remained with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barnes Benney, while Mr. and Mrs. Moss were away.

The Hon. John Francis Amherst Cecil and Mrs. Cecil have returned to New York from Bermuda and are at the Barclay for a short time before going to their home at Biltmore, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Sail for British Isles.

Mr. John Henry Bartlett, chairman of the American section of the International Joint Commission of the United States and Canada, and Mrs. Bartlett, sailed on Friday on the Bremen for a month's stay in the British Isles. They will return on the Europa, arriving in New York on August 12. Mr. Bartlett was formerly Assistant Postmaster General and was at one time Governor of New Hampshire.

Miss Phoebe Moorhead, daughter of Mrs. Robert West Moorhead, will be married today at noon to Dr. Albert Williams Cloud, of Englewood, N. J. The wedding will take place at the Ontario, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Ford, aunt and uncle of Miss Moorhead, in the presence of the immediate families, and the ceremony will be followed by a wedding breakfast.

Commander M. R. Pine, U. S. N., of the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., is at the Carlton for a few days.

Col. and Mrs. Paul Henderson, the latter a daughter of Mrs. Madden, will sail today for Europe on the Mauretania. They will be accompanied by their sons, Paul Henderson, jr., Martin Madden Henderson and Clark Lee Henderson, and by their twin daughters, Josephine and Florance. They will be in South Devon, England, for July and will go to Oberammergau in August to see the Passion Play.

Mrs. Madden Sojourns In Canandaigua.

Mrs. Martin B. Madden, widow of Representative Madden, is spending some time in Canandaigua, N. Y., and later will motor to her summer home, Castle Eden, at Hinsdale, Ill.

Mrs. Howard R. Watkins entertained a party of nine at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Others lunching at the Carlton were Senora de la Barra, wife of the First Secretary of the Bolivian Legation, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Belmont.

Representative Ruth Bryan Owen has gone to New York, where she is staying at the St. Regis.

Mrs. Harry C. Ransley, wife of Representative Ransley, of Pennsylvania, has returned to Washington for a few days visit at the Mayflower.

Miss Himes To Aid in Rites At Frederick

Marker Will Be Unveiled Where Gen. Meade Took Command.

The Misses Marilynn and Katrina Himes, small daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hendrick Himes, will unveil the marker, which the Pennsylvania Historical Commission is placing today upon the site of Gen. Joseph Hooker's headquarters, marking the spot where Gen. George Gordon Meade took command of the Army of the Potomac. The site is part of Mr. and Mrs. Himes' beautiful estate, Prospect Hall, near Frederick, Md., where the unveiling ceremonies will take place, and immediately before this Mr. and Mrs. Himes will entertain at luncheon in honor of Mr. John S. Fisher, Governor of Pennsylvania, and his staff.

Presentation of the deed for the site will be made by Mr. Himes to Mr. Emory L. Coblentz, acting for Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, and it will be then turned over to Gov. Fisher, who will accept it in behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and who will make an address. The Secretary of War, Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, will make the dedicatory address, sharing the spotlight with Mr. and Mrs. Himes' winsome daughters. Another speaker will be Mr. Isaac R. Pennypacker, brother of a former Governor of Pennsylvania, who has written authoritatively on Civil War campaigns and who is a member of the Meade Memorial Commission. Gen. Meade's grandson, Mr. George G. Meade, will be guest of honor at the ceremonies.

The marker, a gigantic block of native granite, will bear a bronze tablet, the work of Mr. George P. Cret, distinguished Philadelphia architect. Some 40 guests have been asked to the luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Himes are giving, among them Mrs. Himes' sister, Mrs. Caspar Whitney, of New York, and her daughter, Miss Faith Whitney, who are staying at Prospect Hall.

St. Alban's Episcopal Church was the scene of an interesting wedding yesterday when Miss Naomi Newton, daughter of Mrs. Albert E. Wright, was married to Mr. Raymond McAllister Hull. Mr. Wright gave the bride in marriage. She wore her traveling costume, a smart ensemble, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias. Only members of the two families and a few intimate friends were present at the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Lineweaver.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Hull left for an extended tour of New England. On their return they will be at home at the Park Central.

Mrs. Lawrence S. Churchill, wife of Maj. Churchill, Army Air Corps, Langley Field, Va., will sail with a party of friends from New York, July 2, for a Mediterranean cruise. She will visit northern Africa and Egypt and travel in Europe for the remainder of the summer.

Col. and Mrs. H. Murray Jacoby will arrive today at the Wardman Park Hotel for a brief visit.

Mr. Francis E. Sullivan, who has been making his home at the Cavalier and who is a student at St. Charles College in Baltimore, sailed yesterday on the S. S. Dresden for a European tour.

To Be Married Soon

Bachrach.

MISS MARY CLARE REDDINGTON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Reddington, whose marriage to Mr. Robert Henry Stoepler will take place in the near future. Mr. Stoepler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Stoepler, of Toledo, Ohio.

LaFarge Home Rejoices Over Arrival of Son

Former Miss Hoar Once Was Famous Belle in Capital.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher LaFarge, of New York, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on Thursday. Before her marriage Mrs. LaFarge was Miss Louisa Hoar, of Washington. She is a daughter of Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett, and Senator and Mrs. Gillett are now in New York with Mr. and Mrs. LaFarge to make the acquaintance of the infant, who will be named for Mrs. Gillett's father, Mr. William E. Rice.

Mr. LaFarge is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Grant LaFarge, of New York, and a grandson of the late John LaFarge, one of the most distinguished of American portrait painters. The Hoar girls, Louisa and Frances, the lat-

Fiancee Sees Police Chief Slain; Federals Replace Almada in Office.

RIVAL CLAIMS STUDIED

Mexico City, June 27 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Chihuahua City tonight said that Manuel Jesus Estrada, who was declared governor of Chihuahua Wednesday by the faction which drove out Gov. Francisco Almada, had fled with his followers and that Alamada had been reestablished with the aid of troops.

The whereabouts of Estrada was unknown, the reports said, and agents of the Federal Government meanwhile were investigating.

Gov. Almada returned by airplane from El Paso and the four government investigators, headed by Gen. Augustin de la Mora, chief of the presidential military staff, also came by air. They said their investigation would determine whether Almada or Estrada should have federal recognition. Pending the investigation the government is supporting Almada.

Police Chief Slain.

Delayed dispatches telling of Wednesday's clash say that only one person was killed—Gabriel Jimenez, chief of police—although several others, including some state congress members, were wounded and a number of persons were placed in jail.

The fight occurred just after the rebellious faction announced that Almada had been deposed. Most of the shooting occurred inside the capitol building.

Girl stenographers and other employes of the State government were trapped on upper floors of the building during the conflict. One of the stenographers was engaged to marry the chief of police. When she saw him die she fainted and fell down a flight of stairs, receiving serious injuries.

El Paso, Tex., June 27 (A.P.).—Representatives of President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico today began an attempt to unscramble the political muddle in the State of Chihuahua, where rival claimants to the governorship—Francisco Almada and Manuel Jesus Estrada—were contesting for control.

Followers Are Consulted.

Gens. Augustin Mora, L. Contreras and Pablo Meneas, appointed by the president to settle the differences between the factions, interviewed followers of both Almada and Estrada at Chihuahua City, but had reached no decision late today as to which of the claimants would be recognized by the federal government.

A dispatch from a staff correspondent of the El Paso Herald said that should the decision favor Estrada "more bloodshed was expected."

Order prevailed in the capital city of the state, although there was intense feeling following yesterday's coup by which followers of Manuel Prieto, candidate for governor, voted the impeachment of Gov. Almada and elected Estrada as provisional governor.

HOOVER TO RECEIVE SEA FLIERS MONDAY

called "the flying Dutchman;" Capt. J. Patrick Saul, the Irish navigator, whom he called Paddy, and "Little Johnny Stannage," the Australian wireless operator.

This Reception Different.

Today's reception was somewhat different from the usual welcome in that the fliers were already here and so could not be brought in on the city tug Macom for a procession up Broadway through the financial district to city hall. Instead of that they were taken in a fleet of cars from their hotel in the Grand Central zone down Fifth avenue and Lafayette street to city hall. All traffic was stopped for them and crowds along the curbs cheered as they passed with their escort of motorcycle police.

At city hall they were greeted by Mayor James J. Walker and presented with scrolls welcoming them to New York and praising them for their achievement. Mayor Walker spoke of them as public benefactors whose flight was a splendid contribution to science and human progress. He said that such pioneering flights were in no way to be confused with "stunt flying."

Kingsford-Smith responded with thanks for the reception and especially for the mayor's remark about stunt flying.

Good Will Hoped For.

"Many people," he said, "think that aviators fly across the ocean just to get a ride up Broadway, but that is not true. I hope that our flight has done something to help aviation and to strengthen international good will."

The program for tonight included a dinner and a visit to a motion picture theater to view a collection of news reels of the Southern Cross.

For 55 minutes—with a few interruptions—Squadron Leader Kingsford-Smith talked from his hotel room here tonight with his fiancee, Miss Mary Powell, 15,000 miles away, in Australia. The conversation was carried on by radio telephone.

To Return to England.

Speaking of New York's reception to himself and the other three members of the crew of the Southern Cross, he said, "We had a marvelous reception here, marvelous; they threw paper all over."

"I'm going to dispose of the Southern Cross in San Francisco," he continued. "I'm going back to England as fast as train and boat will carry me—and that date for September stands good. Oh, I'll teach you to fly oceans."

Today he received a cablegram from Prime Minister J. Ramsey MacDonald of England, who said, "I send my warm congratulations to you and other members of the crew of the Southern Cross on your great Atlantic flight."

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

Now that I have seen her, I feel no hesitancy in expressing the opinion that you will find Esther Ralston, the motion picture star, who succeeds Armida at the Earle as special added attraction, quite as surprising as you did her fiery little predecessor of last week.

Miss Ralston, on the screen, never gave the impression—at least, to this typewriter—of being a roistering good fellow, full of song, dance, quip, quirk and monkey business! That, however, is precisely what she does in her act at the Earle. She shouts, rather than sings, her way through more than one of her numbers, and at the end leaves the audience dizzy by the spectacle of blonde and lithe beauty she presents during her final tap dance while appearing in a costume that may perhaps best be described as a gold-foil sun suit!

You will discover to your chagrin that Miss Ralston is taller than you thought and more blonde than you suspected. But it is the startling warmth and vivacity of the Ralston personality that will utterly flabbergast you.

Whether Miss Ralston would be able to survive the round of gayety that Armida underwent is problematical. From the tremendously enthusiastic reception she was accorded yesterday afternoon at the first performance, it looks as if she might very likely be accorded the opportunity to give the matter a test.

Concerning Miss Ralston further, it may interest you to know that she was born in Bar Harbor, Me., September 17, 1902, and is said to have received at least a part of her early education in the public schools of this city—Washington, D. C.

Her parents were May Howard and Harry Walter Ralston. Many of her accomplishments as a stage artist were acquired while touring in the theatrical companies organized by her father. She entered pictures in 1918, is 5 feet 5 inches tall, and weighs 124 pounds. In private life she is the wife of George Webb, her business manager.

Since we are dabbling around in such data, it may still not be too late to let you know that Armida is 19 years old, 4 feet 11 inches tall, and weighs 90 pounds.

She was born in Sonora, Mexico, the daughter of Mary and Joaquin Vendrell, on May 21, 1911. Her schooling was acquired at the Lincoln School in Phoenix, Ariz., and St. Mary's College. She is unmarried, was discovered by Gus Edwards—although her stage experience began at the age of 5—and Armida Vendrell is her right name.

Invitations are out for a preview screening this midnight of John McCormack's only picture production to date, "Song o' My Heart," at the Fox Theater. The picture is not booked for regular local presentation until the week of August 29. Hardie Meakin, managing director of the Fox, is hosting.

It seems to me noteworthy that all of the downtown picture house managements have solved the puzzle of adjusting their refrigeration plants so that most of their boasts nowadays come true. I mean about the "cool, but not cold," "comfortable, but not chilly" business.

In previous seasons, entering a refrigerated house has been not unlike going into one of those big meat market cold storage rooms, and coming out upon the street again not dissimilar to emerging from an ice house immediately into the steam room of a Turkish bath. Both of these shocks have now been eliminated and the interval in between made wholly delightful by an inspired adjustment of the thermostat—if that is what you call it.

Anyhow, I'm for it, whatever it is.

You will observe that there are on view among the downtown first-runs for the new week, two pictures that are virtually identical in concept and, probably, treatment. I refer, of course, to "The Big House," at the Columbia, and "Numbered Men," at the Metropolitan—both dealing with the complex matters of jailbreaks and life within the walls of our foremost penitentiaries.

Having availed myself of the opportunity offered by Mr. Cullen to preview "The Big House," I am familiar with the many points of superiority which it presents; not having glimpsed even a foot of "Numbered Men," I can not undertake to offer any comparative appraisals of the two films.

That would be a risky procedure at best, but I feel that it may be said with no fear of contradiction that if "Numbered Men" is a better prison picture than "The Big House" it is by far the best of its kind ever made.

Al Smith still thinks that airplane was intended to be called the Southern Double Cross!

SOCIETY EVENTS

ter now Mrs. Reginald Foster, of Boston, are daughters of the late Representative Rockwood Hoar and granddaughters of the late Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts. Both were presented to society in Washington, were famous belles in their girlhood days, and figured prominently in entertaining for the Prince of Wales when he first came a-visiting to Washington.

Guests Arriving For Capital Nuptials.

A number of out-of-town guests have arrived in Washington for the wedding of Miss Rachel Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus P. Clarke, and Mr. Winfield Heinz, which will take place today.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Thomas Kelly are entertaining Mr. Kenneth Reeve, of Schenectady, and Mr. Thomas More, of Lexington, Va. Mrs. John King is entertaining Mr. Heinz, of Schenectady, and Mr. William Jordan, of Atlantic City. Mrs. Clarke has as guests four Wellesley classmates of her daughter: Miss Louise Gates, Miss Frances Morrison, Miss Alice Wilder and Miss Louise Eddy. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Linville are visiting Dr. Linville.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cole have as guests for the week their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Barns, who motored down from East Orange to attend the wedding.

Mrs. Barns is among those who have entertained Miss Clarke. Among the guests were Mrs. Warren Helphenstein, Mrs. Frank Myers, Miss Harriet Clarke, Miss Karla Heurich, Miss Edna Kelley, Misses Helen and Jennie Turnbull, Miss Mary Katharine Lutz, Miss Virginia Keyser, Miss Katherine Brannon, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Miss Louise Omwake and Miss Lyndall Ekert.

Miss Clarke has also been honored at parties given by Miss Heurich, Miss Berry, Miss Lundy, Miss Hall and Mrs. Myers.

The First Secretary of the Belgian Embassy, Viscount de Lantsheere, will sail today on the Belgenland to spend the summer abroad.

Miss Adaline Porter left yesterday for New Jersey and will sail today for Europe, crossing on the S. S. Lancastria of the Cunard Line.

Miss Agnes Winn left Wednesday for Columbus, Ohio, to attend the annual convention of the National Education Association. At the close of the convention Miss Winn will leave for the Pacific Coast to visit her family in Seattle.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul H. Ringer, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Ringer and Paul H. Ringer, jr., of Asheville, N. C., are guests at the Powhatan.

Mr. Julio Arjona, Panama lawyer, is a guest at the Mayflower with his daughters, Miss Isabel Arjona, who has just graduated from Mount St. Vincent's-on-the-Hudson, and his younger daughter, Miss Julia Arjona, who will attend Holy Cross Academy in Washington next season. Mr. Arjona and his daughters are leaving today for California.

Mr. D. W. Ellis, formerly of Washington, now of Ogden, Utah, is visiting here with his wife, stopping at the Hotel Annapolis.

PlaneBrings$5,000,000 To Aid Cincinnati Banks

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 27 (A.P.).—M. J. Fleming, deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, Cleveland, said $5,000,000 in currency had been brought here today by airplane from Cleveland and placed in the Federal Reserve branch to add assurance to the banking situation in this city.

He said it was the first time that money ever was sent out of the Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank by airplane, and that the step was evidence that the Federal Reserve Bank was ready at all times to aid any city. Six armed guards accompaneid the money in the plane. The currency was brought here following the closing of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks National Bank and the Cosmopolitan Bank & Trust Co.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

BLOSSOMING into a full-fledged radio orator, Clark Griffith waxed eloquent several nights ago, telling the invisible audience how he discovered Joe Judge, veteran first baseman of the Washington Baseball Club, in whose honor so many will turn their footsteps toward the ball park today.

"It has been my good fortune to be the discoverer of more good first basemen than any other manager in baseball," Mr. Griffith said at the Joe Judge party staged by "Radio Joe" over Station WMAL.

"In a period of 26 years I have brought out and developed Hal Chase, Chick Gandel and Joe Judge and, last, but not least, the future great Art Shires. Some of these days, no doubt, you will be able to add him to the list of my famous discoveries.

"None of them acquired the grace, skill and smoothness of Judge. Joe fills his position like a well-oiled machine. Never a false move.

"Not above the average in height, as most first basemen are, Judge is one of the greatest targets to shoot at that any infielder ever had the pleasure of throwing to. This is due greatly to his wonderful ability to shift his feet to put himself in position to catch all kinds of bad throws.

"My discovery of Joe Judge came mostly by accident. I had heard a great deal about an outfielder named Jamieson, with the Buffalo Club, and went to that city to see Jamieson play. Judge was on the same team. His playing immediately attracted my attention.

"When the game was over the Buffalo owner asked me if I liked Jamieson. I said that I liked him very much, but the price was too steep, and added: 'Suppose you throw in Joe Judge with Jamieson.'

"The Buffalo man agreed to do this, provided I added $2,000 to Jamieson's price. The deal was closed and I had had a lucky day, purchasing two great ball players."

ALTHOUGH they have been playing together only a few nights, it looks as if "Uncle Abe and David" have the makings of another radio ten strike. The part of the former is taken by Phillips Lord, the originator of "Sunday Night at Seth Parker's," and the latter by Arthur Allen, "Uncle Dan'l" in "Sooconyland Sketches."

Evidently this star team was selected by the B. F. Goodrich Co., sponsors of the program, to catch the large audience waiting to tune in on "Amos 'n' Andy." At any rate, they go in fifteen minutes ahead of the Fresh Air Taxicab skit at both the early evening performance for the Eastern audience and later at night, for those of the Middle West.

"Uncle Abe and David," just ahead of "Amos 'n' Andy," seems to us better strategy than that employed by Columbia in putting the Crockett hill-billies on at exactly the same hour to buck "Amos 'n' Andy." The trouble here is that "Amos 'n' Andy" fans are not likely to tune them out in order to get acquainted with the hill-billies.

Just so, we believe Columbia is making a second strategical error in scheduling its new "comic strip of the air," which is to begin Monday night, at exactly the same time as "Uncle Abe and David."

If Columbia had been a little quicker on the trigger and originally put the Crocketts on at 5:45 p. m. and their new feature, beginning Monday, at 6:15 p. m., just ahead of and immediately following "Amos 'n' Andy," we believe they would be in a much stronger position than they are now, trying to directly buck "Amos 'n' Andy" and "Uncle Abe and David," who in the meantime have gotten a "head start."

This may account for the fact that in addition to their daily appearance, Columbia, beginning tomorrow, will put the Crocketts on WMAL every Sunday from 4 to 4:30 p. m.

TWO Washington boys will be among those heard in the 250-piece National High School Orchestra broadcast Sunday, July 6, in the Majestic series from the summer camp at Interlochen, Mich. They are William Rodier, 4515 Ellicott street northwest, who plays the violin, and Frank Law, 530 Varnum street northwest, the cello.

Also in the group is Miss Elizabeth Vandenberg, pianist, daughter of Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan. There will be a hgih school band of 150 players, also; the orchestra and band comprising one of the world's largest instrumental groups. The concerts will continue throughout July and August.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

A WEEK'S SUPPLY OF SWEETS FOR THE AVERAGE FAMILY.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

A sample weekly supply of sweets for an average, or census, family represents about 4½ pounds of sugar or about 8,000 calorie-portions. It is believed that this amount of sweets, if used regularly, will contribute to the attractiveness of the diet without interfering with the use of the required protein, mineral substances and vitamins. The separate portions are as follows:

Sugar, granulated, four cups, 2 lbs.
Sugar loaf, ¼ lb.
Candy, ¾ lb.
Honey, about two-thirds cup, ½ lb.
Sirup, about three-fourths cup, 1⅞ lbs.
Molasses, about two thirds cup, ½ lb.
Jelly, ½ lb.

Ann Interprets the Mode

A couple of interesting brassieres and an ideal garter and brassiere evening ensemble. (Dah-ray Designs.)

Paris, June 27.

IS there any worse word than "gosh" they would print if I wrote it? If there is, please consider it said vehemently.

Well, I'm a woman like all of the rest of you, and I'm having so much trouble with underthings these days that I can only suppose you are, too, only you just don't get the chance to write about it the way I do.

It's evening lingerie that's particularly on my mind, although corseting and brassiere-ing and lingerie-ing in general have all become complicated. But what-to-wear-under-your-evening gown is a question that is too often answered by the simple word "nothing" to suit me. What with front and back and side decolletages, and glove-fitting hipliness being as they are, it is certainly preferable to wear nothing, but I just don't like it, even though I have all my own evening gowns completely lined in satin or crepe de chine just as though they were a coat, more or less in lieu of costume slips or lingerie slips that you can't wear.

So I figured it out this way and I'm passing it along thinking that you might thank me for the idea; any one over 20 should wear some sort of a brassiere, yes? Any lovely lady should wear garters to keep her stockings snug, yes? And you have to wear some sort of step-in or bloomers, yes? So what do you mean, then—why, you make either the bloomers or the shorts that I told you about last week, and then you make or have made a brassiere, corset and girdle business like I illustrated for you today. Have all your evening dresses lined with a satin or heavy crepe de chine so that they are shadowproof, tiny fasteners put on the shoulders of each of your dresses, and there you are!

* * * *

And thinking that the sketch might not be enough for you to work from, I have made a leaflet telling you exactly how to make three new and smart brassieres, and the evening brassiere and garter combination illustrated. You can get your stamped, self-addressed envelope ready to send to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and by the time we get your letter the leaflet will be ready to send you.

* * * *

Even pull-overs have gone "pointed"—that is to say, the tiny white dot on a navy blue or black background which has found so much favor in woolen and silk crepe materials has been executed in the yarn of a sports sweater. And it is just about the best looking one we've ever seen. In fact, La Chic Secretaire is definitely going to rob a bank or sell newspapers so she can have one for the next week-end she spends in the country.

It has the appearance of white flecks, like little snowflakes that have drifted onto a field of blue and settled there.

* * * *

And then if she succeeds in both robbing the bank and selling the newspapers, she can have the white beret with navy blue flecks to wear with it!

We're in the height of the season when the coat-dress or the dress to be worn without coat makes its appearance. And far from being just any old frock you have in your wardrobe, this dress answers the particular necessity by one detail or another. A cape incrusted into the dress, a scarf collar, revers, or a hip flounce that lends a suitish appearance to the frock. Sometimes the narrow fur scarf tied in a chic bow over one shoulder is the finishing touch to the street dress.

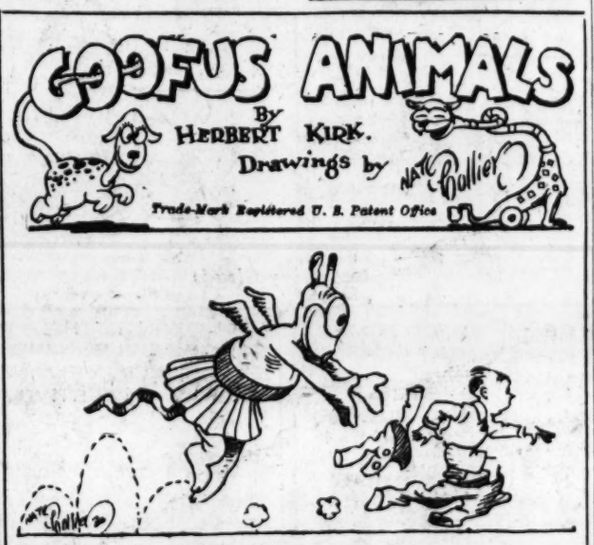
At any rate, the result is a delightful afternoon frock and an elegantly simple "robe trotteur."

* * * *

We hope that tomorrow you'll not forget to look in the big Sunday Post for the weekly Dare fashion letter. We know you'll enjoy it.

Au revoir!

Baby Mine



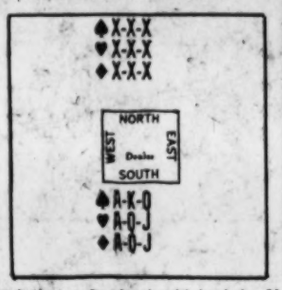
The Goofus Splug

Though many love the Goofus Splug
And love her to distraction,
She's not a Goofus one should hug
For she has learned subtraction.
You'll find this out if you hug one
For she'll subtract the buttons from
Your coat and vest and pants;
She'll even steal the button holes
If she gets half a chance!

WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)

It is probable that there is no point connected with the play which is easier to grasp when understood, but which is more often neglected by the beginner, than the making of an extra entry for the dummy hand when such entry is needed. Suppose, in the following No Trump example, that the cards of the dummy and the closed hand in Spades, Hearts and Diamonds should be as follows:



and that a Spade should be led. If the Clubs were divided: Dummy, A-K-Q-3; closed hand, J-10-9-2. Declarer, winning the first trick in closed hand, would note the probable desirability of leading Hearts twice and Diamonds twice from dummy. Four entries can be obtained with dummy's Clubs unless the adverse Clubs are divided 4-1; and if that distribution should exist, it will become evident on the second round. So to trick 2 one of closed hand's three high Clubs should be led and overtaken in dummy. Dummy then should try one of the finesses and, if it win, a second high Club should be led from closed hand and again overtaken in dummy. If both adversaries follow on the second Club lead, four Club entries can be obtained. Therefore, the other finesse could be tried next, with the assurance that, if it succeed, there would be two more entries in dummy. Of course, the third Club lead would be another high Club from closed hand, again overtaken, which would drop the last adverse Club and make dummy's Trey of Clubs a winner, and consequently a fourth entry.

A similar situation would occur if dummy had in Clubs Ace-Queen-4-2 and closed hand King-8-6-3. Closed hand, when leading small Clubs to dummy's Ace and Queen, should be careful to lead the Eight and Six, retaining the Trey, so that on the fourth round, supposing the adverse Clubs to be normally divided, dummy's Four would be an entry.

Innumerable situations of this character occur, and the beginner who understands the principle and remembers to look at his two hands will be able to gain many tricks.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

Please tell me what kind of fertilizer to use for dahlias. Are the following patient fertilizers any good.
J. W.

It is impossible to discuss patent products in this column. One of the best-known authorities on dahlias in this country tells us "the best fertilizer, that is one which I have found best for exhibition flowers, contains among other ingredients the following: Nitrogen, 2 per cent, phosphoric acid, 10 per cent, and potash, 6 per cent. Dahlias do not require so much nitrogen as many other crops. In growing them we are looking for the best flowers on good stems: also, for a good crop of tubers to carry them over the winter." In preparing the ground in the spring it is well to broadcast a good grade of potato fertilizer, or bonemeal should be applied over the entire plot at the rate of 100 pounds to 1,000 square feet. This should be thoroughly incorporated with the soil so that its elements will be available when the plants need them most.

Please tell me how to care for an Easter lily bulb after it has finished flowering. Mrs. C. M. C., M. M. C.

Water the bulb until the leaves are entirely yellow and withered. Then set the pot aside for about six weeks, at the end of which time cut off the dead tops, remove the bulb from the soil and plant it in a sunny place in your garden. It should bloom in the late summer.

Please tell me the name of the plant of which I am inclosing a leaf. The leaves are all in the condition of the one I am inclosing. Can you suggest a remedy? MARY T. P.

Your plant is an aspidistra. Better transplant it, using a larger pot. In the future give it water enough to moisten all the soil in the pot at least three times a week. Keep it in a light, and, if possible, sunny place in the open in summer and in the house in winter. The aspidistra demands a great deal of fresh air at all times. Wash the leaves of the plant every ten days with cold, soapy water.

Please tell me how to care for an azalea and a cineraria after they have finished flowering. MRS. K. W.

If your azalea is a hardy variety, plant it in a sunny place in your garden after it has finished flowering and keep the roots mulched with peat moss. Also water it regularly. If it is a large-flowered Belgian variety, it will only bloom profusely every other year. This kind is not hardy. The pot should be plunged in the open in the summer and must be given water frequently. Before frost it must be brought into a cool, sunny place in the house. Here until Christmas it must be watered sparingly. After the first of the year remove the plant to a warm, sunny room and water it every day. A cineraria, being an annual, is of no further use after it has finished flowering. It is likely to become the prey of mealy bugs or of aphids, so it is well to discard as soon as the flowers show signs of fading.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER."

IF June 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6 a. m. to 7:40 a. m., 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. and 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Fortune smiles upon those who have vision on this date; opportunities will be concealed by clouds of uncertainty. "Action without forethought may result in disaster; forethought without action will not result at all." Avoid evening disputes.

Children born on this June 28 will have jealous dispositions, and will wish to be "babied." Parents should not pamper them nor encourage selfish tendencies. They will love approbation, and will blossom forth under proper influences. Most of their faults may be overcome and outgrown. They will be warmly affectionate. Animal pets should be encouraged, from whom many lessons may be learned.

The sky is the limit as far as your possibilities are concerned, but your lack of desire may keep you down. Nature has thrown her seeds of genius on unfertile ground in your case. It is a pity that you are satisfied to do your half-best. Your best is something of which any one could be proud. Your mind turns over too quickly; your intellectual attainments come too easily to be appreciated. If you were less clever, you would probably be more ambitious. It is only when your pride prods you on that the world is allowed to glimpse your usually sleeping talents. You are a steady traveler on the road of least resistance, although your mind is your pass to much more beautiful and worthwhile pathways.

You have a very peaceful nature and are usually content with things. Your vibrations are harmonious ones, and you make a most delightful companion. You take a "why worry?" attitude toward life, and you not only do not worry yourself, but you do not worry others. You are generous hearted, warmly sympathetic and, as a rule, "understanding." You like beautiful surroundings, if you can have them without too much effort on your part; but environment plays only a small part in your life. You seldom lose your temper, but when you do the sparks fly thick and fast. You do not easily forget injuries, and seldom renew a broken friendship. You are very loyal to those who deserve it.

Lynchburg Acts Host To Christian Endeavor

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., June 27.—Nearly 400 out-of-town delegates have registered for the Virginia Christian Endeavor convention, meeting at the Methodist Protestant Church here. Dr. F. C. Dixon, of Boston, addressed the convention tonight. The session will last until Sunday.

The annual report of President C. E. Barfield, of Newport News, showed a gain of 100 societies last year, the total now being 400.

District denominational conferences and conferences for juniors and intermediates were held during the day.

Mrs. Moody an Easy Winner; Allison, Doeg Score.

By FRANK H. KING.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 27 (A.P.).—Three youthful Americans rose to brilliant tennis heights today to stroke their way into the semifinal round of the Wimbledon championships as they dealt a blow to England's titular aspirations.

Wilmer Allison, the young Texan, and the equally as youthful Johnny Doeg from California, and Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., won their way into the last eight along with Henri Cochet, the wiry little defending champion from France, at the expense of the English. Big Bill Tilden, the ace of the American invaders, and George Lott, United States No. 4 ranking player, may increase the United States' representation in the final eight to five, when they meet their British empire opponents in the fourth round tomorrow.

Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs Easy Winners.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Helen Jacobs, America's ranking women stars, also sailed through their matches today, each losing one game. Mrs. Moody made short work of her match with Miss M. Canter, Holland star, 6—0, 6—1, while Miss Jacobs defeated Mrs. W. D. List, of England, by the same score.

King George and Queen Mary were here today to see the stars in action but nobody showed any mercy to the home players because of that. Mrs. Moody and Miss Canter even ran the risk of being criticized by keeping her majesty waiting for their appearance on the center court.

The crowd became impatient and applauded until the girls made their appearance. Both wore stockings. Stockings may be just stockings in the United States, but they're a major issue at Wimbledon. The unwritten law that women must not appear on the famous center court without their legs covered is understood to have had its origin in a desire of the authorities not to risk her majesty's disapproval. The little Dutch girl wore whitish stockings and Queen Helen flesh-colored ones.

Mangin Eliminates Best Of British Entry.

As for tennis, Mrs. Moody played her usual sort, winning as she pleased. Her next opponent will be Phyllis Mudford, who beat Miss Sarah Palfrey, the Boston youthful star, in the Wightman Cup matches.

Of the three American men, who won today, Mangin had the hardest fight and covered himself with the greatest glory by defeating H. W. (Bunny) Austin, Britain's foremost singles star, 9—7, 10—8, 6—0. Austin held a substantial lead in the first two sets, which were long, hard-fought affairs, but Mangin, without ever considering the possibility of being beaten, even when the English star held set point three times in the first set, plugged along and by sheer pluck pulled two sets out of the fire. He then went on to win the third at love.

The king and queen arrived just in time to see the Newark youth draw level at eight games all in the second set and then win the next two games. It was a great match, with Austin probably the more finished player as far as individual strokes were concerned. His match spirit and staying powers, however, could not be compared with the American's.

Allison and G. P. Hughes, English Davis Cup Team member, carried on an exciting match, each battling for the advantage at the net, but the swift Texan finally emerged with the honors, winning 4—6, 6—1, 6—3.

Doeg's powerful southpaw service and volleying compensated for his lapses on ground strokes, and the Californian brought in the third American singles victory as he defeated H. F. David, of England, 6—3, 6—3, 6—1.

America's supremacy in the singles failed to carry over into the doubles, although the invaders from across the Atlantic managed to get an even break. Tilden advanced in two phases of play. Paired with his Dutch partner, H. Timmer, he defeated Pierre Landry and Grandguillot, a French combination, 8—6, 4—6, 4—6, 6—1, 6—4. With Fraulein Cilli Aussem, of Germany, as his partner, the American ace downed J. van der Heide and Miss M. R. Couquerque in straight sets, 6—4, 6—4.

The youthful combination of Mangin and Sarah Palfrey, of Boston, de-

Jones May Fly to Scene Of Open Title Defense

Atlanta, June 27 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones may fly from New York to Minneapolis to defend his national open golf crown July 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa G. Candler, jr., who will take their plane to New York to participate in a celebration for Bobby when he lands from England Wednesday, have offered him passage to Minneapolis in the craft.

Tigers Get Holy Cross Star, Says Newspaper

Worcester, Mass., June 27 (A.P.).—The Worcester Telegram today says that Jimmy Shevlin, star first baseman for Holy Cross College, has signed a contract with the Detroit Club of the American League, and will be one of the highest-priced college players who has ever entered the big leagues. He batted .443 this season.

O'Doul Stars at Bat, But Bucs Beat Phils

Pittsburgh, June 27 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates staved off a ninth-inning rally by the Philadelphia Nationals today to win their third straight from the Phillies, 6 to 4.

It was anybody's contest until the seventh, when the Pirates scored three times while making but one hit. An error and a passed ball gave scoring openings that were seized.

O'Doul, hitting two doubles and two triples, was the batting star of the game.

Giants Pound Grimes To Rout Cards, 9 to 4

St. Louis, June 27 (A.P.).—Frankie Frisch hit a home run with two on base in the first inning today, but, after that blow, Fred Fitzsimmons held the Cardinals in check, and the New York Giants scored their second straight victory, 9 to 4. The last St. Louis counter did not appear until the eighth inning.

Burleigh Grimes started for the Cards, but was knocked from the box in the sixth inning after he had yielded ten hits and eight runs. Fred Leach duplicated Frisch's home-run hitting feat in the fourth inning, to give the Giants the lead.

Grove Beaten As A's Split DoubleBill

Star Southpaw Routed as Browns Annex Opener, 8-2.

Homers Feature Second Clash, Macks Winning, 8-3.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27 (A.P.).—The Athletics divided a double-header with the St. Louis Browns today, winning the second encounter by a score of 8 to 3 after turning in five boots that aided the Missourians to beat Lefty Grove in the first game, 8 to 2.

Dick Coffman kept the Mack hits well scattered in the opener, but in the closing affair the world's champions gave Chad Kimsey a sound slugging. Grove, A's pitcher, hit a homer in the first game and Quinn, A's hurler in the second game, also hit a homer.

Foxx Hits 20th Homer In Second Game.

In the second game Jimmy Foxx hit his twentieth home run of the season, with two on in the third inning, and in the fifth Al Simmons walloped his sixteenth with one on base.

Farrell Leads Field In New York Open Golf

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Johnny Farrell, former national open champion, played brilliant golf today, to lead the field with a 68 in the first of two qualifying rounds for the New York State open golf championship over the Greenmeadow Course.

Kelly Stars for Reds As Braves Bow, 7 to 6

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 27 (A.P.).—A pass to Walker in the ninth inning and singles by Meusel and Kelly, the latter driving in the winning run, today gave the Reds a 7-to-6 victory over Boston. Kelly previously hit a home run in the seventh, scoring a run ahead of him. Bennie Frey pitched a strong game until the eighth, when the Braves bunched hits for five runs and tied the score. Larry Benton relieved him and received credit for the victory.

INDIANS STOP YANKEES, 11 TO 7

Ruth's 27th Homer Futile; Hudlin Is Injured.

NEW YORK, June 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ten thousand whooping school boys who swelled the crowd at the Yankee Stadium today will have a bad opinion of Babe Ruth and his gang the rest of the summer. In spite of the fact that the Hon. Babe smashed out his twenty-seventh home run for their screaming edification, the Yanks played a lot of schoolboy baseball and were beaten by the Cleveland Indians, 11 to 7.

All that made the day at all respectable from a New York viewpoint was a great four-run rally in the ninth inning which kept all hands waiting till the last man was out. And the defeat came just at a time when the Athletics had lost a game in Philadelphia and victory would have meant an edging up on first place.

Hudlin Hurts Thumb; "Break" for Tribe.

There was one "break" in the ball game which went against the Yanks. After allowing a run in the first inning and appearing to be ready for another hammering such as he received in Cleveland, Willis Hudlin, star right-hander, smashed his thumb in taking a throw at first base. This brought in Walter Miller, a left-hander, and after settling down—he was tapped for Ruth's homer in the third—Miller threw five scoreless innings. This good work allowed the Indians to run up a big lead on George Pipgras and Owen Carroll, so that when the Yanks began the last inning assault they needed eight runs to tie.

They got four of these on five brisk hits by Chapman, Combs, Werber, Ruth and Gehrig, but then Miller was taken out and the rally stopped.

Congressional Record Mention for Bob Jones

(Associated Press.)

Robert Tyre Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., yesterday broke into the Congressional Record.

A warm tribute to the world's most famous golfer was paid in the House by Representative Ramspeck, the member from Bobby's home district. Ramspeck recalled that "Bobby" had won eleven major golf titles in the past ten years' including his recent victories in Great Britain.

"Bobby Jones is admired most and is loved best for his modesty and saneness and the manner in which he wears his fame," the Georgian said.

CUBS DEFEAT ROBINS, 7-5, ON HOMER

Cuyler's Circuit Hit in 10th Evens Important Series.

CHICAGO, June 27 (A.P.).—The Cubs again placed themselves only one game behind the league-leading Brooklyn Club today by virtue of Kiki Cuyler's home run in the tenth inning, which brought a 7-to-5 victory over the Robins. The victory ended the "crucial" series.

A crowd of 50,000 turned out to watch a close battle between Guy Bush, of the Cubs, and Adolfo Luque and Ray Moss, of Brooklyn, which was anybody's game up to the last play. Moss allowed but two hits after he relieved Luque in the sixth but one was Cuyler's homer. Babe Herman, of Brooklyn, also hit for the circuit.

Schmeling Pays Taxes; Sails at Midnight

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Settling his accounts before sailing for the homeland, Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, visited the Internal Revenue Collector Office today to pay income tax on the $177,500 purse he received for defeating Jack Sharkey on a foul. The amount of the tax was not disclosed.

The German boxer also received permission to sail at midnight on the Bremen. He will spend a short vacation visiting his mother in Berlin and expects to return here in August. He plans five weeks training at Endicott, N. Y., before his proposed return engagement with Sharkey at the Yankee Stadium either September 18 or 25. Plans for the return bout have not been completed.

Rhode Island Title To D. C. Woman Golfer

Special to The Washington Post.

Providence, R. I., June 27.—Mrs. Victoria Eynon, of Washington, D. C., won the Rhode Island women's golf championship here today by defeating Mrs. John Welsh, of Philadelphia, 7 and 6. Mrs. Eynon played a fine all-around game and won through taking advantage of the numerous slips offered by her opponent's misplays.

Mrs. Welsh had been the sensation of the tourney with her quarter final victory over the defending champion, Miss Virginia Kenworthy, and another over Miss Margaret Gordon, a former champion, but today she cracked badly. They were all even at the end of the outward trip in the morning, but Mrs. Eynon was 4 up at the end of the eighteenth and 8 up at the end of the first nine in the afternoon. She lost the tenth, but halved the next two for the victory.

WHICHONE, INJURED, IS OUT OF DWYER STAKES

Gallant Fox Should Win Handily

Withdrawal of Whichone Mars Aqueduct Classic.

Only 2 Left in Field Not Rated in Class of Gallant Fox.

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, June 27 (A.P.).—Shorn of its color and glamour by the absence of Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone, the Dwyer Stakes to be decided over the Aqueduct turf tomorrow is expected to be nothing more than a workout for Gallant Fox as he goes on unchallenged as the 3-year-old champion.

Whichone was all set to go in the rich mile and a half jaunt tomorrow—in fact he had been officially declared as a starter. Early today, however, the brilliant son of Chicle was found to have two quarter cracks, an injury that will not only keep him out of the Dwyer, but may prevent his matching strides with Gallant Fox in any of the remaining feature 3-year-old stakes.

Whichone to Be Kept Idle Several Weeks.

Tom Healey, trainer of the Whitney thoroughbreds, refused to state the extent of the injury to the 1929 juvenile champion. It is known, however, that he will be away from the races for several weeks, thus eliminating any chance that he will start in the $70,000 classic at Arlington Park on July 12. Whether he will go in the Travers Midsummer Derby at Saratoga in August remains to be seen.

With Whichone out of the race, there appears nothing to stop Gallant Fox and Earl Sande from gathering in their fifth stake victory of the season. Only two, the Rancocas Stable's Limbus and the Wheatley Stable's Flaming, have been named to oppose the speed son of Sir Galahad III and if either offer any serious opposition, much less win, it will be the biggest turf surprise in recent years.

Injury to Whichone is the third serious injury that has befallen the Whitney stars this season. Boojum, which last year won the Hopeful and was said to be the second best juvenile of the year, went wrong at the start of the metropolitan season and has yet to make his 3-year-old debut. Thursday, Summer Day, a crack 2-year-old, was seriously injured while being saddled in the paddock when she reared backward. She may be away from the races for the remainder of the year.

Gallant Knight Choice In Latonia Derby Today

Latonia, Ky., June 27 (A.P.).—The forty-eighth renewal of the Latonia Derby, worth $25,000 added, for 3-year-olds, will feature the opening tomorrow of Latonia's 37-day summer thoroughbred meeting.

Out of 108 nominations, the starting field was reduced to eight horses. Gallant Knight, which finished second to Gallant Fox in the Kentucky Derby, being established as the favorite. Gallant Knight also has the Fairmount Derby to his credit.

Second choice was placed in Bezonian, and third in Reveille Boy, a rank outsider until his victory in the American Derby.

Another Derby victor, Dixie Lad, which captured the Cleveland Derby, is among the entrants.

Unlike recent years, the Latonia Derby does not hold the interest of being an intersectional classic, as Eastern turfmen did not pick a single representative to try for the honor.

The Latonia Derby will be run over a 1 1/16-mile course. The track record of 2:28 3-5 was set by Handy Mandy in 1927.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

WASHINGTON PARK closes a successful meeting today, featuring as a finale the Francis Peabody Memorial Handicap, $10,000 added. SUN BEAU, which was prepped for this race in New York, has come around to good form and should win this stake. THE NUT, also late coming to best form, is fit now, and will be the contender. STARS AND BARS should beat the others, including IRONSIDES, HIGH FOOT and WHISKERY.

FIRST RACE—ZIDA will have WIRT G. BOWMAN as a dangerous rival, with LUCKY HIT next best.

SECOND RACE—TAN FACE should win this number for 2-year-olds over VOLTABUSH and ENTICE.

THIRD RACE—FRIEDHOF NANSEN is well placed and should beat HARAMZADA and WATER LAD.

FOURTH RACE—Between FRANCIS MILWARD and HYPOLUXO, with CHEERS third.

SIXTH RACE—TOMMY LAD is best, but MOSCOW will give him a battle. WOLFY has a look-in.

LATONIA.

Latonia today begins its summer meeting of 37 days, and shoots with its largest summer stake in the fifth race—the Latonia Derby, $25,000 added, at a mile and a half. This rich stake has attracted only eight 3-year-olds. There is not an Eastern horse in the field, unless GALLANT KNIGHT, from the Audley Farm, which is located in Virginia, could be designated as an Eastern stable. The racing interests are so large and scattered out in so vast a country that a mere $25,000 added race which a few years back would have caused long preparation of horses and a large field from East and West, no longer attracts. Another thing, racing is in progress today at eight large tracks and engagements of horses conflict. But the Latonia Derby field is well balanced and should result in an interesting contest.

GALLANT KNIGHT, which was second to GALLANT FOX in the Kentucky Derby, is selected to win. Penalties accruing have given some horse advantage in weights, and under the conditions of the race, GALLANT KNIGHT gets in with 121 pounds, being 4 pounds less than is carried by the American Derby winner. REVEILLE BOY, and it is not believed that REVEILLE BOY can concede weight to all of this field, go a mile and a half and beat them. Johnson N. Camden has a good candidate in CULLODEN, which ran a good race in Chicago a few days ago, and he is picked for place, with REVEILLE BOY third. This year, with the exception of GALLANT FOX, 3-year-olds are beating one another, and there is not much consistency among them. DIXIE LAD might be dangerous. It is noticeable that E. R. Bradley has not an entry in the race.

FIRST RACE—Maiden 2-year-olds are in this race. BRUSSELS, from the Paradise Farm entry, looks best. SUGARLAND has run well, and should be the contender. MAY UPSET should be considered for part of the purse.

SECOND RACE—COOTS is the choice. If TANTIVY is in form, he will be very dangerous. STOCK MARKET is best of the others.

THIRD RACE—BETTY DERR is selected to take this race for 2-year-old fillies. RARE CHARM will make it a close race and won her last start. CASANOVA is rated better than any other starter. This race is the Clipsetta Stakes, $5,000 added, and its renewal always brings a classy field to the barrier.

FOURTH RACE—GOODMAN will have PRINCESS DONNA to beat, but he appears the solid horse of the race. CHATSON should be a good third, but would have better chance on a slow track.

SIXTH RACE—TYPHOON is picked. He seems to have awakened after many bad races to win in Chicago a few days ago. MYTH will be a keen contender, and probably the favorite. THISTLE STAR for the show money.

SEVENTH RACE—PERCENTAGE, a consistent horse, seems to have found a field he can beat in the seventh race. GOTHAM might be close. THISTLE ARIOUS has a chance and will be as good as third.

HEVING BREAKS NOSE.

St. Louis, June 27 (A.P.).—Joe Heving, right-hand pitcher for the Giants, suffered a broken nose when struck by a batted ball during pregame practice yesterday.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PATRICIA ANN, $7.52, $3.94, $3.46; MISS ROSEDALE, $3.36, $2.84; MISS LEE, $10.80.

PATRICIA ANN, coming in her best form, gained steadily after the start and, under well-timed race, headed MISS ROSEDALE in the stretch, drawing away in final sixteenth to win in a canter. MISS ROSEDALE set good pace, holding away handily to the stretch, but tired reaching last eighth and was no match for the winner. MISS LEE was prominent on the outside from the start and, reaching third position, kept it safe to the end, outlasting BLANDRIS. BLANDRIS closed wide gap from slow beginning and so did CHATTERING. MARY'S TOY weakened at the end of the first half mile.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:54. Off at 3:12. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KAMALII, $13.46, $6.96, $4.86; CHUCKLING, $8.88, $5.26; FIRST VOTE, $3.90.

KAMALII fractious at post, began fast, set all her own pace and, despite severe loss of ground in the stretch, was hard ridden at the end and kept safe CHUCKLING. CHUCKLING closed into contention fast on the outside after the start, raced with HOMER L., keeping latter safe and, despite big loss of ground, also held on well, outstaying FIRST VOTE. FIRST VOTE also was fractious at post and was outpaced to the stretch, then closed fast, made up much ground and got up to outfinish HOMER L. HOMER L. was close up on inside throughout, saved much ground, but tired in the final drive. MORE POWER had early speed.

THIRD RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:41. Off at 3:43. Winner, Mrs. P. Fullerton's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ORMONBIRD, $7.16, $4.22, $2.80; RUANE, $3.72, $2.52; CORAL BEACH, $2.90.

ORMONBIRD, rated along under restraint for the first six furlongs, responded well when called upon in the stretch, wore down CORAL BEACH, but faltered in the final seventy yards and just lasted. RUANE, badly outrun in the early stages, closed a wide gap from a slow beginning and, closing much the fastest, just missed wearing down the winner. CORAL BEACH made his run entering the stretch and dived into good lead an eighth out, but then just presented. BUTTERED TOAST closed a good gap. BATHER weakened in final three-sixteenths.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STONE MARTIN, $11.76, $6.14, $4.38; MAGIC FLUTE, $3.00, $4.42; BABY NOYES, $4.76.

STONE MARTIN dropped back from start and was outpaced to stretch turn, then came fast around the outside of leaders, raced into lead reaching last eighth and won driving a decisive victory. MAGIC FLUTE was outpaced from start and, reaching third position, kept it safe to the end, outlasting BLANDRIS. BLANDRIS closed wide gap from slow beginning and so did CHATTERING. MARY'S TOY weakened at the end of the first half mile.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CLUB HOUSE, $6.38, $2.72, $2.18; GOLDEN PRINCE, $2.84, $2.36; CAYUGA, $2.66.

CLUB HOUSE raced restrained in forward pursuit of T. S. JORDAN and CAYUGA and when latter pair were in distress at head of stretch, made fast move into the lead when called upon, keeping GOLDEN PRINCE safe at the end. GOLDEN PRINCE, outpaced for the first half mile came to outside for the final drive when straightened out in the stretch, easily wore down the tiring T. S. JORDAN. CAYUGA finished fast but was no match for the winner. CAYUGA forced the pace, raced T. S. JORDAN into defeat and made strong challenge entering stretch, but was done reaching the last eighth. T. S. JORDAN quit and stopped badly after showing the most speed to the final turn. GRENNOCK was always outrun.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:18. Off at 5:18. Winner, Serenata Farm's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LOUISE WILSON, $7.28, $3.22, $2.52; ONUP, $3.10, $2.40; OUR PAL, $2.64.

LOUISE WILSON raced under restraint until the stretch turn was reached, and then responding strongly when called upon, wore down ONUP in the final furlong to win going away. ONUP, also saved under restraint, ran forwardly to the final turn, then took the lead from KNOW ME GNOME, drew out in stretch, but tired and scarcely outlasted OUR PAL. OUR PAL made his run entering the stretch, came to the outside, closed a gap and was slowly wearing down ONUP at the end. ILLUSTRIOUS was outrun.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:47½. Off at 5:47½. Winner, C. N. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MASTER ACE, $4.38, $3.02, $2.36; RAY RUDDY, $4.30, $2.96; THEORIST JANE, $2.94.

MASTER ACE, racing forwardly under good rating, made his run on the inside entering the stretch, came to outside reaching last furlong, wore down leaders and, under mild urging, easily held RAY RUDDY safe. RAY RUDDY, outrun first half mile, closed a big gap and finishing strong, outgamed THEORIST JANE. Latter went up on inside into contention at the far turn, but tired in final drive. LEAH JANE took lead in first half mile, but weakened badly when the winner challenged and quit.

SHORE, M'LEAN AND HUNT WIN IN RICHMOND TENNIS

District Boys' Title Holder In Final

Hunt Battles Way to Semifinal Round of Midatlantics.

Shore Reaches Junior Semifinals; Smith Is Eliminated.

Special to The Washington Post.

RICHMOND, Va., June 27.—Jock McLean, crack little Washington boys' champion, assured himself another crack at the Middle Atlantic boys' title, while two other National Capital youngsters became contenders for laurels by scoring impressive victories in the opening day's play of the third annual boys' and juniors' singles competition on the Country Club of Virginia courts today.

McLean, in a display of polished tennis, brushed aside two opponents to reach the final round. In the morning he vanquished Oley Reed, Huntington, W. Va., star, 6—1, 7—5, while in the afternoon the fair-haired 14-year-older whipped F. Berman, of Baltimore, 6—1, 6—3.

Gilbert Hunt, of Washington, qualified for the semifinals in the boys' division, defeating E. S. Hamer, of Norfolk, 9—7, 6—4, and Arnold Sloan, of Richmond, 2—6, 6—4, 6—4. Hunt was pressed to the very limit in both matches.

Shore Goes Into Junior Semifinals.

In the junior encounters, Frank Shore, Washington champion, seeded No. 2, moved into the semifinals by eliminating E. Farber, of Baltimore, 3—6, 6—3, 6—3, in his only match of the day. His District pal, Clyde Smith, faded out of the picture by bowing to Eddie Devol, of Huntington, W. Va., in perhaps the most thrilling three sets of the day. The Mountaineer entrant triumphed by 5—7, 9—7, 8—6 in a duel that found both youths battling desperately from start to finish.

Devol, himself, was removed from the competition late in the evening at the hands of the ranking junior player, Billy Jacobs, of Baltimore, national indoor junior champion, who won handily by 6—1, 6—0.

One semifinals match in each division will be played tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, while in the afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, the finalists will meet. In the boys' class, Jock McLean is to clash with the winner of the match between Gilbert Hunt and H. Barclay, of Baltimore, while Billy Jacobs is to oppose the winner of the match between Jimmy Morgan, of Richmond, and Frank Shore.

McLean, Jacobs' Tennis Outstanding.

The performance of McLean and Jacobs has been outstanding in their respective divisions.

Jacobs won two matches today. He beat S. Hughes, of Norfolk, in his opener, 6—3, 6—3, easily winning his second. McLean was only pressed in the second set of his duel with Oley Reed.

Middle Atlantic Champ Adds Another Net Title

Anniston, Ala., June 27 (A.P.).—Youthful Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., Middle Atlantic and South Carolina champion, added the Cotton States tennis singles title to his collection today.

Hines defeated Robert "Lefty" Bryan, of Chattanooga, in the final today in straight sets, 6—4, 6—3, 6—4.

Today's match marked the first time in six years that the championship had not been won by the bounding Jack Mooney, of Atlanta. Mooney fell before Bryan after five terrific sets yesterday, while Hines won his way to the final today with a 6—3, 4—6, 6—0, 6—3 victory over J. C. Free, of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

AMERICANS WIN IN ENGLISH TENNIS

feated W. A. R. Collins and Miss G. R. Sterry, of Great Britain, 6—2, 6—3, but Miss Palfrey, paired with Fraulein Aussem, lost in the women's doubles to Mrs. L. Colegate and Miss C. Tyrell, the English team winning, 6—8, 6—3, 7—5.

The Lott-Jacobs Team lost in the mixed doubles, as did Berkeley Bell and Miss Greef, the former falling before Patrick Spence and Miss Betty Nuthall, of England, 1—6, 7—5, 6—2, and the latter to A. J. Willard, of Britain, and Miss S. Payot, Swiss champion, 3—6, 6—2, 6—3.

CORNELL WINS COLLEGE ROWING CLASSIC

Howell Faces Hard Task In Virginia State Tourney

HOT SPRINGS, Va., June 27 (A.P.).—Billy Howell, the 18-year-old Richmond lad whose capture of two golf tournaments within the short space of a week makes him the favorite in the Virginia State meet, will have plenty of competition when the Old Dominion players tee off here next Monday.

From almost every golf club in the State entries have been received, indicating a competing list larger than that of approximately 100 last year. Danville, Pulaski, Roanoke, Norfolk, Richmond, Virginia Beach, Hot Springs, Lynchburg, Staunton and Charlottesville are among the clubs entered.

The difficulties of the Cascades course, along which the fight for men's honors will be waged, are well known. It stretches over mountainous country, and uphill and downhill lies after tee shots are to be expected. Several of its holes are in the neighborhood of 500 yards, but several others are around 150, and par either way is 35. The total yardage is 6,388.

The women's tournament will be played over the Homestead course, which has a par figure of 80—39 going out and 41 coming back. There were about 35 entries last year.

Men's past champions are as follows: 1911, William H. Palmer, jr., Richmond; 1912, 1913, James McMenamin, Hampton; 1914, William H. Palmer, jr., Richmond; 1915, 1916, Matthew Paxton, jr., Lexington; 1917, J. Pope Seals, Richmond; 1918, S. M. Newton, Richmond; 1919, J. S. Barron, Norfolk; 1920, J. S. Barron, Norfolk; 1921, H. H. Hume, Norfolk; 1922, S. M. Newton, Richmond; 1923, A. Crim Peck, Lexington; 1924, Paul Jamison, Roanoke; 1925, Maj. E. L. Naiden, Hampton; 1926, J. T. E. Crump, Richmond; 1927, Charles Mackall, Charlottesville; 1928, William Howell, Richmond; 1929, Pat Dillon, Norfolk.

Walker Would Stop Wife Spending Money

Trenton, N. J., June 27 (A.P.).—Edward Patrick (Mickey) Walker, middleweight boxing champion, filed suit today in chancery court to restrain Mrs. Margaret Kelly Walker, his wife, from spending $200,000 he claims to have given her during their married life.

Walker also seeks to prevent his estranged wife from transferring title to their home at Rumson and property in Middletown.

Vice Chancellor Fallon issued an order directing Mrs. Walker to show cause on July 7 why she should not be restrained from spending the funds and disposing of the property, valued, Walker said, at $52,500.

It had been agreed between Walker and his wife, Walker contended, that the money and real estate would remain his property although in Mrs. Walker's possession.

Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, accompanied the fighter to California, where Mrs. Walker then resided, last February to effect a reconciliation, Walker said. Kearns, in an affidavit, said Mrs. Walker informed him she had spent all but $51,500 of the money. She threatened to spend the balance, Kearns said, so that she could force Walker to pay her alimony to support herself and two children.

A divorce action charging cruelty, filed by Mrs. Walker last January, is pending.

Police Show Good Eye As Rifle Matches Begin

Private D. C. Moore, of the Thirteenth Precinct, won the first individual rifle match ever held for District cops yesterday, when his winning mark of 96.66 was 3 percentage points higher than the second-place individual. Private Moore, moreover, was the only member of the leading four cops not from the Eleventh Precinct, whose men took the next three places. The match was fired over the Army course at Camp Simms in Anacostia.

Private W. F. McDuffie was second with 93.33, Private J. C. Bunn, third, with 92.50, and Capt. S. R. McKee fourth with 92.33. The combined average of 93.80, incidentally, is higher than the 86 per cent average claimed by the United States Army to constitute expert marksmanship.

The shoots are expected to continue under the leadership of Capt. McKee, who conducted the first yesterday, and prizes have been offered by Charles Schwartz. At present, funds for ammunition are not so bountiful, but the "cops" are hoping to secure appropriations from heads of the department.

SKINKER EAGLES PLAY.

Skinker Bros. Eagles will engage the Washington Red Sox today at 3 o'clock on Skinker Bros. Field, Wisconsin avenue and Upton street. Skinker players will report at 2 o'clock. Manager McDonald is booking games for the Eagles at Cleveland 1871-W after 6 p. m.

DUNLAP AND MOLLER IN FINALS

Pair Tied for Medal, Meet Today for College Title.

OAKMONT, Pa., June 27 (A.P.).—The collegiate golf championship of 1930 has demonstrated that the medalist in the qualifying round is not always jinxed when the match play begins. The current competition had two medalists, George T. Dunlap, jr., of Princeton, and Lawrence Moller, of Notre Dame, and they are the only survivors in the record field.

Dunlap had a comparatively easy road today to the final match, winning from Winston Fuller, of Southern California, 8 up and 7 to play, in a 36-hole match, but Moller had to battle for 37 holes before the got down a birdie 4 at the extra hole to eliminate Phillips Finlay, Harvard captain.

When Moller and Dunlap tied at 153 for the 36 holes of the qualifying round, officials of the Intercollegiate Association suggested that they arrange for a play-off to decide possession of the medal. Tomorrow will bring the first convenient season so the player who leads after the first eighteen holes will get the pretty gold medal with the blue ribbon.

The youth able to outlast the other over the marathon of 36 holes of the Oakmont Club will be acclaimed the best college golfer in the United States.

French Jump Classic Captured by Strelitz

Paris, June 27 (A.P.).—Strelitz, Viscount de Rivaud's crack 4-year-old steeplechaser, today won the classic Prix des Draga of two and thirteen-sixteenths miles. Alfonso was second and Telegram third.

Jones Forgets Clubs; Sails Without Them

Southampton, June 27 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones, international golfer, sailed for his home in America on the S. S. Europa today.

But the famous clubs which had rendered him such glorious service in England did not sail with him. In the excitement of saying good-by to innumerable friends, Bobby left his clubs behind in a London hotel, where they were discovered too late for the sailing.

Antiracing Bill Dies In Louisiana House

Baton Rough, La., June 27 (A.P.).—The last of the antiracing bills in the Louisiana General Assembly was withdrawn from the files of the House today when the Jones-Armstrong bill to prohibit race betting in any form in the State came up with an unfavorable committee report.

The report, tantamount to defeat of the measure, was followed by abandonment of the bill by the authors. The measure was shaped to prohibit every form of race betting in such a way as to eliminate the sport from Louisiana.

Earlier in the session, a bill to levy a special tax on pari-mutuel machine receipts for school purposes was withdrawn also after an unfavorable committee report.

SWIDERSKI SIGNED.

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—Paul Swiderski, the heavy-hitting Pole who upset Middleweight Champion Mickey Walker at Louisville May 16, has been signed up for a 10-round match with Frankie Simms, of Cleveland, as a semiwindup for the Risko-Griffiths card at the Chicago Stadium, July 2.

GO TO CUMBERLAND.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 27.—Pierce, big first-sacker from the Hazleton Club of the New York-Pennsylvania League, and Brown, an outfielder from Scottdale, have been signed by the Cumberland Club of the Middle Atlantic League, it was announced by President Nelson W. Russler yesterday. Brown is to receive a 10-day trial. The Philadelphia Nationals are to play here next Sunday.

SHALTZ HITS 4 HOME RUNS.

With "Cowboy" Shaltz knocking four home runs, the Franklin Peewees were able to slug out a 15-to-13 victory over the Hamline Nine yesterday.

SPEEDBOATS IN RACES TODAY

Seven-Race Card Listed at Tidal Basin This Afternoon.

THOSE persons unable to get into Griffith Stadium to honor Joe Judge this afternoon, nevertheless will have plenty of chance to satisfy the craving of their sporting blood by taking a trip down to the Tidal Basin.

Continuing the policy inaugurated last month of staging motorboat races on Washington's own aquatic course, the Chesapeake & Potomac Power Boat Association is ready to give lovers of the sport another treat this afternoon with a series of races scheduled to start at 2 p. m. Altogether are listed seven races, in which are entered the most enthusiastic motorboat owners of the city.

Interesting Program Promised.

Given a pleasant afternoon, the Association should present some high-class races, equally interesting to contestants and spectators. Although the first affair was somewhat marred by a downpour which continued throughout the day, enthusiasm was not lacking, thousands of watchers looking on from the edge of the basin as the craft sped around the waters.

If the local association decides to waive on the national rules regarding such regattas, a woman driver may compete against boats piloted by men in this afternoon's affair. Although the National Motorboat Association prohibits competition between the sexes, the local body is not governed by these higher up, and may permit Katherine Childs to drive her own ship in today's races.

Stanley H. Horner, local automobile dealer, is one of the most prominent contestants, while while Wesley Werbach is also expected to compete.

U. S. Yachts Beaten For Hindenburg Cup

Kiel, Germany, June 27 (A.P.).—Germany won the Hindenburg Yacht Cup today, defeating America in the final race, to win by 54 points to 28.

The German yacht Michl again led the way today. Kickerle finished second, with the American entries, Oriole, Seawing and Yankee crossing the line in that order.

Manion and McCrary Trans-Miss. Finalists

Broadmoor Country Club, Colorado Springs, Colo., June 27 (A.P.).—The trans-Mississippi golf championship will be decided tomorrow between Jimmy Manion, of St. Louis, and Bob McCrary, of Des Moines, Iowa.

The 36-hole finals will be a duel of champions, Manion having captured the trans-Mississippi title in 1924, and the Iowa Scot winning the honor last year at Omaha.

The result of today's semifinal match was just about as expected. Manion's superiority in driving and approaching gave him a 10-to-8 victory over Walter Crooks, former Colorado State champion and McCrary's steadiness overcame the at-times brilliant Logan Van Zandt, 46-year-old Tulsa campaigner, 8 and 7.

SHADY OAKS PLAY.

Shady Oak baseball players will meet at Fifteenth and H streets northeast tomorrow at 1 o'clock. They play the Busmen at Arlington.

20,000 Fans Expected to Pay Homage to Joe Judge Today

Nats' Captain, Playing 15th Season, to Be Rewarded.

presentations will follow, after which the Nats will endeavor to make it three in a row over the Tigers, who end their invasion here today.

As to the game itself, it will be the final of the current series between the Nats and Bucky Harris' Tigers and both teams will be battling hard for victory. The Johnsons will be fighting for the decision which carries with it a series sweep, their second in succession, in view of their four recent triumphs over the Cleveland Indians, while the Harrismen, of course, although so much is not at stake, are just as anxious to cop. Irving Hadley is listed to do the pitching for the home folks, while Walt Hoyt probably will get the call from Harris. This will be Hoyt's first appearance since he was sent "down river" by the Yankees.

Dave Harris, although he went hitless yesterday, seems to be the answer to Manager Johnson's prayer for a right-handed hitter of the slugging type and, as long as the former White Sox outfielder keeps on smacking the ball on the nose he will be in the line-up, irrespective of whether right-handers or left-handers are doing the opposing flinging.

"I can't afford to keep a hitter like Dave is on the bench," Skipper Johnson stated yesterday. "He's

STOCK PRICES DROP IN SPITE OF RALLIES

Prominent Issues Sag 1 to 3 Points; Important Support Absent.

2,000,000 SHARES SOLD

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—The gears were back on the job in the stock market today. Perhaps it was too much to expect that prices could close higher three days in succession these days. At any rate, they did not, and the index, which had established the record of advancing on two successive days—Wednesday and Thursday—for the first time this month, finished the dull session a point and a half lower.

Rallying tendencies at the opening quickly gave way to another decline. The familiar tactics of hammering two or three stocks were employed, and as usual the weakness spread throughout the list. Although the market was extremely dull, an afternoon upturn eliminated most of the losses, but pressure was again applied in the final dealings and prominent issues were down 1 to 3 points.

The quietness of the trading was the day's chief feature. Sales aggregated only a little more than 2,000,000 shares, the smallest in some time, but the market's dullness, coupled with the success of bearish operations, indicated rather forcefully that important support was absent. The late rally was almost entirely on covering, for the short interest in these days of uncertainty is taking its profits as it goes.

Commodities Are Irregular.

Commodities were irregular. The grains made a fair showing, both wheat and corn closing fractionally higher while cotton eased 10 to 18 points. Sugar made narrow advances and there was some improvement in silver.

Call money was steady at 2 per cent, the renewal rate, for the banks were withdrawing funds in preparation for the heavy month-end dividend and interest disbursements by corporations. Other forms of credit were likewise stationary.

Bonds were irregular. The best showing was made by the United States Governments, and the highest grade corporation issues, but secondary listings eased.

North American and Southern Railway were among the day's most vulnerable stocks, each breaking about 7 points to establish new lows for the year, the former at 89¼ and the latter at 90¼, and closing 3 and 5 points lower, respectively. The short interest also devoted considerable attention to stocks like U. S. Steel, American Can, Johns-Manville and General Motors, but the selling attracted limited offerings.

Numerous Rails Decline.

Numerous rails, notably New York Central, Atchison, New Haven and St. Louis San Francisco, sold off sharply, making incomplete recoveries. The day's reports of railroad earnings last month continued unfavorable.

Stocks losing 1 to 3 points net included American Can, American Telephone, General Motors, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Radio, Westinghouse Electric, New Haven, Atchison and Union Pacific. U. S. Steel, after selling nearly 3 points lower to 153½, closed at 155⅜, off seven-eighths on the day and about 2 below the high of the morning rally, which ranged roughly between 1 and 3 points in miscellaneous leading issues.

The day was virtually devoid of news, nor were the week-end business reviews able to shed any light on the situation. Dun's said that experienced observers did not look for "changes of deep significance" at this season. Bradstreet's reported "a further quieting of trade distribution," especially in retail lines.

In the foreign exchange markets, which on the whole were steady, the Spanish peseta made another new low. The Canadian dollar touched par on a small rally.

COTTONSEED OIL MARKET.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—COTTONSEED OIL—Prime crude, nominal; prime summer yellow, old spot, 8.20; July closed 8.22; September, 8.49; December, 8.39; new, December, 7.95.

BONDS VARY LITTLE IN NOMINAL SALES

Few Railways Rise Slightly in Generally Irregular Carrier Section.

CONVERTIBLE LIST DIPS

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—The movement of bonds was mixed today with the result that the level of prices was little changed.

A small list of railroad issues made some improvement but others eased, so that the irregularity of prices which has characterized the bond market throughout the week ruled. Secondary issues, stock privilege and speculative issues were reactionary.

A feature was the broad market in United States Governments, especially Liberty 4ths 4¼. Sales of the issue totaled $1,039,000, the largest for any bond of the group in many weeks. Some bonds were sold at a concession and the Treasury 3¾s of '43 and '47 were the only governments to break through the high prices of the year established some time ago. Two $500,000 blocks of the 4th Liberty changed hands.

Best carrier bonds were steady to firm, but the turnover of most of the gilt-edged liens was only nominal. Gains and losses were small. Atchison 4s were active and gained ¾. Baltimore & Ohio gold 4s sold at the year's top with a 1 point rise. Near the high level were Chesapeake & Ohio issues. Pennsylvania issues were higher. Erie 5s of '67 advanced 1¾ points and several prime bonds gained about ¼. Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s broke 5½ points. The Seaboard refunding 4s yielded 9¾ points on a few bonds and is 20 points under the year's high.

Most convertible issues finished the day slightly under the previous day's close, after showing some signs of rallying in the forenoon. Prices held above the year's low levels and the extent of trading was far under normal.

Wide breaks in Cuban bonds featured the industrial group. Sugar company bonds were lower generally, with Cuban American 8s, Punta Alegre 7s, at new 1930 lows. Manati Sugar 7½s dropped 2 points. Cuban Northern Railway 5½s lost 2½ to a new year's low. Havana Electric 5s were weak. A spectacular performer was Hudson Coal 5s, which rose 5½ points.

Reports of revolutionary activities in Bolivia influenced heavy selling of Bolivian bonds at greatly reduced prices. Bolivian 7s of '69 sagged 6⅝ and Bolivian 8s lost 3¾. The foreign group was irregular. New South Wales 5s dropped 2 points to a new year's low, and Queensland 6s yielded more than 3 points to sell at the year's lowest figure. Best European and other South American government issues ruled fairly steady.

THE GIRL IN THE AIR

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Janet Decker—Eighteen, with closely-cropped head of burnt gold and a pair of very large and quizzical eyes. The flying secretary for

Richard C. Tolbert, president of the Great Eastern Air Transportation Company and father of Dick Tolbert, an attractive young man who is an official for Great Eastern and who has told Janet he loves her and intends to marry her even though he is at present engaged to Helen Morgan, a society girl who has just sailed for Europe.

Hugh Temple: An official and pilot for Great Eastern and a friend who hired Janet. He is strangely missing, along with a huge shipment of money which he was transporting by plane to a New York bank. Janet does not believe he is guilty, although the detectives and the Tolberts think Temple himself stole the shipment because the plane has been located in a barn near the Long Island landing field and the condition of the ship plainly shows that it was dismantled by an expert aviator. Temple was known to have a strong affection for the plane which he had called "Susie."

Henry Frenda: A clerk in the office of Great Eastern and a friend of Janet's. He has lent Janet a book on aviation.

Belter: Office manager for Great Eastern.

Miss Sears: Dick Tolbert's secretary.

Tolbert senior and Janet, accompanied by Dick as pilot, have flown to New York. A phone call awakens Janet while Tolbert and Dick are away. She has the call traced and finds that it comes from a nearby hotel. She rushes to the hotel, hoping to find the man making the call. She is followed by a friendly bellboy to whom she has confided her intentions. She is grabbed after leaving the hotel, by a man who clasps a hand over her mouth. The hand, Janet notices, has two fingers missing.

On the way back from the airport, Tolbert senior tells his son it isn't fair to Janet to show her so much attention when he is already engaged to another woman.

Henry Frenda reaches home late one night to find his mother waiting up for him. She tells Henry that Belter, Henry's boss, wants him to report as soon as he can. Belter wants to know what happened to the book he had given Henry to give to a Mr. Crell, wealthy boarder at the Frenda house. This book Henry lent to Janet. Henry promised to get it, but doesn't tell Belter that Janet now has it.

The Tolberts return to the hotel and are informed of Janet's sudden disappearance. Dick starts in hot pursuit, hears Janet scream and arrives as her captor releases her from a closed automobile and races away. Janet tells Dick that Hugh Temple was a prisoner in the car that had just escaped.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY!

CHAPTER XIV.

Too shocked to believe he had understood her, Dick held Janet at arm's length and studied her tearstained, crimson face incredulously.

Hugh Temple in that car? Nonsense! The child's fright had robbed her of her wits.

Janet, gazing at him through her tears, knew what was in his mind. "I'm telling you, Dick!" she cried vehemently. "I saw Hugh Temple with my own eyes. He was tied and gagged. If——"

"Excuse me, please," said a shaky little voice behind her; "but I've got to go back to the hotel now and I'd feel a lot better if you'd come along, too."

Janet all but swept the frightened bellhop from his feet. "You darling!" she cried, and kissed him squarely on the lips. "If it hadn't been for you there's no telling what would have happened to me. Do you know you're a hero?"

Painfully embarrassed, the youngster squirmed to free himself, grinning happily. "I'm sure glad I followed you," he said simply.

"This young man," Janet told Dick, "risked his job to try to keep me out of trouble. I think it would be a good idea if we went back with him, Dick, and squared him with his boss."

"We certainly will," Dick agreed. "Do you know, Janet, if your young friend hadn't been on hand I firmly believe that devil would have gotten off with you. . . . Did he hurt you, son?"

The boy shook his head proudly. "He didn't hit me very hard. Just punched me in the jaw like. I guess I was scared too much to get up. Seemed like my muscles wouldn't work somehow."

Laughing, Dick and Janet both denied this unworthy suggestion. "He gave you an awful blow," Janet insisted. "I was afraid you were hurt badly. . . . By the way, you've never told me your name . . ."

"Michael," said the boy quickly. "Michael Dowling. But they all call me Mike for short."

When, back at the hotel, Dick and Janet had explained the circumstances of Mike's absence from his post of duty, Dick called the boy aside and put something in the little pocket of his blue jacket. "Now, don't argue with me, Mike," Dick said gently as the youngster protested. "You're a friend of Miss Decker and what you did for her you wouldn't accept pay for. But you did me a big service as well, and when you get around to it take that out of your pocket and buy yourself something nice. You certainly earned it tonight, Mike."

Janet refused to go to her room and declared she'd sit up alone in the lobby if Dick wanted to retire. "I'm all unstrung, Dick," she told him, "and I wouldn't sleep a wink if I went to bed. After awhile, perhaps, but not now. I want you to know how it all happened, because I stuck my head into Mr. Tolbert's business and somebody'll have to tell him about it."

"All right, Miss Obstinate," Dick agreed, smiling. "Have your own way. But it could all watt until tomorrow, you know, and it isn't likely to help your nerves any to go all over it again for my benefit. You're safe, and just now that's of first importance."

They settled on a settee in a snug corner of the mezzanine. Janet curling one leg under her and throwing her head back on the soft plush in a posture of complete relaxation. At first it was casual exposition, beginning with the telephone call for Tolbert, but as she came to the moment when the bellhop had cried out to warn her of the stealthy figure slipping up behind her, Janet was leaning forward and staring with wide eyes at the wall opposite.

"I didn't know what it was, Dick. I couldn't think. And then I tried to run . . . and couldn't. You don't know what a sensation that is . . . to really want to use your muscles and find that you haven't any control over them. I've had dreams like that, Dick, but I didn't think it could really happen."

"All right, Janet," Dick said gently, "and now let's not talk about it any more tonight. You need rest, and sleep, and——"

"If I don't tell you this now, I never will," Janet replied firmly. "I'm not going off the handle again, Dick . . . You see, I was frightened without knowing what I was afraid of. The kid's cry had made me realize that something dreadful was about to happen. . . . And then he grabbed me . . ."

"Please, Janet——"

"He grabbed me around the waist with one arm and put the other hand over my mouth . . . to keep me from screaming, I guess. The minute he touched me my strength came back. I knew then that it was a human being the boy had seen and not a—— I don't know what I was afraid of, but it must have been one of these spirit monsters you read about in some of the mystery stories.

"I've always been able to take pretty good care of myself in a battle, Dick, and I started fighting. You'll laugh when I tell you what gave me my second shock and very nearly put me out of the picture. It was the realization that the hand over my mouth was shy two fingers. . . . It's ridiculous, I know, but when that last man came out of the telephone booth, I had seen the hand with three fingers, and it made me feel uncanny."

"Naturally," Dick declared soberly. "You knew you were playing with a dangerous character when you went after him, and the mutilated hand was a sort of insignia of crime. I understand precisely, and I'm sure I'd have felt the same way."

"You're trying to be sympathetic," Janet smiled. "But it was silly of me to go to pieces that way, and you know it . . . That's about the end of the story, except what you saw. As for Hugh Temple—I know you think I'm mad, Dick, but I couldn't be mistaken. . . . He had me part way in the car . . . when he saw you coming, you know. In that instant I saw Hugh as plainly as I see you at this moment. The street light opposite cast a sickly glow over the back seat . . . his face was ghastly pale. . . . I think he was trying to speak to me, but I'm not sure. . . . All I'm sure of is that he was tied down to that back seat, feet and hands, and that something like a black bandage was bound across the lower part of his face . . ."

Once more her weary little body was tense, her face flushed, her eyes staring through the wall before her at a silent, helpless Temple.

"All that was a matter of a split second, Dick. And then I was being hauled out to the sidewalk and . . ."

Dick slipped an arm about her and pressed his cheek to hers. "You're marvelous, Janet! . . . You've been through enough to put the average young woman in a sanitarium, and here you sit quietly describing every detail of the experience. You're one in ten million!"

"Hum!" said Janet, leaning heavily against him; "that sounds like the well-known hooey to me. I set out to catch a bold, bad man and find out where Hugh was being held. I see both Hugh and the bad man and let both get away from me. You can't make a heroine out of me after that."

"As if the effort wasn't heroic in the highest sense," said Dick. "But the story's ended. Now let's talk about something less unpleasant . . . unless, of course, you're ready to be sensible and go to your room."

Janet replied positively: "I am not! And I won't be forced to go to bed by a lecture of 'How to Keep Fit' or anything else. If you're so sleepy as all that . . . scat!"

Dick shifted an inch nearer—incidentally, the last inch—and pulled her head over against his shoulder. That being the case," he told her sofuly, "I've something important to get off my mind. . . ."

"Shoot, son! I'm quite open to a new subject. If you know anything interesting, I'm dying to hear it."

"I know," Dick said warmly, "that you're the most wonderful girl in the whole world, and that I love you with all the strength of my heart and soul."

Janet cocked her head on one side and looked up to meet the old familiar smile. "I'm dead already," she declared, laughing lightly, "but there's a crack in the record. There's only one most wonderful girl in the world, and the last I heard the title was held by Helen Morgan."

"How long has it been," Dick asked, "since I told you in plain English that I not only loved you but was determined to marry you?"

Janet's smile faded. "You couldn't have meant that, Dick. I knew then that you were saying things you didn't mean, and I know it now. There are a thousand reasons, I suppose, why you and I will never go beyond the point where we are at this moment; but the most important of the lot is that Helen Morgan will not give you up."

Dick's handsome face darkened. "Is that a roundabout way of saying that you don't love me, Janet?"

"That's the most direct way I know of saying what is true. It's all very flattering, Dick, to have you make love to me, and there have been moments when I've thought that we could be very happy . . . married. But I'm saving myself heartaches . . . heartaches that are sure to follow when I've allowed myself to accept the dream as reality and waked up to find you married to the girl you're engaged to."

Dick was silent. He stared grimly at the ornate figures in the rug at his feet. His brows hovered above his eyes like dark clouds.

Dick jumped up angrily and towered above her. "Will you quit talking to me as if I were an infant?" he demanded sharply. "I've seen the two of you together, haven't I?"

Janet said quietly: "Yes; we were sitting over there . . . and you were so completely under her spell that you let her insult me. . . . Oh, I know you had a good reason to behave as you did then, Dick. You've explained all that. But it doesn't change the fact that Helen was more in your mind than I was. Helen is no child, Dick. All her life she's had what she wanted, and when she comes back, she'll have you . . . just as she had you before she went away."

Dick swore violently. "You're picturing me as a helpless fool, Janet, and you know it. I've definitely made up my mind to break my engagement to Helen. Nothing under heaven could change me. I'd thought that I'd wait until she came back and do the thing decently. But now I won't. I'll cable her tomorrow. I'll——"

Janet said firmly: "No you won't, Dick. I've made you mad, but when you've cooled off, you'll see how foolish such talk is." She was alarmed now. Dick's expression indicated that he meant what he said, that in his present mood he was likely to do something which he would later regret.

Moreover, Janet was weakening in her own resolution to see things clearly and honestly, to make Dick see them so. Even while she had argued against his impetuous declaration of love for her, her heart had cried out in protest. And now, as he stood before her, angry and hurt, her one impulse was to pull him down beside her and tell him that she loved him . . . loved him too much for her own good . . . and wanted him more than all else . . .

Still, she held grimly to her course, making one last effort to resist the commands of her heart. "I think we made a mistake to talk about all this tonight, Dick," she told him. "We're both tired and a little upset. Let's forget we've said anything at all, and tomorrow, or some time when we're fresh and sane, we'll try to think it all out. . . . If you're still interested, of course."

The little lump high on Dick's cheek disappeared and his face cleared like a child shamed out of anger. "I'm sorry, Janet," he said gently, dropping down beside her. "You've had strain enough without my adding to it. . . . The truth is, darling, father and I were discussing you while coming in from the field and I suppose it left me with a feeling that I ought to settle the thing at once."

"You and Mr. Tolbert discussed me? . . . I don't follow, Dick."

"Oh, I don't know how it came up, but father asked me if I was being fair with you. . . . He'd noticed one thing and another that led him to suspect that I was falling in love with you, I suppose. . . . At any rate, he said I ought to make up my mind and if I still loved Helen . . ."

"Yes, if you still loved Helen, you'd tell me as much. Was that it?"

"Well, yes. The point was, he didn't want me to continue an engagement with one woman when I'm in love with another."

"No," Janet corrected: "the point was that Mr. Tolbert wanted to bring you to your senses before it was too late. . . . But instead of telling me that you love Helen, you——"

"I've told you, Janet, that I love you. I'm not excited now, child. I'm quite calm and reasonable; but I repeat that I love you as no other man can ever love you; as I can never love another woman. Won't you believe that, Janet?"

He put a hand under her chin and forced her to look at him.

"Mightn't you feel different tomorrow, Dick?"

"Not tomorrow, sweetheart, nor next year; not in the next world or the world after. Good Lord, Janet, I've thought of nothing but you since that first ride in the Postman . . . day and night it's Janet, Janet, Janet . . . everything reminds me of you . . . every thought I have is influenced by my feeling for you. Why——"

"Whoa!" Janet cried laughing. "I believe you. I'll have to believe you before you get downright poetic. Now don't look hurt, Dick. You know I believe you; and you must know how important and puffed up it makes me feel to know that you do love me. I mean that, Dick. There's still Helen to think about, and lots of other things—from your side, I mean. But . . . Oh, Dick!"—she suddenly threw her arms about his neck and buried her face in his coat—"I can't fight Helen's battle for her any longer. . . . I—I've tried so hard, but I love—love you too much. I c-c-can't let her have you. I can't, I can't——"

Fifth Avenue Fashion

A quaint, pretty dimity frock, with fullness falling from round yoke, is fetching for wee maids of 2, 4 and 6 years.

It is given French accent through touch of embroidery on yoke and in border effect at the hem.

It may also be made with short sleeves.

Style No. 689 takes but 1 3-8 yards of 40-inch material with 1-2 yard of 36-inch contrasting and 3 1-2 yards of trimming for the 4-year-old.

Emb. Trans. No. 11001 (blue), costs 15 cents extra.

Orchid and white gingham check with yoke and border of plain orchid is pretty and practical.

Buttercup yellow linen with white sheer linen yoke printed in yellow dots is very effective.

Pale blue dotted swiss, pink handkerchief lawn, tub silks and organdy in Nile green shade are cute ideas.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Dept., Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Inclosed is 15 cents. Please send to Man Again to Try To Harness Gulf

$1,000,000 Tube Sinking Blamed on Disregard of Instructions.

Havana, June 27 (A.P.).—Prof. Georges Claude, French scientist, who through mishap twice has failed to prove his contention that Gulf waters are capable of furnishing the cheapest industrial power in existence, today announced he would try again.

He is convinced his last failure to launch successfully his experimental tube into the Bay of Matanzas was due to malicious disregard of his instructions. He said that within the next two months he would build and launch a new tube, this time under full protection of the Cuban government.

Dr. Claude asserted that "wilful disobedience of orders," due to the intervention of a "party or parties not in sympathy to the success of the experiment," caused the great steel tube, costing $1,000,000, to break its moorings and lose itself in the bottom of the sea. "I visited President Machado," he added, "and he assured me he was in favor of my continuing the experiments."

Hundred Workers Flee As Roof Tank Falls

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—A hundred workers, twenty of them women, escaped injury today when the roof of a ten-story loft building on Duane street in lower Manhattan collapsed, hurtling a 28,000-gallon water tank two floors.

A skeleton crew was at work in the building, most of them on the ninth floor. They heard a dull rumbling, the building began to quiver. Panic-stricken, they dashed to the hallways and an instant later the tank crashed through the spot where a number of them had been working.

Howard Heads Educators.

New Orleans, June 27 (A.P.).—The Right Rev. Francis W. Howard of Covington, Ky., again has been chosen president of the National Catholic Education Convention. All other officers were reelected except in the position of treasurer general which was filled by the selection of the Right Rev. Mgr. John J. Bonner, of Philadelphia.

Yancey Reaches Buenos Aires.

Buenos Aires, June 27 (A.P.).—Capt. Lewis A. Yancey, American aviator making an air tour of South America, arrived here at 3:15 p. m., today at the Moron Civil Aviation airdrome.

CLAIRVOYANTS

CLAIRVOYANT THE MAN WHO KNOWS
608 12th St. N.W.
Over Woolworth's 5c & 10c Store

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. He tells you when and whom you will marry, whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.

Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

Receivership Refused For F.H. Smith Building

Justice William Hitz, in District of Columbia Supreme Court, yesterday overruled a petition for receivership for the F. H. Smith Co. Building, filed recently by Miss Grace Cauldwel, who holds one of the first mortgage bonds secured by the structure.

The matter has been under advisement for several weeks and collectors appointed by the court have been collecting all revenue from the building. The Smith company was represented in the matter by Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and Rudolph H. Yeatman.

Jones Act Case Faced By Baltimore Deputy

Edward A. Hamilton, deputy sheriff of Baltimore, and Richard Lusby, of the same city, were placed under bonds of $2,500 yesterday when arraigned in Police Court on charges of violating the Jones act. Both were ordered held for grand jury action.

The two men were arrested Thursday night by Washington police and alleged liquor was found in their automobile, it was reported. Charges of carrying concealed weapons booked against the deputy were dismissed by the United States attorney's office.

Two From Capital To Attend Council

Congregational Meeting to Be Held in London July 1 to 8.

Two well-known Washingtonians are on the program of the International Congregational Council, which meets at Bournemouth, England, July 1 to 8, the Rev. Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational Church, and Dr. William Knowles Cooper, former secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who is chairman of the National Congregational laymen's advisory committee.

Church union, world peace and prohibition are the foremost topics on the program. A proposal to unite the United Church of South India, the Wesleyan Methodist Church of South India and the Anglican Church of India, Ceylon and Burma will be taken up.

A Fourth of July banquet will be held at which Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald will speak and a message from President Hoover will be read. Messages will also be read from former President Calvin Coolidge and King George V.

Man, 80, Given Freedom In Case of 6-Cent Theft

Charged with stealing 6 cents from a newsstand, Thomas Mason, 80-year-old Negro, was given his freedom in Police Court yesterday by Judge John P. McMahon. The judge took the man's personal bond.

Mason was arrested Thursday by Policeman L. Payne, of the Second Precinct, while in the act of taking the money, according to testimony. The policeman stated that he had been detailed to watch a newsstand on Fourteenth street northwest near L street, where it had been reported several magazines and considerable money had been stolen.

Dr. Baker Again Dental Examiner.

Dr. Chester A. Baker yesterday was reappointed by the District Commissioners to be a member of the District Board of Dental Examiners for a term of five years, effective July 1, the day after his present term expires. Dr. Baker's reappointment was on motion of Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer. Dr. Baker was the first recommendation of the District of Columbia Dental Society.

Two Men Snatch Woman's Purse.

Two unidentified men jumped from an automobile and snatched a purse from Miss Alma Otterstrom, of 1900 Lamont street northwest, near her home last night, Tenth Precinct police were informed. The pocketbook contained $7 and miscellaneous articles.

Former Police School Head Reduced to Ranks

Sergt. Odessa S. Hunt, former head of the Police Training School, yesterday was demoted to private when the District Commissioners confirmed the decision of the Police Trial Board, which found him guilty of intoxication while off duty.

The Trial Board's sentence of a fine of $200 and demotion was confirmed by a vote of 2 to 1, Inspector Louis J. Stoll, board chairman, insisting that Sergt. Hunt be dismissed from the force as had other policemen convicted of intoxication. Hunt appealed from the Trial Board sentence and Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby ordered him to appear before the police board of surgeons and submit to other examinations. Under the law, the Commissioners may not increase the severity of sentences imposed by the Trial Board, but they may lessen the severity of the sentence.

MORE WASHINGTON PORTRAITS SOUGHT BY FESTIVAL GROUP

Better Likenesses Can Be Found, Committee on Bicentennial Says.

Selection of the "best likeness" of George Washington, to be used as the official portrait of the first President during the bicentennial celebration in 1932, has been held up until the portrait committee is able to obtain a number of additional reproductions for study.

After conferring at length yesterday, the committee decided that the paintings and reproductions of portraits of Washington now in its possession do not include "satisfactory material" from which to make a final selection, and the committee therefore will take no definite action until the additional copies are obtained.

The pictures sought, it was explained, are not all new, but rather "new slants" on reproductions already in the hands of the group "to fill in a series." Only about four pictures are involved, it was stated, and when these are secured, the committee will resume its deliberations.

Dr. Leicester B. Holland, chief of the Division of Fine Arts of the Library of Congress, is chairman of the committee, which includes also Charles Moore, of the Fine Arts Commission; Dr. John C. Fitzpatrick, expert on Washingtoniana of the Library of Congress; Col. Harrison B. Dodge, superintendent of Mount Vernon; Ezra Winter, of New York, painter and critic; Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, of Cambridge, Mass., historian of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, and Gari Melcher, noted painter of Selmouth, Va.

Crowds Expected For End of Novena

St. Aloysius' Church Will Be Scene of Rites for Martyrs.

The Rev. M. F. Fitzpatrick, S. J., rector of St. Aloysius Catholic Church, expects all attendance records at his church to be broken at the 7 o'clock mass on Sunday morning, when the novena for the American martyrs will be ended.

A special section of the church has been reserved for the members of "The Mother's Guild" of Washington, which is composed of mothers and other relatives and friends of Jesuit scholastics and priests.

During the novena, this week, thousands of petitions have been placed on the altar, coming from many parts of the country—from the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, New York State, Kansas, Pennsylvania and other States.

Relics of the new saints will be presented for veneration after the mass on Sunday.

Woman Hurt in Crash And One Driver Held

Miss Anna Mae Carder, 23 years old, of 1900 P street northwest, suffered shock, lacerations of the right knee and a possible fracture of a right rib early last night at Seventeenth street and New York avenue northwest in an automobile collision. She was admitted to Emergency Hospital overnight.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Mrs. Erma Jean Huckstead, 26 years old, of Twenty-first street near M street northwest. John A. Hurley, 27 years old, of Seaton place near Third street northeast, driver of the other machine, a taxicab, was booked at the Third Precinct station on reckless driving charges. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Lawyer Goes on Trial Under Ethics Charge

Attorney Thomas J. Ahearn was placed on trial yesterday before the four judges of Police Court in special session on a charge of unethical practice. He is the first of five attorneys who practice in the Police Court who have been cited and who face disbarment if convicted.

Ahearn was charged in testimony introduced at the trial with approaching persons who had not solicited his services as an attorney. The case went over until next Wednesday, when Ahearn himself is expected to testify.

CHEVY CHASE CHILDREN HAVE FLOWER SHOWER FOR HOSPITALS

CHARITIES GIVEN AID BY SPAULDING WILL

PHYSICIAN GETS $5,000

Charles A. Spaulding, director of the American Security & Trust Co., and widely known Washington financier, left the bulk of his estate to a number of cousins, but also provided for his family physician and bequeathed $20,000 for the care of the church and parish buildings at Saugerties, Ulster County, N. Y. No estimate of the value of the estate was disclosed.

Dr. Robert W. Baker is the family physician, and he is left $5,000, the will which was filed yesterday in District Supreme Court reveals. Note is made that the bequest is made because of the physician's efforts to preserve the health of the testator and his wife.

Bequests totaling $24,000 were distributed among employes as follows: W. Everett Christian, $10,000; Mary A. Stinchcombe, $5,000; Henry M. Snyder, $2,500; Hazel T. Allyn, Sarah Larkin, Kathryn McGlynn, $2,000 each, and William Smith, janitor, $500.

One-half of the estate is bequeathed to five cousins, Eleanor Deming, Harold Deming, Constance D. Lewis, Guy S. Deming and Agatha Deming. From the remainder the New York church is to receive $20,000, the Washington Home for Incurables and the St. John's Orphanage are to receive $5,000 each. After that several special bequests totaling almost $100,000 are to be taken care of and the remaining estate is also to go to the cousins.

Harold Deming and the Franklin American Trust Co., of St. Louis, are named executors.

Antipact Speech Made by Robinson

Safety of U. S. Imperiled by London Treaty, Says Indiana Senator.

Declaring there are many incongruities and inequalities in the London Naval Treaty, Senator Arthur R. Robinson (Republican), of Indiana, urged its defeat last night in an address broadcast over the National Broadcasting Co.'s network from Station WRC.

"I firmly believe its acceptance would very greatly imperil the safety and security of the United States," he said, "and it is therefore devoutly to be hoped that it will never be ratified by the Senate. We do not seek war with any power. We desire only peace with all the world. But we have grave responsibilities resting on our shoulders, and if attacked we must be ever prepared to defend out heritage."

The Indiana senator compared the London naval conference with the Washington and the Geneva meetings. The former, he said, "gives us nothing approaching parity."

Laundry Blaze Does $500 Damage.

A Chinese laundry at 4915 Georgia avenue northwest was almost destroyed by fire early last night when a short circuit occurred in a washing machine. Damage amounting to $500 was reported. The place was covered by insurance. The laundry is owned by Joe Ebolen, of 4422 Georgia avenue northwest.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

"WHEN," asked Luella, "are we going to take our villeggiatura?"

"Our what?" I gasped.

"Our villeggiatura."

She was looking over some country magazines, reading the resort ads.

"Villeggiatura. That's a new one on me, Luella. What is it—a new game, or a sun bath, or something like that?"

She smiled, the satisfaction of having something on me: "The villeggiatura," she said, "is an old Venetian custom——"

"Oh, it's a custom——"

"And a very fine one, too," she enthused. "We must, before long, take our villeggiatura."

* * * *

SHE seemed so determined about it, I knew in my bones we were going to take a villeggiatura—whether or not; but what I wanted to find out was just what a villeggiatura might be.

"What is this thing you call the villeggiatura?" I pleaded.

"As I started to tell you, when you interrupted me, it's a trip into the country——"

A trip into the country. Imagine calling that a villeggiatura. A picnic I'd call it.

"Your idea of the country is all wrong," flashed Luella. "The country is nature at its best. The city is man's work——"

* * * *

HERE she was slamming the city, where we make our living.

"I don't think that's just the right thing to do, Luella. The city is all right, and the country is, too—but I wouldn't want to live there."

"We're not going to live there. We're just going to take our villeggiatura—a rest."

* * * *

HEAVENS knows we need a rest, so the villeggiatura is all right with me.

"Then the first thing we've got to do is get up early tomorrow morning and take to the roads before traffic gets too heavy," she said.

"Get up early? What d'yuh mean, early?"

"Oh, about 5 o'clock——"

"Five o'clock in the morning?"

"Certainly; if we're going on a villeggiatura."

"If we're going on our villeggiatura at 5 a. m., it'll be a dream voyage," said I, declaring myself—and that was the end of our villeggiatura. Nobody but farmers get up at that ungodly hour.

Bar to Entertain Foreign Lawyers

Attorneys of Five Nations to Visit Washington in August.

Attorneys of England, Ireland, Scotland, France and Canada who will visit Washington August 26, 27 and 28 will be royally entertained by members of the Washington bar, beginning with an elaborate program on their first day here.

The Lawyers Club will tender the visitors a luncheon at noon at the Chevy Chase Club. At 4 o'clock that afternoon the President and Mrs. Hoover will be hosts at a garden party at the White House, to be followed by a reception and dinner at the Pan-American Building, with Attorney General William D. Mitchell as host.

Lieut. Col. J. Miller Kenyon is chairman of a large committee of Washington lawyers. The vice chairmen are William R. Vallance, J. Harry Covington, Charles Henry Butler and Mary M. Connelly, with F. Regis Noel as secretary and Sidney F. Taliaferro as treasurer.

Cassidy Acquitted On One Rum Count

"Man in Green Hat" Must Face Trial on Second, Court Rules.

George L. Cassidy, reputed congressional bootlegger, who is familiarly known as "the man in the green hat," was freed of one liquor charge yesterday, but must stand trial on another. This was made certain when Justice Peyton Gordon handed down his decision yesterday on two motions to suppress evidence.

Cassidy and John T. Gately, said to be his father-in-law, won an acquittal from the court on the grounds of illegal search and seizure. Both were arrested near the Senate Office Building and a quantity of liquor was found by prohibition agents who said they had been given a tip that liquor was to be delivered to the building by Cassidy. The justice ruled that there was no "probable cause" for the arrest of the two men.

Cassidy, however, was not so fortunate in the other case which originated when a police raiding squad seized him under similar circumstances. The justice ruled that the policemen knew Cassidy by reputation and that their search and seizure was within the law. He pointed out that Sergt. George Little, leader of the police squad, had been in court on one occasion when Cassidy was arraigned on a liquor charge.

Alt Named Executor of Mother's Will.

George P. Alt, of 4718 Chesapeake street northwest, is the sole beneficiary and executor of the estate of his mother, Mrs. Jennie Alt, who died here on March 23, it was revealed yesterday when Mrs. Alt's will was filed for probate in New York City. Mrs. Alt left an estate of $8,000 in New York State in addition to property outside of New York.

Former Capital Man to Wed.

Richard Gambill Hodge, formerly of Washington, obtained a marriage license in New York City yesterday to wed Miss Vilette Jones, of New York. They plan to marry today at Grace Church, Broadway and Eleventh street. Mr. Hodge is a dry goods commission merchant. He was born in Washington, the son of Edwin and Juliet Sewell Hodge. He now lives in Chicago.

De Priest Alabama Speech Canceled

Representative Will Talk to Convention in Little Rock.

That Representative Oscar De Priest, of Illinois, who recently defied the Ku Klux Klan when notified to stay out of Alabama, will not speak there at a convention of Mosaic Templars July 17 was learned yesterday when a telegram was received at the office of the colored representative that the convention had been called off in Birmingham and transferred to Little Rock, Ark., national headquarters of the Mosaic order.

The telegram was signed by Scipio Jones, head of the organization, wealthy Arkansas Negro. The change to Little Rock, it was thought, was brought about by a misinterpretation of Representative De Priest's insistence that the city auditorium be secured in Birmingham for his address there. This auditorium had at first been secured, but later denied to De Priest by civic authorities in Birmingham.

The executive committee of the Ministers' Interdenominational Alliance, through R. W. Brooks, its president, yesterday forwarded a resolution to Gov. Graves, of Alabama, and to Speaker Longworth deploring "the un-American attitude exhibited by certain Alabama citizens who burned the effigy of Representative Oscar De Priest and threatened him by telegraph."

Two Hurt in Gas-Blast Fire in Service Station

The lives of three men were endangered when fire, started by a gasoline explosion, broke out yesterday afternoon in the Hargis service station, Twelfth street and Ohio avenue northwest, opposite the new Internal Revenue Building.

Starting near an automobile, the flames cut through the ceiling of the second floor of the structure before firemen extinguished the blaze. B. F. Spalding, 23 years old, owner of the automobile around which the fire started, was thrown against the wall by the explosion. Walter Veldenz, 1723 P street northwest, was scorched on the arm and Fuller Sisson, of 433 G street northwest, who was in the automobile, was unharmed.

Padlocks Placed On Three Places

Two Used as Bottle Supply Houses, According to Petition.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins yesterday signed an order padlocking the premises at 45 and 47 H street northeast and immediately afterwards deputy marshals closed the two establishments for one year.

Both places have been used as bottle supply houses for a number of years, according to the petition for injunction filed by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover.

Shortly afterwards the deputies padlocked the premises at 496 Maryland avenue southwest for six months by agreement with Attorney E. Russel Kelly, counsel for the defendants in the proceedings. Both actions were brought under the nuisance sections of the national prohibition act.

Trusty Flees District Jail.

Carl Williams, 33 years old, who lives on Lamont street near Fifth street northwest, a trusty at the District Jail, escaped from that institution yesterday. He was serving a sentence of ten days on a drunkenness charge.

SCIENTIFIC SECURITY LAW FOR CITY URGED

Better Business Bureau Aid Says Investors Should Be Protected.

35 TRUSTEES SELECTED

Stressing the need for a securities law for the District, Louis Rothschild, secretary of the Better Business Bureau, reporting at the annual meeting yesterday, pointed out that although the organization has no objection to speculation as such, the buyer of securities has a right to know when the issue purchased is speculative and "not a gilt-edged conservative investment."

Mr. Rothschild declared that probably the most constructive work of the bureau during the past year has been in the curtailment of "circus advertising" by merchants, the use of superlative and extravagant statements in advertising, which "inspires disbelief, appears ridiculous, and tears down public confidence."

The following 35 members of the bureau were elected to the board of trustees for the coming fiscal year:

F. G. Addison, jr., secretary Savings & Commercial Bank; Edward C. Baltz, Perpetual Building Association; Isaac Behrend, M. Philipsborn & Co.; Y. E. Booker, Y. E. Booker & Co.; B. B. Burgunder, S. Kann Sons Co.; A. E. Case, Palais Royal; Joshua Evans, jr., District National Bank; James Hardey, Woodward & Lothrop; William G. Galliher, 1010 Vermont avenue northwest; M. G. Gibbs, Peoples Drug Stores; Ralph Goldsmith, Lansburgh & Bro.; E. C. Graham, National Electric Supply Co.; Gerald D. Grosner, Grosner's, Inc.; Harry H. Hahn, Wm. Hahn & Co.; H. G. Hoskinson, Riggs National Bank; Thomas E. Jarrell, Thos. E. Jarrell Co.; Sylvan King, King's Palace; Philip L. Baldwin, D. C. Life Underwriters.

M. A. Leese, M. A. Leese Optical Co.; Louis Levay, Frazee-Potomac Laundry; John D. Leonard, Washington Savings Bank; H. H. Levi, the Hecht Co.; R. B. H. Lyon, Lyon & Lyon; C. H. Firecracker Lands Auto Driver in Jail

Baltimore Man Accused of Tossing Fireworks at Another Car.

Wilson Brown, of Baltimore, Md., was arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown on charges of reckless driving arising from the tossing of firecrackers at passing automobiles. He was held for action of the Prince Georges County Police Court by Justice of the Peace George Phillips, of Berwyn.

Deputy Brown was at Judge Phillips' office in Berwyn when a passing motorist complained that a car following him had been throwing firecrackers at his car since he passed the District line. The policeman waited until the alleged offender passed and then trailed Brown's car, he said.

The Baltimorean is alleged to have tossed a firecracker on the hood of the policeman's car. He was driving his car in a zigzag manner and the policeman halted him, later taking him to the office of Judge Phillips.

Mate Requests Court To Dismiss Wife's Suit

Charging that his wife was fond of the "gay life" and that as a result he had been forced to be both father and mother to their children, Abraham E. Stern, of Columbia road northwest near Seventeenth street, yesterday answered the suit for limited divorce and maintenance filed against him recently in District Supreme Court by Mrs. Violet C. Stern, whose address is the same as that of the husband.

The wife charged that her husband had failed to pay the grocery bills and that as a result she and the children were forced to subsist on eggs for a considerable period. Stern denied this charge and declares that he has always turned his salary of $125 a week over to his wife. Attorney Simon Hirshman appears for Stern, who asks the court to dismiss his wife's bill.

POTENTIAL STRIKE LOOMS AT G. P. O. ON LONGER HOURS

Employes May Refuse to Report for Work at Time Carter Set.

Prospects of a "potential strike" loomed large in the vicinity of the Government Printing Office last night as employes rose in revolt against the action of Public Printer George H. Carter in ordering 200 of them to work an extra hour daily because he suspects two of gambling, of which he disapproves.

The "strike" is expected to take the form of concerted refusal to report for work earlier than 9 o'clock or to work later than 4:30, thus preserving the same hours as have been in effect heretofore. It is expected that the movement will be put into practice tomorrow, when the "nervous" workers are expected to be brought into line with their more independent coworkers.

Many Belong to Union.

Of the 200 employes affected by the order requiring them to start work at 8 o'clock hereafter, many are union printers paid on a time basis, who thus would earn more money under the new schedule. The others, however, are salaried employes who will lose an hour a day, despite the fact that there is no evidence with which to accuse them of ignoring the public printer's attitude toward gambling.

Many of the printers, if not all, are expected to join with the salaried employes in protest as a matter of principle, resenting the attempt of the public printer to dictate their personal expenditure of their private funds. They hold that Mr. Carter is "merely a supervisor, and not an employer," and that he therefore has no license to "punish" many innocent employes because he happens to disagree with the manner in which a few wish to spend their own earnings.

Carter Silent on Move.

Mr. Carter refused yesterday to discuss the situation, other than to say that he could see no reason why the workers should object to the extra hour.

For several months Mr. Carter has been waging war against gambling, even to the extent of banning newspapers which contain racing news or information.

Charles and Mary To Leave District

Strangely Robed Religious Couple Is Freed of Vagrancy Charge.

Charles and Mary, who style themselves as "Disciples of Christ," were freed of vagrancy charges yesterday in Police Court on their "solemn promise" to leave Washington.

Judge Gus A. Schuldt, before whom they were arraigned, after hearing the evidence declared he would take the personal bond of both, but when they refused to swear to the oath the judge dismissed the charges on "their solemn promise."

The man and woman, who were arrested Thursday night at Wisconsin avenue and M street, appeared in court in the same garb they wore when arrested—tattered robes and sandals. Neither would give the police a surname and when arraigned they answered to just Charles and Mary.

Woman Injured as Car Turns Turtle in Crash

Overturning of the automobile she was driving when it collided with another machine early last night at Twenty-sixth and K streets northwest resulted in severe lacerations of the forehead and a possible fracture of the left arm to Mrs. Alice Grace Bennett, 31 years old, of Aurora Hills, Va. She was treated overnight at Emergency Hospital.

Isaac Hooper Jones, 29 years old, of Paris, Tenn., driver of the other car, was booked at the Third Precinct station on reckless driving charges and released on $1,000 bond. He said he was visiting Charles M. Campbell on Oliver street in Chevy Chase.

THEFT OF HISTORIC VIOLIN REPORTED; DOMESTIC SEIZED

166-Year-Old Instrument Is Stolen From Home of Mrs. Carrol.

VALUE ONCE PLACED AT $1,000 BY OWNER

Fashioned in London, It Was Destroyed on Death-Bed by Englishman.

Fashioned of mahogany in London 166 years ago, played before a President of the United States on an auspicious occasion years ago at the Naval Academy, and finally dismantled by its proud possessor as his dying gesture, a violin once valued at $1,000 met an inglorious fate here yesterday when it was stolen from a family at 1854 Wyoming avenue northwest.

Mrs. William Carrol bequeathed the cherished possession by her father, reported the loss to Eighth Precinct police, who arrested Clarence E. Shaw, colored, 17 years old, an employe of the residence, for investigation in connection with the theft.

Treasured for its associations and as an heirloom, meriting an affection that won for it the name Betsy, the violin came to the family as a gift from a one-time noted violinist, who played in concert at Annapolis before a notable assembly numbering the Nation's Chief Executive. These facts were furnished from the residence.

The instrument was made in 1764 by Charles and William Thompson in St. Paul's Churchyard, in London. The father of Mrs. Carrol prized the violin so highly that on his deathbed he kept it beside him and finally, visioning the end near, ripped out the strings, tore away the bridge and otherwise impaired its sound qualities that the end for both might come together.

Four Charges Filed In Triple Car Crash

As an aftermath of a collision with two other automobiles last night at New Jersey and H streets northwest, Second Precinct police a short time later booked four charges against Andrew Doonis, 35 years old, of Staples street, near Morse street northeast. They were hit and run, reckless driving, defective brakes and operation of a car on a revoked permit.

Doonis was taken to the station by Ben Harris, of 801 L street northwest, operator of a taxicab, which Harris told police had been struck by Doonis' machine when the latter ran against a red light, backed into another car and then sped away. Harris said he finally caught Doonis at First and M streets northwest after a chase.

Graveley's Successor Makes Liquor Arrest

Making his debut in his new role as "liquor man" of the Third Precinct, a promotion made by his captain and dependent only on confirmation by Maj. Pratt, Policeman F. O. Brass yesterday nabbed an alleged dry law violator a few minutes after he assumed his duties. He succeeds Spottswood F. Gravely.

Halting a colored youth carrying a bundle at Twenty-second and P streets northwest, Brass foiled an attempt to hurl the package to the pavement. He made the arrest and seized five quarts of alleged liquor, he reported. The youth gave his name as Marion Johnson, 19 years old, of Twentieth street near D street northwest. He was charged with transportation and possession.

L. S. Dergens Dies; Landscape Artist

Native of Austria, He Was in Administrative Treasury Post.

Louis S. Dergans, 40 years old, Washington painter, of 2019 I street northwest, died yesterday following an operation at Emergency Hospital. He was employed as administrative assistant in the office of the chief clerk of the Treasury Department.

A native of Vienna, Austria, Mr. Dergans came to Washington in 1912 and was naturalized, later serving in the World War with the United States. He was a member of the Washington Arts Club, where he had the first exhibition in the completed new gallery. He also belonged to the Washington Landscape Club, Washington Centennial Lodge of Masons and the American Legion.

A graduate of the Corcoran School of Art and the San Francisco School of Art, he had also studied in Paris and Vienna. Among his portraits are those of former President Harding and of Secretary Mellon.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Ursula Dergans, of Vienna; a daughter, Helen Louise Dergans, of Denver; two sisters, Mrs. Christian Shober and Mrs. Therese Hoffman, both of Salt Lake City, and three brothers, Dr. Franz Dergans, of Vienna; Ralph Dergans, of Denver, and John Dergans, of Colorado Springs. Funeral arrangements had not been made last night.

MRS. JESSIE F. DEAL DIES.

Brief Illness Fatal of Employe of Treasury Department.

Mrs. Jessie Farley Deal, an employe in the comptroller's office of the Treasury Department since 1920, died yesterday after a brief illness at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William E. Curtis, 6225 Twelfth street northwest.

A native of Danville, Va., Mrs. Deal came to Washington in 1916. She was 52 years old. Besides Mrs. Curtis, she is survived by another daughter, Mrs. C. J. Donoghue, of Boston, and a son, Robert S. Deal, of Pittsburgh. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the residence. Interment will be in Arlington Abbey.

Mrs. Mahoney Rites Held.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Mattie Taylor Mahoney, mother of Maurice J. Mahoney, Washington attorney, who died Thursday. Services were held at Mr. Mahoney's residence, 4014 Illinois avenue northwest. The body was then sent to Blythe, Ga., for burial.

Delta Sigmas Select Washington.

Washington was selected yesterday for the 1931 convention of the Delta Sigma Fraternity at the closing session of its gathering held in Dallas, Tex., according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Washington State Seeking Olympia, Dewey's Flagship

Bill Would Deliver Boat to City for Which It Was Named Free of Expense to U. S.; Man Offered to Buy It for Capital.

Another bid has been made for a permanent resting place of the historic flagship Olympia, which proudly bore Admiral Dewey in the Manila Bay battle of the Spanish-American War.

Representative Johnson (Republican), of Washington, yesterday introduced a bill to deliver the ship to the State of Washington for use as a memorial at Olympia, the city for which it was named. The city would be charged with the care and maintenance of the vessel and no expense would be incurred by the Federal Government for its delivery from the Philadelphia dry dock, where it now is harbored.

The National Capital made a vigorous effort to secure the ship as a permanent memorial last summer. It was to be stationed in the Tidal Basin so that all tourists and school children might see it along with other show places of the city.

Edward W. Harden, New York financier and former newspaperman, who was one of the three civilians to witness the Manila Bay fight, offered to purchase the vessel outright from the Navy Department and present it to Washington at the time.

The Bureau of the Budget last December put its stamp of disapproval on acceptance of the gift, however, on the ground that it would cost between $12,000 and $15,000 annually to maintain the memorial. Guards and lighting would be the chief expense.
